Feeling 'proud'

Words expressed by 8-year-old summarize veterans' feelings on commemorative day

Proud."

A simple word expressed so much following the Veteran's Day observance at the Antioch Veteran's of Foreign Wars (VFW) Hall in Antioch.

The word was the first response by 8-year-old Oakland Grade School third grader Abram Crosby when asked how it felt to be a part of the special day of remembrance.

"I was really proud I got to go around and salute all of the veterans when we came in," said Crosby, a member of Scout Pack 191, which joined with representatives of the VFW, American Legion and women's auxiliary organizations for both veterans' groups in observing the Nov. 11 tradition.

"I always thought it was something we celebrated for all of the people who served in the war," said Crosby of his idea of Veteran's Day, while enjoying a piece of cake following the ceremonies.

"Courage is one of the virtues which has been born out of war," said Bernard DeVries, Antioch American Legion Post 748 adjutant, among comments during the formal presentation.

Helen DeVries, Bernard's wife and member of the Legion Women's Auxiliary, encouraged those in attendance to consider helping out through the USO at Great Lakes. "Those recruits come in and they can't wait to become active."

DeVries shared one of the reminders of Veteran's Day, the story behind the "Buddy Poppies."

The poppies are used to help raise funds to help veteran's who are hospitalized.

Carolyn Gratz, VFW Auxiliary president, explained a joint project was done this year to get a copy of the "In Flanders Fields" poem and a poppie into the hands of each child in the Antioch area grade schools.

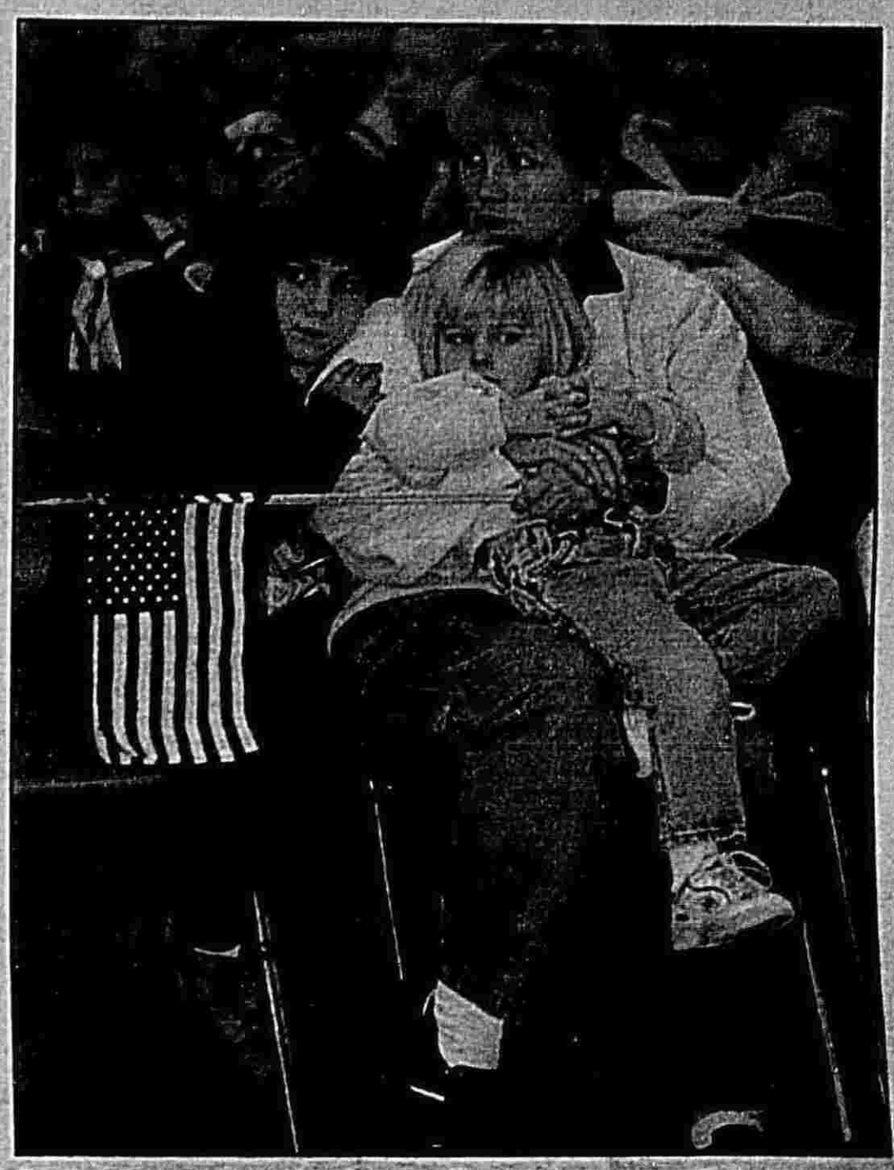

"Through our poppie distribution, we found many people asking what poppies are all about," Gratz explained. "We decided to educate through our children."

A combined effort of the Legion, the VFW and auxiliary members along with 25 volunteer junior high students from Ingleside and parent volunteers, resulted in 3,000 combined poems/poppies to be distributed.

Plans are to continue the joint project in May prior to Memorial Day.

JOE VAN ZANDT
Correspondent

Members of the Antioch Community Consolidated School Board got some disconcerting news at their Nov. 15 meeting.

At the same time the board is proceeding with construction of a major addition to the Antioch Middle School, a developer has announced plans for building a subdivision with 1,390 housing units in the district. Newman Homes has indicated the project, to be located off Highway 173 near Savage Road, will include a mix of single-family houses and townhouses.

The developer has proposed 153 acres be donated to the school district in lieu of payment of impact fees. The board indicated it would have to study the offer.

Upon hearing of the plans, one board member quipped, "We'll need an entire new school for that many kids."

Representatives of Seater Construction Co., Inc., of Racine, Wis., provided a timetable for various phases for the addition to the middle school. It calls for pouring foundations March 1, weather permitting, and masonry walls to be erected between April and September.

Work on a new gymnasium should begin May 1, with the structure enclosed before the onset of the winter of 2000. Work on a cafeteria wing may begin next summer, while the majority of remodeling is to be completed during the summer of 2001.

The school bus storage area is to be partially reconstructed next summer. The board is considering whether to create a temporary parking area for the buses on 25 acres owned by the district at Tiffany Road and North Avenue.

In other business, the board adopted a 1999 property tax levy totalling $10,054,099, which is 6.1 percent higher than the current levy. Board Member Paul Hain, who calculated the levy, said it is likely to be adjusted downward once the total assessed valuation of property within the district is made available by the county.

A public hearing has been scheduled for 6:45 p.m. Dec. 21 so residents of the school district can learn how the levy was calculated and ask questions about how it will affect the school property tax rate.

Exchange experience takes ACHS student to world's center

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ

Spending a year in a country where one has no idea of the language.

Sound a little frightening?

Part one of a series

Admittedly, it was in the beginning.

In the end, it was the experience of a lifetime.

Liz Eisen, 17-year-old Antioch Community High School senior was in Portoviejo, Ecuador from Aug. 28, 1998 through July 6 of this year.

Liz spent the entire time with her host family Childerico and Marina Cevallos Cedeno. The Cedeno's family includes 1-year-old daughter Lucy Domenica, 13-year-old son Danny, 19-year-old daughter Virna and an 18-year-old daughter Andrea who has gone to the United States as an exchange student.

The family also had a dog, Tanga which means "Bikini."

'It's worth it, in the end, you have lots of great memories'

Liz Eisen,
17-year-old Antioch High senior

"Having one family throughout the year, I really miss them," Liz admits. "I have really good memories with them."

"We made a lot of trips, some with other exchange students, or we'd get together at different places," Liz said.

The Amazons and Galapagos Islands were among the trips Liz enjoyed the most.

Activities included a lot of snorkeling, which Liz recalled with great enthusiasm. "I saw a hammerhead shark and several eels," Liz recalled.

The native people enjoyed having parties, according to Liz.

"They had lots of parties," Liz explained. Halloween was celebrated, but in quite a different way from the U.S. There was no going house to house, no candy given or trick or treating. It was still observed in a big way.

In November, there is a weekend festival which includes an unusual tradition. As people are walking through the streets, which are somewhat narrow compared to the U.S., "people throw water at every-

Antioch ready for potential Y2K woes

By JOE VAN ZANDT
Correspondent

The village of Antioch is as ready as any community can be for possible problems that may occur with the arrival of the new millennium.

That appraisal was provided at Monday night's Village Board meeting by Village Administrator Tim Wells. He rattled off a long list of steps that have been taken, in the event the Y2K bug makes an appearance in Antioch late New Year's Eve or early New Year's Day of the year 2000.

"We have been assured that Commonwealth Edison is ready for Y2K," he said. " The gas company is ready, and so is the Antioch Police Department ant the 911 emergency calling network, as well as our new fire station and our (village) computer system. We have not heard back from Ameritech, but I assume they are ready, too."

Nevertheless, Wells said, he intends to take no chances. "If something were to happen, we will have people available to respond. We have a plan."

Wells said police, fire and rescue personnel will be on duty when the new millennium arrives. Emergency vehicles will drive up and down the streets of various neighborhoods and subdivisions, just in case the phones don't work and someone has a problem and needs help.

Other emergency vehicles will be positioned at various high-visibility locations in town. Should traffic signals fail or lights go out, Wells said, emergency personnel will direct traffic.

Wells said he will be on duty in the Antioch Village Hall. "If someone should call the hall, I want to be there to pick up the phone," he said.

If the phones do go out, he said, all emergency vehicles in the village are equipped with two-way radios, so communications will be maintained.

Finally, Wells said, the village has obtained generators capable of operating the two municipal wells, various sewer lift stations and the municipal sewage treatment plant in a power outage. "And if we need a warming area," he said, "the two local schools have agreed to let us use their buildings."

Given the extensive preparations for Y2K, remarked Village Trustee Wayne Foresta, the only way the village could still be seriously affected is if a winter storm blows into town on New Year's Eve. "The weather is not Y2K compliant," he reminded everyone.

In other business, Wells said he is baffled by the large number of phone calls he has received in recent days from people who live outside the village limits. "They have been told they will be getting sewer and water," he said, "and they want to know when. Some of them were very demanding."

To clear the air, Wells reiterated the village's long-standing policy on providing sewer and water service. "We are not running sewer and water to outlying areas unless those areas annex to the village. This has been our policy for more than 20 years."

"And," he added, "our hookup fee is $2,500, not the $1,500 these people have been told. In addition, people should know that if they annex and we provide sewer and water, it is their responsibility to pay for extending the line to the end of their property."

LETTER TO EDITOR

School addresses development

Several folks have asked questions regarding information they saw in the local papers about the potential development of property west of the school across Route 59. This note is intended to clarify the issue and the school board's position.

The 80 acres west of Route 59 has been for sale for about three years. Two years ago a development of about 60 homes was proposed, but the developer eventually dropped their project after failing to come to an agreement with the Antioch Village Planning Commission. This summer the new owners of the property, Diamond Development, had an annexation request rejected by the Planning Commission because they only presented a concept and did not have a defined plan.

The School District has little influence on the approval or disapproval of development within the district, but has responsibility for the long range impact on growth and development on the school facilities and programs. To help with this long range planning the board invited Diamond Development and representatives from the Village of Antioch to the regularly scheduled October meeting of the board. Diamond Development presented a revised detailed plan that included a maximum of 120 upscale custom-built homes, a minimum five year moratorium on the start of the project, and an offer to bring water and sewer service to Emmons School when it is needed, not necessarily waiting until the development starts. The prospect for water and sewer service would require the school property to become annexed to the village.

When the board asked the village representative if this property will, in fact, be developed, the answer was a clear and unequivocal yes, it will be developed, if not by Diamond Development, then by someone else. After full consideration of this proposal and long range prospects for growth in the district, the Board of Education adopted a resolution seeking annexation into the Village of Antioch.

One question is "why the urgency, if the project isn't going to start for at least five years, why does it need to be approved now?" The answer is that the developers are building a water tower to serve the woodland Ridge area, as well as all of Heron Harbor. In order to construct a tower large enough to meet all the required needs, they are asking for a commitment from the Village on the new project and Emmons School. The developers have stated that they plan to proceed with their request from the Village whether Emmons School is part of the proposal or not. In order to insure that the promises made by the developer are legally binding and will be locked-in with the property regardless of owner, the Board needed to act quickly to allow time for preparation of the necessary legal documents.

The rationale for the Board's action is as follows:

• The five year moratorium with a maximum of 120 custom built homes offers a controlled and known factor of impact to the school population. We know there will be no students for at least five years, perhaps longer, and we have estimated the impact to be approximately 10 students per year until the project is completed.

• The school currently has well water and septic services. While everything is working fine at present, we know that we will eventually have to convert to sewer and water services to meet our needs. This developer is offering to bring these services to us as part of our developer agreement, and to bring it as soon as it is needed. To receive these Village services, the school must be annexed into the Village. An additional benefit of annexation is in the area of local police protection and services to the school and students.

• The school district is going to grow-a controlled growth is necessary to have sufficient numbers of students and an adequate tax base to support quality programs. This development project provides the opportunity for control, since we know what is coming and are not forced to guess what might happen to the property. Eleven y ears ago there was significant concern over the potential impact of Heron Harbor on Emmons School. Fortunately, that project has grown slower than was originally proposed allowing the growth to be managed effectively. We believe that Emmons School has a higher quality education program to offer its students today than it did 10 years ago because of the increased tax base and the manageable growth in students.

• It is certain that there will be other developments in the district in the next 10 years. As we said before, the board has limited impact on approval or denial of these projects. There is so much unclear regarding what the future will bring. We have estimated that the current facilities can handle another 75 to 100 students. We anticipate that the proposed project will only bring an additional 35 to 45 students over the next 10 years. This project alone will not cause us to need additional facilities.

Know the biggest restaurant in town?

OUR TOWN

Michael H. Babicz

There's a new restaurant in town! Sort of.

Bet nobody even knows it's there.

Hours are Monday through Friday, approximately 11:00 a.m. to 1 p.m.

It serves about 2,000 people daily.

It's the Antioch Community High School cafeteria.

"We've got the biggest restaurant in town," commented Dr. Dennis Hockney as he led a tour of the school for Antioch Rotary Club members.

Hockney was happy to show off the many completed parts of the remodeling project along with some areas which are still underway.

Several former Antioch grads were among the tour guests. Comments could be heard about how much the school has grown, how sophisticated the materials.

Dr. Mike Anderson, Lake Villa District 41 superintendent, was the resident expert on the color coding "bountiful fruit basket" of iMACS, letting everyone know if the computers were "apricot," "blueberry," "strawberry," etc.

An interesting aspect of the computers is ACHS has over 500 computers within the building for staff and student use. ACHS owns absolutely none of them.

"They're all leased," explained Hockney.

The leases rotate with one third of them having their lease come due each year. That way one-third of the computers are replaced each year.

In addition, many times the computer companies sell the old computers back to the district, sometimes, for $1 apiece!

Those computers are turned into word processors, or sometimes teachers will use them for special projects.

Not a bad way to continually upgrade a computer system.

If you have not had a chance to see the new high school, stop in some time. You may want to call ahead to see if an administrator is available to give you a tour. It will be worth your while.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Mike Babicz at 223-8161, ext. 138 or e-mail, edit @lnd.com."

STUDENT: Exchange experience takes ACHS student to world's center

one," Liz said. "They would take eggs, flower and dirty water and throw it on them. No one would get mad, either. They'd just go home and change their clothes, then go out and have more fun."

Christmas is a special time with the entire family getting together for a "big dinner" which was served at midnight.

New Year's Eve was another major event, especially at midnight.

"I learned the salsa and merengue, two dances," Liz said. The New Year's celebration included taking mannequin of different people and setting them on fire at midnight.

While there, Liz attended school from mid-September through mid-December, which is actually the second half of their regular school year.

Schools are different from the United States in that uniforms are required.

On the other side, if a teacher was not able to be in class for some reason there was no substitute. Instead the students had a free period.

Another difference is the students stay in the same classroom while teachers move from class to class.

Portoviejo is located within a half hour of the beach, an aspect Liz admittedly enjoyed.

Houses all have big fences making them resemble "fortresses" with visitors having to ring buzzers to get in.

The biggest challenge for Liz was "definitely the language" with Spanish being predominantly used.

"I love the food, even though it's fried, it's really good," Liz admits. "The people are really nice, too."

Transportation was quite different as far as the mode used. Most travel was done by either bus or taxi. The cost of a cross town trip by bus was 50 cents, markedly different from the U.S.

Liz family in Antioch includes her parents, Sheila and Robert Eisen, and four brothers, 22-year-old Steve, 21-year-old Dan, 21-year-old Ted and 16-year-old Andy. The family enjoys a cat, Lucy, as well.

One of the unique experiences for Liz was being at the exact center of the world, at the equator. Liz recalled with a laugh straddling the line which signifies that a person is on both sides of the world at the same time.

An aspect Liz will not miss is "cold water showers." They were required to boil their water prior to drinking it.

"Kissing on the cheeks when you're meeting someone or saying good bye" was a custom Liz said she had to get used to.

"It's worth it, in the end, you have lots of great memories," Liz said of giving up a year with your own family and friends to travel to a foreign country to be part of a new family. "Do everything you possibly can."

The close bound Liz has made is evident in her plans to return to visit her "family" and having already had her "mother and little brother" from Ecuador come to visit her in Antioch.

Forest preserve fire burns over 200 acres

By TIM O'DONNELL
Staff Reporter

A marsh fire in a Lake County Forest Preserve incited alarm and action in the surrounding area on Nov. 15.

The fire, which burned at the Fourth Lake Fen, started some time in the afternoon, according to officials.

The blaze shut down Grand Avenue between Route 45 and Sand Lake Road. The road was closed for about an hour, causing major backups around the area.

Lake County Forest Preserve officials are still unsure how the fire started.

At around 3:30 p.m., local fire departments responded to a call about a fire in the marsh. They then contacted forest preserve officials.

"The firefighters worked to protect the houses around the area while our rangers fought the fire," said Andy Kimmel, director of environmental education and public affairs for the forest preserve.

The fire moved from the north to the southeast, fueled by the dried cattails that cover the area.

At one point, flames neared surrounding subdivisions, including the Hillcrest area. Local authorities warned residents that they may have needed to evacuate. Fortunately, evacuation was not necessary.

"From what I saw, there was no danger of any structural damage," said Mike Tully, superintendent of maintenance and natural resource operations for the forest preserve.

The fire was finally extinguished about 7:30 p.m. Controlled burn experts from the forest preserve returned to the scene the next morning to ensure the fire was out.

Rumors that a controlled burn was planned for this area are false.

"This is not an area where we do planned burns because of the houses that are around it," said Tully.

Around 200 acres, or half of the fen area, burned in the fire. According to Kimmel, no ecological damage was caused by the burn.

Beware of carbon monoxide

Carbon monoxide alarms rapidly are taking their place alongside smoke alarms as important, accepted home safety devices. Dennis Volling, chief of the Antioch Fire Department, said this trend could be the beginning of something important to everyone in the community.

"Just as fire fatalities have dropped by more than 34 percent in the last 10 years with the increased use of smoke alarms, we hope to see additional lives saved as carbon monoxide detectors protect more homes." Carbon Monoxide (CO) is a natural by-product of combustion from fuel burning appliances and is invisible to human senses. It can cause health problems, brain damage and even death.

"Carbon monoxide alarms are designed to activate a warning before symptoms appear in healthy adults," said Volling. "An alarm should never be ignored."

While carbon monoxide alarms are designed to detect a CO leak before family members get sick, if the leak is severe enough; flu-like symptoms quickly may begin to appear. This is particularly common among younger or older family members who are more vulnerable to and less tolerant of this poison.

According to Underwriters Laboratories (UL), the independent testing lab that develops standards for the safety and reliability of smoke and CO alarms, if your alarm activates:

- Gather all family members in a pre-designed meeting place and check to be sure everyone is present.
- Determine if anyone is experiencing poisoning symptoms such as headache, nausea, dizziness or disorientation.
- If so, leave the building immediately and call 9-1-1. Do not re-enter until the emergency response personnel say it is safe to do so.
- If no symptoms are present, call the Antioch Police Department dispatch center at 395-8585 and turn off all potential sources of carbon monoxide. Any appliance or machine that runs on fossil fuel such as a gas furnace, water heater, stove, oven, clothes dryer, space heater, fireplace, grill or car left running in an attached garage.
- Open doors and windows to let in fresh air.

To meet manufacturers' directions, a CO alarm should be installed near a sleeping area, either high or low on the wall. A warning, however: the alarm might be triggered, when there is no immediate danger, if a carbon monoxide alarm is installed too close to a potential source. Once such source is directly over a furnace or adjacent to a gas oven (some appliances, when first turned on may emit small amounts of CO).

The International Association of Fire Chiefs recommends that residents install UL-listed carbon-monoxide alarm, get one."

POLICE BEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

Suspended license

David R. Florek, 44, 434 Filweber Court, #3, Antioch was stopped by Antioch Police on Nov. 11 at Route 173 and Harden. Florek was charged with driving on a suspended license and having a muffler with loud, excessive noise.

Thomas G. Ciura, Jr., 26, 1219 Woodridge Dr., Round Lake Beach was stopped by Antioch Police at Main and Ida Streets at 2:17 a.m. Nov. 17. Ciura was charged with speeding, driving while on a suspended license, operating an uninsured vehicle, having no rear registration light on the vehicle, driving without lights when required and failure to signal. Ciura's court date is 10:30 a.m. Dec. 22 at Branch III Court in Grayslake.

Trespassing

Antonio B. Marsala, 18, 404 Donin Drive #304, Antioch was charged by Antioch Police with trespassing at Antioch Community High School at 3:18 p.m. Nov. 16. Marsala had reportedly been warned verbally and through certified letter that if he was found on ACHS property he would be arrested for trespassing. Marsala told police he was aware he was not supposed to be on school property, did not want any trouble, and was there to visit an old friend. Marsala is scheduled to appear in Branch III court at 10:30 a.m. Dec. 8 in Grayslake.

No valid license

Oscar Toribio, 22, 530 Ash Street, Waukegan was stopped by Antioch Police at 12:36 a.m. Nov. 13 at Main and Lake Streets and charged with having no valid driver's license, no insurance and speeding. Toribio is scheduled to appear in Branch III court in Grayslake at 10:30 a.m. Dec. 22.

Jose Ramires, 21, 707 Lake Street, Antioch was stopped by Antioch Police at 2:05 a.m. Nov. 13 and charged with speeding and having no valid driver's license. Ramires is scheduled to appear in Grayslake.

'PROUD': Veterans observe commemorative day have been cooperating in Antioch for many years," said B. DeVries.

Bill Oerly, VFW Post 4551 commander, agreed, adding, "we both have the same flag."

"Some kids don't know how lucky they are to be in this country," said 87-year-old Clarence Larson, American Legion Post finance officer and World War II Navy veteran.

Research is continuing into the oldest living veteran in Antioch. Floyd Horton, who passed away at age 106 this past year, was not only the oldest veteran in Antioch but the oldest in Illinois. Horton, a WWI veteran, was a member of both Antioch posts. His widow, Clare, celebrated her 97th birthday and is living in the Victory Lakes assisted living unit in Lindenhurst.

A commemorative veteran's display, including some of Horton's military materials and uniforms, are being displayed Saturdays 11 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Lakes Historical Society Museum on Main Street in Antioch. The display will continue for the month of November.

Possibly in the running for Antioch's oldest WWII veteran, Larson served as a first class machinist mate, going through boot camp in Idaho then stationed in San Diego, Cal.

"I was scheduled to go to Okinawa about two weeks before the war ended," Larson said. "I had a few buddies I knew in my high school days who left us over there and some of them are buried there."

"I enjoyed being in the Navy, but wouldn't care to go through the war again," Larson admits.

Being part of the joint ceremony with the scouts, Larson is hopeful through education, they will realize what freedom is all about.

"I want these kids to realize this is the best country in the world, simply the greatest," Larson said. "The reason it's so great, just see how many people will swim across a river or smuggle themselves onto a ship just to get in."

"It felt pretty good," said 8-year-old scout Ian Tune, a Oakland Grade School third grader. "When they fired the blanks (gun salute), that was pretty neat."

The reason for the day, according to Tune, summed up the reason many were in attendance inside the VFW Post Hall which doubles for their bingo room.

"They fought in the war for us," Tune said. "They made freedom."

United Way seeking community volunteers

Each year, dedicated United Way Allocations Committee volunteers make critical decisions about how community contributions will be allotted. Individuals are needed, once again. To carefully review proposals submitted by local health and human services agencies for program grants from the Community Fund of United Way of Lake County. Volunteers will participate on panels that convene approximately eight times between January and April 2000 at the United Way of Lake County office in Green Oaks. Anyone interested in allocations volunteering should request and complete the Allocations Committee Questionnaire, returning it to United Way before Dec. 3.

"Volunteering to be an Allocations Committee member is one of the most exciting kinds of involvement. You become a partner in the work to achieve a stronger community through focus, joint venture and your commitment to improve the lives of your neighbors. Through United Way, the community donates, the community benefits, and the community decides which programs will receive funding. As a volunteer on the Allocations Committee, you are an important part of this circle of helping those in need and supporting the most deserving initiatives," said Michelle Crombie, director of planning and fund distribution.

The Community Fund supports more than 100 programs that provide a variety of services including food for the hungry, job skills training for senior citizens, immunizations for low income children, shelter for the homeless, and counseling for substance abuse. All funding recommendations made by Allocations Committee volunteers are passed on to the United Way of Lake County Board of Directors.

Potential Allocations Committee volunteers can request the required questionnaire by contacting United Way of lake County at 816-0063, 2020 O'Plaine Rd., Green Oaks, IL, 60048.

Area native attends Navy reunion in San Francisco

Area native Bill Strahan, along with wife Grace, recently attended a reunion for Navy Carrier Air Group 11 in San Francisco.

The couple have been married 53 years. Both were born and raised on dairy farms along on Highway 173 in Wadsworth.

Bill was on active duty as a Navy pilot from 1941 to 1953 during WWII and the Korean War.

After 1953, Bill and Grace lived in Antioch for 33 years where they raised their family.

They are now retired and have been living in Gilman, Wis. for 10 years.

Bill and fellow pilots, Ray Earl, of Louisiana; Tony Schneider, of New Mexico; Joe Risenhuth, of Pennsylvania; and John Campbell, of Oregon, flew in the same division (VS-11) from Henderson Field, Guadalcanal in 1943.

Bill and Campbell later flew together in division VB-11 from the U.S.S. Hornet in 1944 and 1945.

A Presidential Unit citation was earned by the Hornet and Carrier Air Group 11 for extensive damage to Japanese land, seas and air forces in 1944 and 1945.

The original carrier, U.S.S. Hornet, was the ship Colonel Jimmy Doolittle and his B-25 squadron flew from when Tokyo was first bombed. That ship was sunk in 1943 during the Battle of Santa Cruz by the Japanese.

The present U.S.S. Hornet was first used in combat in 1944. It was one of a series of carriers of the Essex Class built at that time.

The ship was later modified several times by adding a slanted deck after the Korean War, and again for anti-submarine warfare and the Space Program, when the Apollo recoveries at sea were accomplished.

The U.S.S. Hornet is now the first major Naval museum on the west coast in San Francisco, and moored at nearby decommissioned Alameda Naval Air Station.

Local Domino's kick off outstanding student program

One of Lake County's most popular student recognition programs kicked-off their fourth season as two Domino's Pizza franchisees renewed their Outstanding Student Program. The private award program is funded by Steve Chiodo, president of Chiodo Corp. and John Griparis, president of Second-City Pizza, Inc.

Each outstanding student receives a Certificate of Achievement along with a gift certificate good for a free pizza at select Domino's Pizza locations. One reason the program remains so popular with schools is that each gets to choose it's own criteria for selecting their Outstanding Students, meaning every school has a program customized just for them.

Following are the winners in the Outstanding Student Program from the past month.

FOREST PRESERVES NEWS

Hikers collect awards

Hikers of all kinds will be marching into the Lake County Forest Preserve General offices on Dec. 4 to be rewarded for hiking Lake County.

The new and wildly popular Lake County Forest Preserves Hike Lake County program draws to a close Nov. 30. Participants who have hiked seven of the 12 designated Hike Lake County Forest Preserve trails are entitled to claim their commemorative shield. Shield Day is the first Saturday after the program's end and will feature free refreshments. Participants have until Jan. 31 to redeem their travel logs and receive their shields.

Lynn Helper, Outreach and Stewardship manager, estimates the program attracted over 10,000 participants in its first year.

The Lake County Forest Preserves general offices are located on Milwaukee Avenue (Route 21) north of Buckley Road (Route 137) near Libertyville.

Take a break: Winter nature programs

Need a few hours to get some holiday shopping done? Or perhaps you would like to schedule a mid-winter sanity break. Lake County Forest Preserves winter nature programs fascinate, stimulate and educate while giving you a few hours off from the daily grind.

Reservations are now being taken for these popular weekend programs.

Knee-high naturalists

Parents, join your 4 to 5 year olds to explore with a naturalist. Each section focuses on a different topic, so sign up for one or all. Each includes stories, crafts and a nature hike. Three sessions are available:

Dec. 4 at Ryerson Woods near Deerfield

Jan. 8 at Lakewood Forest Preserve near Wauconda.

Feb. 12 at the General offices near Libertyville.

All sessions are from 10 to 11:30 a.m. The cost of each program is $14 ($10 for Lake County residents) per adult-child pair, and $7 ($5 for Lake County residents) per additional child. A maximum of two children per adult is allowed.

Young naturalists

For children in grades 1 to 3. Learn how plants and animals survive winter. Explore how animals use food storage, hibernation, tracking, flock behavior and more. Each session is different; sign up for one or all:

Dec. 11 at the General offices near Libertyville.

Jan. 15 at Ryerson Woods near Deerfield.

Sessions run from 10 a.m. until noon. The cost is $8 ($6 for Lake County residents) per child.

When Is The Best Time To Visit Hawaii?

by JIM WARNKEN, President, North Star Travel, Inc.

So, you've finally decided to take that Hawaiian vacation you've long dreamed about.

But when is the best time to go to Hawaii?

Well, if you're looking for bargains, the lowest prices to Hawaii (as with most tourist destinations) can be found for travel during the spring and fall.

Winter travel to Hawaii is very popular for obvious reasons. The summer months, being the traditional vacation time for many people, again brings another travel crunch to the islands. It's the in-between months when you'll get some great deals, and avoid the crowds.

So how about the weather? Is it too hot in the summer? Does Hawaii, like Bermuda, get colder during winter months? When is the "rainy season"?

Temperature-wise you couldn't find a more perfect place on earth than Hawaii. Daytime temperatures in the mid 80's and nighttime temperature in the low 70's don't vary more than 5 degrees all year.

There really is no "rainy season", although you may experience more of a chance of an afternoon shower during the winter months of December through February. Since this is also the best time of year for whale watching, I wouldn't rule it out.

Each island does, however, have a rainy and dry (windward and leeward) side.

For example, with an annual rainfall of over 500 inches per year Mount Waialeale on the Hawaiian Island of Kauai is the wettest spot on earth. Enough rain falls on this mountain to create a fully navigable river. Yet only a few miles to the leeward side of the island is the almost desert-like conditions of the Waimea Canyon, also known as the Grand Canyon of the Pacific.

Likewise, you can experience some really intense rainstorms in the town of Hilo on the Big Island of Hawaii, while at the same your fellow vacationers may be sunning themselves under the cloudless skies of the Kona coast on the other side of the same island.

You might ask why even choose to visit Hilo, or any other part of the windward (wet) side of the islands. Well, you know all those waterfalls, orchids and other tropical foliage you see on the postcards? The rain side of the islands is where you'll find them.

If you do want to be assured of sunny skies for your Hawaiian vacation, pick Kona on the Big Island, Wailea on Maui, or Poipu and Kauai.

These kids have different dreams

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE
Lynn Pringle

Dad decided this was the year that the family would visit Mickey and Minnie at their home in Orlando. Now mom had been putting this off as long as possible because she's not a Theme Park kind of gal. Up until now she had used the excuse that she was in no way pushing a stroller down Main Street USA, through Frontierland, around Fantasyland, and over to Tomorrowland, but that excuse no longer held any water as their offspring had aged beyond that stage. So to make this a memorable trip and get the most out of their visit, mom planned, researched and surfed the Net. She bought "Official" Guide Books and acquired a Mickey narrated video. She outlined, plotted and mapped out.

One night, shortly before the journey, the family sat down and watched the video of Mickey and Minnie touring their residences and surrounding neighborhoods. Mom and dad were thrilled with the unusual silence from their children, mistaking this for total awe. As the credits rolled across the TV screen, mom and dad anxiously awaited for the reaction from their youngsters. One daughter proclaimed she didn't know why they wasted her time because she wasn't going to dumb Disney World, while the other daughter saw a store that looked kind of neat and perhaps she could go in there.

Three maxed out VISA cards later, and one child doesn't want to go, and the other wants to go to shop—guess they aren't Theme Park kind of gals either. The youngest daughter argued she couldn't possibly go because she would miss her classroom Halloween party. This from a child who last Halloween, before even getting out of bed announced she wasn't wearing any stupid costume to no dumb party, and while attending a Halloween party just two days earlier wouldn't take her coat off because she didn't want anyone to see her costume. Mom suggested she go to school and ask her classmates if they would rather stay at school for their classroom party or spend the entire week trick-or-treating with the Disney characters. She said she wasn't allowed to talk in class.

Reverting to bribery, dad told her about the convertible he rented to carry them around during their visit—she said if it wasn't red, she wasn't riding in it. No matter what obstacles the kids threw at them, mom and dad were determined to have a grand time.

So with high hopes and optimistic outlook, they flew the Friendly Skies to the place where dreams are supposed to come true and spent a whole lot of time at the hotel swimming pool.

Next year they are going straight to grandma's.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

'Mouse' to help Antioch Food Pantry

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Thanksgiving weekend begins the busy holiday season.

First National Bank-Employee Owned offers a chance to have a break.

A free movie benefit for the Antioch Food Pantry will be held Saturday, Nov. 27.

The movie is "Mouse Hunt" rated PG.

Staring Nathan Lane and Lee Evans as brothers who inherit a classically designed house who plan to auction the house off. Everything is ready to progress with the sale until the mouse of the house gets in the way.

The movie begins at 10:30 a.m. at the Bank's 485 Lake Street, Antioch location.

Admission is free to each person bringing two or more non-perishable food items to be donated to the food pantry. Items in high demand are canned soup, peanut butter and jelly, macaroni and cheese, noodles and hot or cold cereal.

"We do this every holiday season," said Karen Kubin, marketing officer for First National Bank-Employee Owned.

"This provides parents with a perfect opportunity to get their holiday shopping done while their kids see a great movie and help a charitable organization," Kubin adds.

For additional information on the movie or the food pantry, contact Kubin 838-2265 (BANK), ext. 319.

Slice of history

Lake County Museum to spruce up for future with new exhibits highlighting the past

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

On a Friday afternoon early in the school year, dozens of students from Lake Zurich District 95 are leaving the Lake County Museum at Lakewood Forest Preserve.

They know a little more about the history of Lake County, of the Treaty of Chicago in 1833, and that the county they call home has 160 years of recorded history.

"We serve more than 10,000 students a year and there are at least 300 schools in the area," Mary Ellen Mason, communication and development coordinator, said.

The Museum, part of Lake County Forest Preserve, recently held a Night on the Nile event, in honor of its new exhibits coming on line next year. In that spirit, a March trip to Egypt is planned. Cost is $2,295 for the trip, a 12-day tour conducted by Bassam El Shammaa, lecturer in Egyptology.

"I enjoy seeing the Museum grow and having it be certified nationally," Russ Parks from Lindenhurst, said during a shift at the Museum store.

"The store serves all ages —people love to come in and look at collectibles here," Mason said.

Parks puts in an eight-hour shift as one of several volunteers. He also helps out at special events, including the Saturday night gala of the Nile. He has been helping for several years, ever since he saw a story about the cleaning up of the Nike site.

Near the store is the always popular Civil War exhibit, one on kites, another on Owls. There is even an Owl work station, where those fascinated can learn even more.

The Museum has been an award-winner in recent years. The Illinois State Historical Society gave it a superior achievement honor for the exhibit "Model A to Z 28." Landmarks Preservation has also honored the museum.

Grants received by the museum include State of Illinois Public Museum Capital Grant of $250,000; $10,000 from Illinois Public Museum Operating Grant; $443,891 from Illinois State Library education grant; $100,000 from Illinois Bureau of Tourism and $500 from Illinois Arts Council.

Mason said the museum is used for birthday parties, rentals and weddings. Lake County Museum has hosted an annual senior picnic, the Republicans have had their picnic here, and programs range from firefighting awareness, to the Civil War re-enactment to Lake County farm history—all on the Lakewood Forest Preserve grounds.

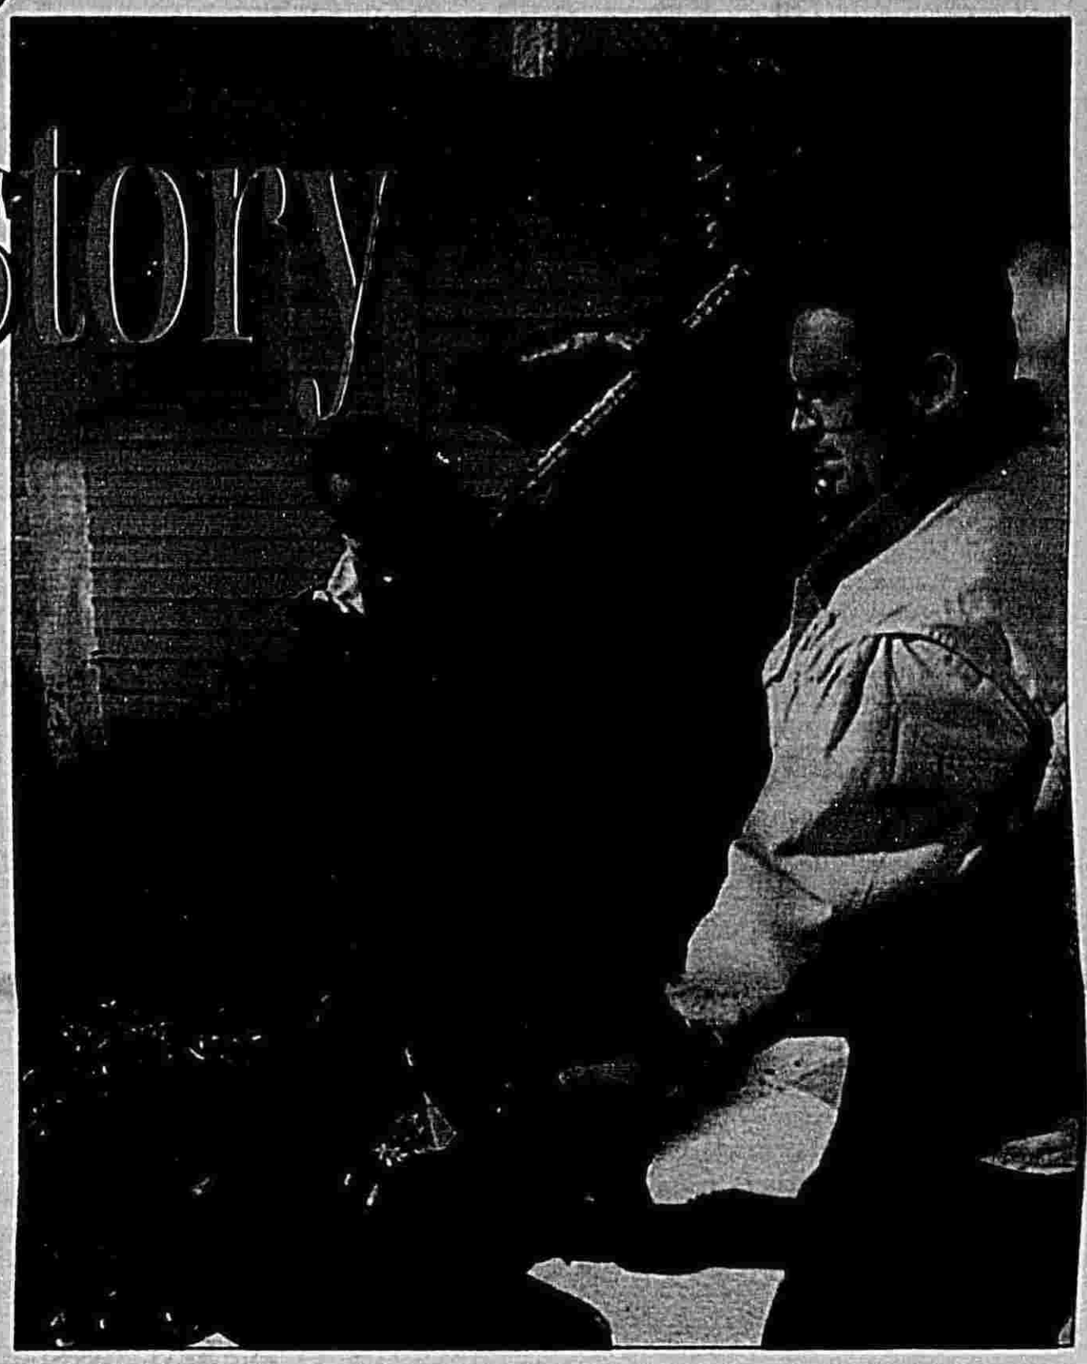

A $25,000 grant from the Chicago Community Trust has recently been secured. The grant will help fund the Chicago Connection portion of the Museum's Wall of History exhibit, which will open next spring.

The recent Nile-themed event, funding the new exhibits to be opened next year, drew some 3,000 visitors.

"We work with teachers in Lake County. We were at their day at Great America. The Lake Zurich students numbered about 100 and they learned about the pioneer days when Lake County was just a settlement. It is great to be busy each day," Andy Osborn, Museum staffer, said.

Students learned that many different tribes of Indians inhabited Illinois and Wisconsin. The most recent of which was the Potawatomi. As early as 17th and 18th century, the area was explored by French traders

These kids have different dreams

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE
Lynn Pringle

Dad decided this was the year that the family would visit Mickey and Minnie at their home in Orlando. Now mom had been putting this off as long as possible because she's not a Theme Park kind of gal. Up until now she had used the excuse that she was in no way pushing a stroller down Main Street USA, through Frontierland, around Fantasyland, and over to Tomorrowland, but that excuse no longer held any water as their offspring had aged beyond that stage. So to make this a memorable trip and get the most out of their visit, mom planned, researched and surfed the Net. She bought "Official" Guide Books and acquired a Mickey narrated video. She outlined, plotted and mapped out.

One night, shortly before the journey, the family sat down and watched the video of Mickey and Minnie touring their residences and surrounding neighborhoods. Mom and dad were thrilled with the unusual silence from their children, mistaking this for total awe. As the credits rolled across the TV screen, mom and dad anxiously awaited for the reaction from their youngsters. One daughter proclaimed she didn't know why they wasted her time because she wasn't going to dumb Disney World, while the other daughter saw a store that looked kind of neat and perhaps she could go in there.

THE CLIPBOARD

John Phelps

Excellence personified

An excellent education is definitely a trademark at The College of Lake County. But what has also become a trademark is the quality athletes the Grayslake campus has produced for some 30 years.

And to add an exclamation point to that, the Skyway Conference, which the Lancers are a member of, awards an All-Sports Banner at the conclusion of each full athletic season.

Points are awarded based on standings in the conference for each respective sport. CLC, just for the record, has won 20 out of the last 24 banners, which are proudly displayed throughout the gymnasium. Furthermore, winning the banner last year made it 10 in a row.

CLC got off to a rousing start after one of its most successful fall campaigns in recent history.

And with one season in the books, the Lancers currently lead Elgin 27-22 in the standings.

It all came together Tuesday night at the Stratford House in Grayslake. A nice gathering of athletes, students, faculty, and parents congregated in an effort to commemorate the outstanding fall season.

The Lady Lancer tennis team definitely had a season to remember. Freshman Hanna Kazakevich, who is currently considered the number one player nationally, led CLC to an sixth consecutive, and undefeated, Skyway Conference crown just a few short weeks ago. From there, Kazakevich went on to claim the National Small College title. The team also captured the Region IV title for the fifth consecutive year and will head to the Team Nationals next Spring. Another hilight to the Kazakevich season would be a 56-game winning streak.

For her efforts, Kazakevich was named the team's co-MVP, along with freshman running mate Yuliya Kandratouskaya, who was another standout player. Yuliya tallied a 28-1 record this season and both she and Kazakevich were all-conference and all-region recipients. Guess who was responsible for Yuliya's only blemish!

Grayslake's Heather Lawrence ended a fine career at CLC, finishing with a 49-4 record in singles play. Heather, a two-time all-conference and all-region player, was awarded the Sportsmanship Award Tuesday night.

Last year's Skyway Conference MVP, Lisa Jurica, along with co-captain, all-conference and all-region player Michelle Gottschalk, and Lori Fehsenfeld will be missed immensely.

Besides Kazakevich and Kandratouskaya, CLC will have Erica Johnson, Laura Bosserman, Gabbi Nichols, and Lisa Metel returning. Johnson was 15-5 in her first season.

Assistant coach Dick Watson, who was inducted into the Region IV Hall of Fame last year, along with head coach and son Richard, are to commended on a terrific season.

Look for next week's column, which will feature the rest of CLC's Fall Sports Awards night, as there were so many stars out on this evening.

Sequoits primed for shot at NSC crown

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

They may have finished 14-14 overall and 5-9 in the North Suburban, but head coach Jeff Dresser considered last season very respectable.

"Our defense really improved towards the end of the year," said Dresser. "Now if we can start off playing great defense and stay away from injuries, we should be in really good shape."

One reason for the hype of this year's Sequoits is senior all-area, all-conference quarterback and sharp-shooting guard Don Lackey.

The 6-5 senior is back for his final campaign. Lackey averaged 15 points and seven rebounds per game last season.

"Don has a lot of talent and has tremendous composure on the court," noted Dresser. "He can shoot from the outside, penetrate, and has tremendous agility. He's really taking on a leadership role and working very hard for the upcoming season. It's also nice to have someone 6-5 and that we're able to move around-he's very versatile."

Lackey will be supported by quickness, along with a little bit of size. Enter 6-1 senior guard Brandon Clutts, 6-3 junior guard Eric White, and 6-2 junior guard Adam Durham.

"We're very comfortable with all of these guys," said Dresser. "Don has been working really hard with all of them. Brandon played a lot of baseball the past year, so he's a little rusty. But I'm not worried-he's working that out real quick."

In addition to playing varsity basketball together last year, many of us know Lackey, White and Durham for their heroics on the football field this past season.

Other key returning player also known for their stellar play on the gridiron include 6-0 senior guard Luke Denoma and 6-1 junior guard Brandon White.

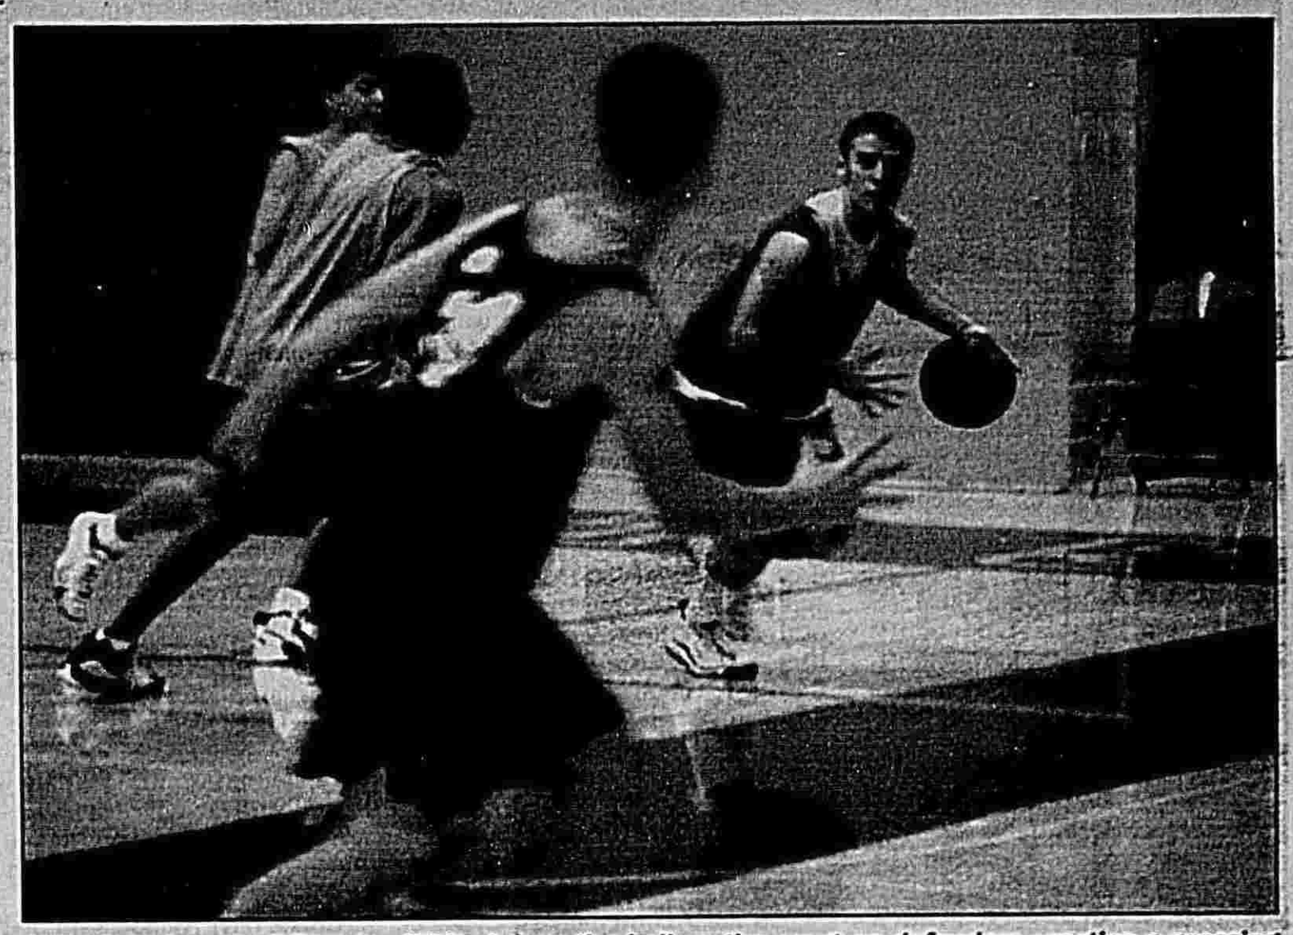

Unfortunately, the Sequoits will be without Denoma's services until mid-December as he is presently recovering from shoulder surgery.

"He's another player who really understands his role," said Dresser. "He had some surgery to repair a muscle tear but he'll be ready before too long."

Defense will again hope to be one of the Sequoits trademarks. Last year, Antioch allowed just 48 points per game by the opposition.

"I think there's a lot of parity in the North Suburban this year," said Dresser. "We just need to be ready to play every night."

If that's the case and Antioch can stay away from injuries, an NSC title could find its way towards the northern territory.

Lady Sequoits looking to make noise in NSC

Coach says basketball team works to improve one game at a time

Sports Editor

Trying to improve with every game seems to be the theme for head coach Dave Woods and his Antioch girls varsity basketball team.

"It's going to take some time but we'll have to go through a learning curve for a little while," said Woods. "But I think with the strength of our schedule and the talent we have, we should be a pretty good ballclub as the season progresses," noted Woods.

'We'll miss her. She's one of our best athletes. She runs the floor well and plays great defense.'

The Lady Sequoits are young with only one returning senior in 5-10 forward Margaret Fischer, who can rebound and produce quality points in the paint.

"She will probably spell Shelley or Erica," added Woods.

Woods is referring to two juniors, 6-1 center Shelley Wolfgram and 6-1 sophomore center/forward Erica Brown.

"Both players have the ability to work inside as well as hit that 12-15 foot jumper," said Woods.

Woods is also very enthused about sophomore guard Amy Muller. Muller played a lot of summer ball with the team and according to Woods, escalated her game to higher levels.

"She played on the freshman team and since the summer, has really turned her game up a knotch," notes Woods. "We then knew right away that she was ready to play on the varsity. She's an excellent ballhandler and should be a valauble asset to the team."

Muller will perhaps see some quality minutes because junior guard Katianne Pechauer (5-7) is currently nursing a knee injury. According to Woods, Katianne should be near full-strength in about two weeks.

"We're gonna try and put a team out there that can play an up-tempo kind of game," said Woods. "We're going to try and create offense through our defense."

Other weapons Woods has to draw from include 5-6 junior guard Sasha Mika, perhaps the team's best three-point shooter.

Bethany Shore is a 5-6 junior guard that will add depth as well as the ability to shoot from the perimeter.

"She started as a sophomore last year," said Woods. "She's a projected leader on the floor and can shoot the three-pointer."

Meredith Nelson, a 5-6 sophomore guard, is, according to Woods, the quickest player on the team.

"We're young but we'll have some quickness," said Woods. "We'll definitely be a better team in December than we are right now."

Junior forward Justine Sinkus (5-10) has tremendous leaping ability and has made excellent progress from a year ago.

That's becuase she suffered a torn ACL (knee) and is expected back sometime in December-January.

"We'll miss her," said Woods. "She's one of our best athletes. She runs the floor well and plays great defense."

Coming off the bench to offer quality minutes will be Jayna Jensen, also coming off an ACL injury.

"She's still in a little pain," said Woods.

Jenny Kowalewski is a 5-10 junior that Woods will be expecting quality minutes from. She'll fill in sometimes when Wolfgram or Brown get into foul trouble.

Shooting percentage and cutting down on turnovers are two focal points for Woods and the young guns.

If that happens and everyone stays healthy, a nice mix of returning players and underclassmen could make Antioch a suprise contender in the NSC as it looks to improve upon an 8-18 1998-99 campaign.

North Shore region needs coaches for Prairie State games

The North Shore region needs coaches for its elite teams for the 17th annual Prairie State Games finals June 23 to 25 in Southwestern Illinois.

North Shore is one of 12 regions throughout the state which will send elite basketball, soccer and volleyball teams to compete against the 11 other regions in a statewide competition. The competition will be held fro scholastic men and women, and open men and women. The scholastic teams are for players currently in the eighth through 12th grades, while the open teams are for players beyond the 12th grade.

The coaching duties include holding tryouts to determine the players on the team, conducting practices, coaching the teams at the finals and other administrative duties.

The North Shore Region includes residents or those students attending school in Cook County (north of Route 290 and east of DuPage/Cook County line to the Chicago City limits) and Lake County.

The Prairie State games is Illinois' largest amateur sports festival. About 7,000 athletes attended the finals last year. The main venues are at southern Illinois University Edwardsville and Belleville area college. Fairview Heights is the host city.

Teams winning medals will be eligible to compete in the second State games of America national competition, which will be held 2001 in the greater St. Louis area at many of the same sites used for the 1994 U.S. Olympic festival.

If you are interested in coaching one of the teams, contact Bob Emig at the Prairie State games office at (618) 632-1002 by Nov. 12.

YOUTH SOCCER ROUNDUP

Lindenhurst Tornadoes net two more victories

The Lindenhurst Tornadoes Boys' U9 traveling soccer team continued its winning ways this month with victories over the Bloomingdale Lightning and Lisle Stingers. The Tornadoes improved their record to 6-2 and remain tied for second place in the Northern Illinois Soccer League's Blue-North division, with two games remaining in the season. The victories follow the Tornadoes' first place finish at the Racine Lighthouse Classic, played Oct. 9-10 in Racine, Wis.

On Oct. 17 the Tornadoes defeated Bloomingdale 3-2 behind two first-half goals by Eric Holst and Drew Jones' game-winner in the second half. The latter came off a nice assist from Chris Staton, who leads the team with eight assists this season.

The following week the Tornadoes played one of its best games yet in handing the Lisle Stingers a 4-2 loss. Lindenhurst dominated the first half with aggressive play from the defensive and midfield lines and strong attacks from its wings. The team built a commanding 3-0 halftime lead behind Drew Jones' impressive three-goal outburst.

The Stingers narrowed the gap to 3-1 in the third quarter, but Andy Donovan answered with a breakaway goal for the Tornadoes. Lisle added a goal in the fourth quarter but it was too little, too late. Solid goalkeeping from Matt Holmes, Ryan Carlson, and Joshua Larson was an important factor in the Tornadoes 4-2 win.

The victory kept Lindenhurst (6-2) and Crystal Lake (5-0-3) knotted in second place with 18 points each, four behind front-runner Hinsdale (7-0-1). The Stingers dropped to 4-3-1, five points behind the Tornadoes.

The Tornadoes close out their inaugural season with games against Wheaton on Oct. 31 and Hinsdale on Nov. 7.

The Lindenhurst Tornadoes are Ryan Carlson, Andy Donovan, Matt Holmes, Eric Holst, Jarrett Jespersen, Drew Jones, Joshua Larson, Ryan Lulofs, Aaron Oliver, Matt Seymour, and Chris Staton.

The Antioch Lightning tried hard with 10 total shots on goal with Lake Forest only having 2, but none could get passed the keeper. This game ended the Lightning season at 7-1-2, tying them to first place with team Evanston.

Unfortunately for Team Evanston, the Lightning beat them in their last meeting having the Lindenhurst Lightning taking FIRST PLACE. A big congratulations to team members: Emily Bulow, Caitlin Duffy, Julie Dziki, Michelle Geurts, Sophie Khawaja, Danielle Kirby, Stephanie McGrain, Kia Miller, Susie O'Connor, Sara Sweeney, Stefanie Trulzsch, and Jennifer Zak. The great job by coaches Tony Khawaja, Scott Farrell and John Zak made it all possible. Go Lindenhurst Lightning.

The Lindenhurst Blaze finished their regular 1999 fall season on a high note with their second consecutive victory when they defeated the Oswego Panthers 4-1. The Blaze took an early 1-0 lead when Colin O'Malley went around 2 defenders with a burst of speed to beat the Panther's goalie. The Panthers came back in the second period when they scored their only goal to tie the game 1-1.

In the second half, the Blaze took control and the defense of Andrew Stein, Brian Mooney, Ethan Hahn and Brian Hook did not allow any shots at goal the entire second half. The Blaze took the lead when Brian Hook took a throw-in to Kurt Houghton who passed the ball to Kyle Sytsma who did a half-volley left foot into the right upper corner of the net for the eventual game winner. Moments later, O'Malley got his second goal of the game when he had a solo effort down the left side and rocketed a left-footed shot past the opponent's goalie.

In the fourth quarter, the Blaze got an insurance goal when Connor O'Keefe passed to Sytsma along the right side goal line who beat the Panther's goalie for his second goal. Goalies Matt Laine and Tommy Sewart did a wonderful job in the first half, stopping numerous shots from their opponents. Midfielders Alex Kelley and Ronnie Herout along with Houghton and O'Keefe controlled the ball all game long and demonstrated excellent passing abilities. The Blaze finished the season at 2-3-5 in regular season play and 5-4-5 overall in the Premier Bronze division of the NISL.

The final game for the Lindenhurst Dynamo U-11 was Nov. 6 at Polley Field against Lake Forest. It was a defensive battle with the first half ending in a 0-0 tie. The second half started out the same way until just mid-way through the second half Lake Forest scored to take the lead. Chris Meyer started in the goal for the Dynamo with Matthew Reimer taking over for most of the game.

The Dynamo had 6 shots on goal—unfortunately none of them resulted in a score and the game ended in a loss for them. lake Forest had 5 shots on goal with our goalies making some great saves. The season ended with the Dynamo having a league record of 2-7-1.

Coach Jeff Smith said "they (Dynamo) played well and improved tremendously throughout the season. I'm proud of the boys and the good job they did."

Coach Jerry Nichols summed up the season this way: "we taught our kids sportsmanship and they are learning about determination and character as well as soccer."

Good job Dynamo and thank you to our coaches Jeff Smith, Jerry Nichols and Bill Johnson for a job well-done from the Dynamo parents.

SPORTS DIGEST

Congratulations to 82-year-old Ken Blumenschein of Lake Villa. Ken scored a hole-in-one last week at Spring Valley GC in Salem, Wis. In a prevailing wind, Ken used a 5-iron on the 145-yard par-3 11th hole. Ironically, Ken had a hole-in-one on the fifth hole at Spring Valley back in 1986.

And sticking with golf, it's twilight time at Thunderhawk. Sunset is a sure bet for visiting the Lake County Forest Preserves' new highly acclaimed ThunderHawk Golf Club, an 18-hole public championship course near Beach Park and Zion, designed by legendary golf course architect Robert Trent Jones Jr.

To celebrate a successful inaugural season and to introduce more area golfers to ThunderHawk, a sunset rate for public play after 5 p.m. is being offered on weekdays and weekends. The sunset rate is designed to encourage additional play after 5 p.m., a time when play is generally slower and daylight hours limit the ability to play a complete 18-hole round of golf.

On Mondays through Thursdays after 5 p.m. on weekends (Friday to Sunday) are $35 for Lake County residents and $55 for non-residents.

To take advantage of the sunset rates or for more information about ThunderHawk Golf Club, call 872-HAWK (4295).

Organized bicycle rides are being offered. Come join fellow riders for a few hours of riding and learning. Mike Kerrigan of Mike's Bikes of Gurnee, and Pete Murphy, former managing editor of Bike Magazine, will host evening and weekend rides on local trails and sport parks.

Rides will be hosted in the evenings before sundown or daily on the weekends and will consist of light to moderate speeds and locations. Participants will have a chance to ask questions from the owners and operators of Mikes Bikes (Gurnee) and offer their own experiences to others.

Contact the staff at Mike's Bikes at 662-8482, visit the store located at 4641 Grand Ave. in Gurnee, or visit their website at www.mikesbikesgurnee.com.

And, Lake County Baseball is looking for teams to form a new spring league for the 2000 baseball season. The league will be nationally franchised under NBC (National Baseball Congress) and playing in the league will lead to national competition in the NBC World Series.

The league will begin play as soon as the weather breaks, continue until early June, and be finished in time for teams to play tournament ball during the summer months. Any coach or manager of a 10,11, 12, 13, 14, 15 or 15 year old team that would like more information on this new league should contact Lake County Baseball at 945-9606.

COLLEGE SPORTS BEAT

Beth Fisher of Lake Villa recently concluded her senior season as part of the Union College (N.Y.) women's soccer team. The Dutchwomen finished with a record-setting 16-3-1 season. Fisher was one of the starting fullback her first two years before moving to backup midfielder for her junior and senior campaigns. She dished out three assists for her career.

T'Wolves come up short in championship game

The Lake Villa Timberwolves PeeWee team suffered its first loss of the season last Sunday, a 14-6 decision at the expense of the Mundelein Stallions in the Junior Football League of Northern Illinois' Championship game.

Mundelein jumped out to a quick 7-0 lead, scoring on its first possession of the game against a Wolves defense that had allowed only two touchdowns in the previous eight games.

The game became a defensive struggle until midway through the second quarter when the Wolves offense began to click behind the running of Joe Ramos. Lake Villa got on the scoreboard with a 20-yard touchdown pass from Matt Limbert to Brian Schmidt. Ramos was stopped short on the extra point attempt and Mundelein clung to a 7-6 lead at intermission.

Lake Villa came out strong in the second half with Nick Waido leading an inspired defense. The offense drove deep into Mundelein territory behind the passing of Limbert. However, the Stallions defense stiffened, keeping Lake Villa out of the endzone for the remainder of the game.

Vikings win championship

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

The eighth-grade-and-under Antioch Vikings finished a perfect 10-0 while winning the championship over Crystal Lake 18-0 on Saturday at Prairie Grove High School in Crystal Lake.

All of the scoring occured in the first half on a one yard touchdown run by 12-year-old Ryan Walker and on a 35 yard touchdown pass by 13-year-old Frank Schmidt to 13-year old WR Bill Gillen.

The Vikings scored 227 points over the season while allowing only 25 points and posting six shutouts.

The Vikings were a Saturday junior varsity team that played its games at 1p.m. and consisted of children between fifth and eighth grade.

To cap off the amazing season Head Coach Marvin Angell was named Coach of the Year.

"The season was very exciting," according to designated Team Mom Terri Yopp, mother of 13-year old WR/S Branden Yopp who played nearly every play of every game on both sides of the ball.

"We had banquets, fund raisers and other activities that were fun as well," added Yopp.

Antioch Viking Lightweights lose thriller

In what Youth Super Bowl officials termed "the most exciting game of the Bowl," the Tinley Park Raiders came- from-behind 28-27 with less then two minutes remaining to defeat the Antioch Viking Lightweights 33-28 before a large crowd in Buffalo Grove. It was the Raiders 10th win of the year (10-0-1). Antioch fell to 8-3. Tinley Park can advance to the Youth Football championships in Michigan Thanksgiving weekend. The Vikings were extended an invitation to compete in Oak Creek, Mich. in a Pop Warner runner up bowl.

The game was exciting from start to finish. Antioch scored on the first play of the game, when running back Jeff Kibonge scored from 41 yards out. Tinley Park answered back on their second offensive play when Darrell Hawkins scored from the 29 yard line. The Raiders then converted a three point extra pint play from the 10 yard line (special in Youth super bowl play) to take a 9-6 lead. Early in the second quarter, back Jeff Canella scored the second Viking TD on an 11 yard run. But again Tinley Park scored and led at halftime 15-12.

In the second half the Raiders added two more TDs and moved to a 27-12 advantage. But with one minute left in the third, QB TJ Weyenberg tossed a 23 yard pass to Torrey Bell which cut the lead to 27-18. Weyenberg then went in from 10 yard out on a QB sneak and three more points. The Antioch defense tightened forcing Tinley Park into a punt. Three Antioch plays later Weyenberg beat three defenders around end for the fourth Antioch TD. That tied the score with 2:30 remaining. Then Weyenberg the go ahead extra point and Antioch led 28-27. With a fourth and 6 situation at the Antioch 33 and just 1:10 remaining, Tinley Park QB Dan Harrington found an open receiver and connected for theirs fifth TD and a 33-28 lead. Antioch didn't quit and had a first and 10 at the Raider 29 with 39 seconds left. Weyenberg threw an interception when Torrey Bell fell at the 8 yard line and Tinley Park ran the clock out.

Antioch has been extended an invitation to play in a runner up Pop Warner Bowl Thanksgiving weekend. The team will vote this week whether or not to accept the invite.

Family hoping for a cure

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Austen Mueller appears to be your everyday 3-year-old when he is dressed to the hilt in his red, black and white Power Ranger outfit.

But the Ingleside youth is fighting for his life these days. He spends his time at Children's Memorial Hospital, hoping for a bone marrow operation after already receiving a liver transplant.

The Mueller family waits, hoping a bone marrow transplant can be found within its ranks and trying to cope with everyday life as well.

"It is beyond description," said Shannon Mueller, Austen's mom.

A fund-raiser is planned for Nov. 30 at Fox Lake Fire Station No. 2 on Washington Street in Ingleside. It begins at 7 p.m.

Austen suffers from non-E-Hepatitis, which attacks the liver. Less than 50 cases are reported nationally a year. Specialists Drs. Peter Whitington, Estella Alonso, Karan Emerick and surgeon Ricardo Superina are working with the Muellers. They are also working through COTA—Children's Organ Transplant Association.

The death of football great Walter Payton as he waited for a liver transplant which he could not take because the cancer was too advanced, has crossed the minds of the local family.

"We are at Children's Hospital once or twice a week, a two-hour commute. He still has liver biopsy and some aspirations. He is on a new treatment," Shannon Mueller said.

Of the people who need a liver and receive and accept one, 82 percent survive after the first year. It increases to 90 percent later. The need for bone marrow may complicate matters.

The Muellers have a younger, eight-month-old daughter.

"Austen used to love to play with her. He would also love to ride a bike, be a Power Ranger, fire trucks and go to the fire station," Shannon Mueller said.

"He does not understand his situation because he is so young. He is glad his dad has a matching scar because he likes things that match," Shannon Mueller said.

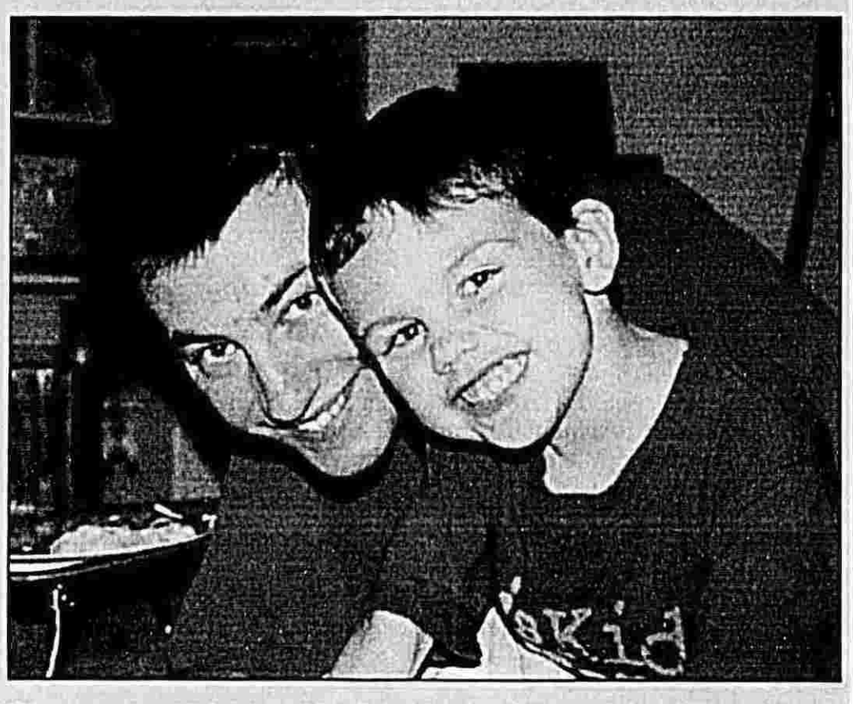

Todd Mueller, Austen's dad, was the person who was able to give a transplanted liver last August.

Austen's condition means he is more susceptible to further illness.

The everyday situation is financially straining on the Muellers as neither has worked regularly. Deb Mueller, Austen's grandmother, is starting a fundraising effort. Collection cans will be placed at locations throughout Fox Lake. One percent of proceeds at Dominck's on Dec. 6 and 13 will go toward the Mueller's funds. An account has been set up at Bank One locations.

"It's my faith. He is a miraculous little boy. He is still a very happy kid. We take so many things for granted. Like getting up in the morning and if you fall down, the cut will just heal," Shannon Mueller said.

For more information or to assist, call Deb Mueller, 973-2030.

New filing may be confusing

New state legislation could make filing documents in the Recorder's office very confusing beginning Jan. 1, according to Lake County Recorder Mary Ellen Vanderventer.

New state law requires the use of a revised Real Estate Transfer Declaration. This form is used to report the transfer of property and the amount of state and county transfer tax due at the time of recording a deed. This revised declaration has been developed based on feedback from County Assessors, County Clerks and Recorders and Attorneys.

"Sales occurring on or before Dec. 31, (1999 sales) must be reported on the old declaration, commonly known as "Green Sheets." Sales occurring after Jan. 1,2000 must be reported on the new, revised declaration," said Vanderventer.

She adds, "We are working diligently to inform all of our customers about the new law and the new form. Unfortunately, if the wrong form is presented to us in January, we will not be authorized to record the deed. This will be a huge hardship on the preparers of these forms, so we are using all of our resources to spread the word."

Packets of instructions and information are now available at the Recorder's office. Larger quantities of the new Transfer Declarations will be available in the Recorder's office as of Nov. 22. For more information, contact the Recorder's office at 360-6676.

Volvo S40 and V40 Launched With Aggressive Pricing, Innovative Marketing For New Era Buyers

The appeal of Volvo automobiles has always spread far beyond those buyers with the ability to purchase them. Volvo's strong brand and clearly differentiated image reaches across demographic lines to appeal to younger buyers who, until recently, thought Volvo cars were out of their reach.

That was before the introduction of the new Volvo S40 sedan and V40 sportswagon — high value, high appeal Volvos with prices that start under $23,000.

The introduction of the model year 2000 Volvo S40 and V40 heralds the arrival of a new Volvo for a new buyer, and the beginning of a new era in marketing for the company, says Hans-Olov Olsson, president and CEO of Volvo Cars of North America. "The S40 and V40 open up a new road for us. Starting at $22,900, our cars will attract younger people who have never owned a Volvo, but who know, understand and subscribe to our core values of quality, safety and environmental care," says Olsson. "This is a perfect match."

The Volvo S40 has a suggested retail price of $22,900; the V40 has a suggested retail price of $23,900.

The stylish S40 and V40 not only wear the premium Volvo brand, they come with a full suite of Volvo-pioneered safety equipment and a long list of standard features that make them an appealing value for young buyers, Olsson says.

"That new target buyer has a lot in common with existing Volvo buyers," says Mark La Neve, Vice President of Marketing, Volvo Cars of North America. "They are motivated, aware young people with college educations and aspirations that mirror those of the traditional Volvo buyer. Equally split between men and women, they care deeply about career, family, relationships and their leisure time. Because they are younger (singles, couples and young families), their annual household incomes are less — about $75,000. But that doesn't mean they will settle for a mass-market car that doesn't reflect their personal values."

"For this buyer, the S40 and V40 are an opportunity to differentiate themselves from the crowd in a car with a premium brand that says something about their values," says La Neve.

V40: Innovative marketing for new era

Presenting S40 and V40 to this target buyer has required a new approach for Volvo and its American retailers.

Because they have been on sale in Europe for several years, Volvo started developing an understanding of the U.S. market for the S40 and V40 from a good base line. And, the company could put the car in front of consumers before its September on-sale date to test its appeal without having to labor behind veils of secrecy. The results have been an impressive pre-launch program across the country.

Reflective of this new buyer's comfort with the Internet as a source of both news and entertainment, Volvo essentially held an open focus group through a site called www.swedenrules.com, hosted by a fictitious 30-year-old Swede named Lars. The site provided responses to more than 83,000 visitors and 1 million page viewers. In a similar approach, a road show sent two teams across the country to meet prospects one-on-one. The teams set up photo shoots in trendy urban areas of major markets where they engaged interested visitors with information on the new models and took their photos with the cars. A contest selected photos to appear on the swedenrules website and guests checked there to see if they had won.

Retailers also pre-conditioned the market. From mid-July, 1999, retailers had one S40 and one V40 for use as demonstrators. A lifestyle-based accessory package, valued at $500, was free if orders were placed during the promotion.

In an about-face from most new model introductions, the advertising followed the on-sale date. A departure from traditional Volvo advertising, the TV spots conclude with the line, "Somewhere between where you are... and where you're going... is the new Volvo S40. Nicely and safely equipped, from $22,900"

"The company's sales target of 30,000 buyers for S40 and V40 is not only a key part of achieving the North American sales goal of 200,000 units annually by early in the next century, it also brings in new buyers to the Volvo ownership family at an earlier stage", La Neve says. "If you consider these buyers are about 16 years younger than today's Volvo owners, and you consider that people buy new cars about every three-to-four years, this means we can reach customers four to five buying cycles earlier."

Consumers like auto navigation systems

The demand and use of factory-equipped navigation systems are greeted in the United States than many industry experts previously thought, according to the inaugural J.D. Power and Associates Navigation Usage and Satisfaction Study just released. The study includes more than 3,000 consumers who recently purchased or leased vehicles with a factory installed navigation system. Two-thirds of the respondents indicated they use their system once or twice weekly, with 19 percent reporting they use it daily.

The three most popular reasons for use of the systems are: finding the shortest routes to specific destinations, work-related navigation and locating residential addresses. Many regular users are turning to their navigation systems to locate restaurants, retail stores and entertainment venues.

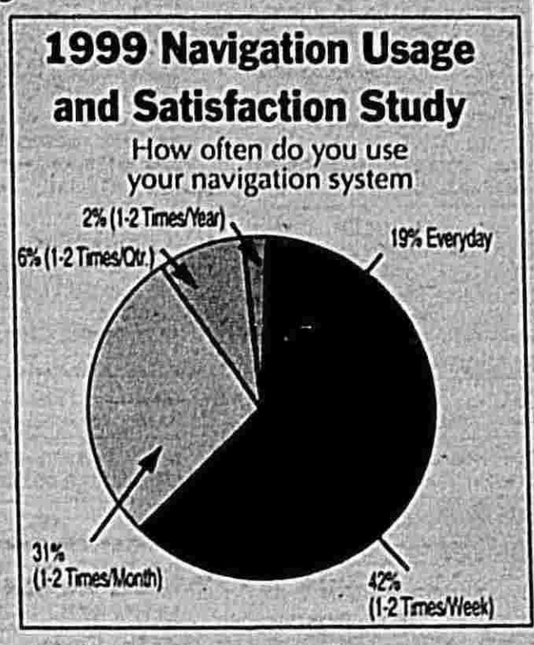

Although there were significant differences in overall satisfaction between navigation systems, the majority of consumers describe the performance of their system as "truly outstanding" or "excellent." Nearly 90 percent of the respondents would recommend their navigation system to others and roughly two out of three indicate that the lack of a navigation system option for a new vehicle would influence their buying decision.

The number of vehicles offering navigation systems is expected to double next year. Currently, only 10 passenger car models in the U.S. Market have sufficient volumes to obtain customer feedback in 1999. Companies such as Alpine, Blaupunkt, DENSO, Mannesmann VDO, Mitsubishi Electric and Siemens Automative produce factory supplied navigation systems for vehicles.

The DENSO Corporation navigation systems rank highest in customer satisfaction in the J.D. Power evaluations. The study found DENSO's strong performance was a result of their ability to satisfy consumer requirements for route information accuracy, processing speed and making the system easy to use.

Consumers who are younger and typically more computer savvy tend to use their new factory equipped navigation systems more often then their older counterparts. Although the younger users are generally more satisfied, they tend to be more concerned about the speed at which the systems calculate driving routes and software limitations. Older consumers demand that future systems be designed so they are easier to use.

"Given the advancements in technology, such as voice activation, on-board computers and Digital Video Disc (DVD), we expect navigation systems suppliers to meet both of these unique demands," said J.D. Power's Frank Forkin.

All-new 2000 Chevy Tahoe is the real SUV that stands up to rugged use

Even though it's new from the ground up, the 2000 Tahoe has a unique connection with its past: It remains true to its original mission as a rugged sport utility built on a Chevy Truck chassis.

Tahoe's reputation as a "real" sport utility — a durable, capable, go-anywhere vehicle — has made it popular with the off-road crowd. And its legendary smooth ride and interior appointments have made Tahoe a popular alternative to high-priced luxury SUVs. As a result, the new Tahoe provides just what most full-size sport utility buyers are looking for — whether or not they ever take it off the beaten path.

"It's Tahoe's rugged credentials that attract buyers in the first place," said Tahoe brand manager Steve Ramsey. "Tahoe buyers are 'doers.' They've told us that compared to other sport utilities, Tahoe is the one they'd depend on to go anywhere and do anything. That tried-and true reputation is something that newer entries can't claim."

The new Tahoe features even greater capability, with an innovative new split third-row seat that offers greater cargo flexibility and boosts passenger capacity to nine, and more powerful Vortec™ V8 engines. And for those buyers new to sport utilities, Tahoe's truck-like capabilities are complemented by a surprisingly smooth ride and agile handling,thanks to retuned chassis components and new suspension technologies.

The new Chevy Tahoe Z71 model personifies the truck's rugged character while taking its off-road capacity to the next level. The specially-tuned off-road suspension uses upgraded springs, shocks, jounce bumpers and standard stablizer bars to help Tahoe Z71 tackle rough, uneven terrain. A locking differential and four aggresively-treaded LT265/75R all-terrain tires provide maximum traction in loose soil. Wheel flares are provided to help guard exterior body panels from trail debris, and skid plates help protect vital underbody compnenets such as the transfer case and fuel tank during off-road maneuvers. The OnStar® system is standard with the Z71package, to provide added convenience and security for off-road enthusiasts. The package also includes unique appearance cues, including expressive Z71 badging and aggressive stainless steel clad wheels.

TAHOE: Stands up to rugged use

"The new, stronger Tahoe really raises the bar in terms of what an ideal full-size SUV ought to deliver," Ramsey said.

The 2000 Tahoe — available as a four-door in both two- and four- wheel drive — will begin arriving at Chevy dealerships across the country around the beginning of the year.

Following are highlights of the new features that improve Tahoe's performance, capability, comfort and safety for 2000.

Rugged Construction

Tahoe takes Chevy Truck durability to a new level with a redesigned frame and body that are stronger and more rigid than previous designs. The result is a comfortable, confidence-inspiring ride and outstanding durability.

It starts with a new modular frame that is stronger and more rigid than the design it replaces and with unique crush caps that absorb more energy in the event of a front-end collision. This new frame provides a solid, stable platform that helps absorb vibration and enabled engineers to more precisely tune ride and handling.

Tahoe's body structure is significantly stiffer through the use of larger body sections, stiffened joints and a 400 percent increase in body mount stiffness. Tahoe's exterior sheet metal is more durable, thanks to improved sheet-metal corrosion protection and stronger dent-resistant steel. The body has been strengthened in dozens of ways, right down to its redesigned door hinges that offer four times the durability of the ones they replace.

In addition to body and frame improvements, Tahoe's powertrain is stiffer, enhancing the solid feel of the entire vehicle. In addition, Tahoe features a more durable rear axle with a strengthened differential case, stiffer axle shafts and increased tube thickness -- all of which help enhance durabili

New on the 2000 Ta oe is an advanced third row bench seat that creates seating for up to nine passengers. Unlike similar competitive offerings, Tahoe's ar seat features a unique 50/50 split f ld design that helps maximize the number of cargo- and passenger-carrying configurations.

REPOSSESSED AND OTHER USED CARS BEING DISPOSED FOR ONLY $69*

All of these cars in perfect condition - most with their original factory warranties still in effect.

A new concept in auto retailing is to be tested at Union Nissan and Truck World, whereby the general public will be allowed to pay $69* acquisition fee and take over payments on one of hundreds of cars, trucks, vans and 4x4's.

When interviewed, Union Nissan's manager stated that these vehicles have been acquired from throughout the state and brought together at Union Nissan, located at 3315 W. Grand Avenue, Waukegan, IL, & Truck World, located at 3375 W. Grand Avenue, Waukegan, IL, for the purpose of disposal.

Cars valued at $6,000-$8,000 will be sold for $3,000-$4,000. The $12,000-$14,000 cars will sell for as little as $7,000-$8,000. $20,000 luxury vehicles will drop down to $14,000-$16,000.

WE WILL BE CLOSING OUT, Fords, Nissans, Chevrolets, Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles, Buicks, Cadillacs, GMCs, Mitsubishis, Hondas, Toyotas, Mazdas and more, with payments as low as $99*.

All cars are in perfect condition - most with their original factory warranties still in effect.

This new test program will give the general public an opportunity to acquire nearly new vehicles with only $69 acquisition fee... then just take over the payments. This is not a lease.*

Credit Problems? No Problem!

Everyone's credit is virtually approved Union Nissan's manager stated, "We have foreign banking sources that need American accounts. So, if you've had past credit problems, don't worry. Let that be our problem, not yours."

Trade-Ins

"If we get together on a newer vehicle," the manager added, "we will pay off your old vehicle loan no matter how much you owe."

This 4-day test program begins on Wednesday, November 17th at 9 AM and runs through 6 PM on Saturday, November 20. No payment is necessary until January.

Mustang - The Second Series is nostalgic, yet contemporary

The success story of the original Ford Mustangs, introduced mid-year in 1964, is legend in corporate automotive marketing folklore. A casebook study of vision, it is based on careful analysis, combined with the ability to cut through the auto industry's standard long lead times and the conservative "family car" mind set of Postwar America.

The Mustang was so well received that, though fastback and GT versions were introduced and some detail trim was changed, the basic car continued as originally designed through the 1966 model year.

1967 was going to be a pivotal year for the Mustang. For the first time since its inception, there was going to be some competition - BIG COMPETITION. Chevy was readying its Camaro and Pontiac had its Camaro-derived Firebird on the board. Chrysler's original Valiant-based, fish bowl fastback Barracuda, was being replaced with a well styled, three model armada (convertible, coupe and fastback) with guns aimed directly at Mustang.

Even the Lincoln Mercury division of Ford would have the Cougar, its own upmarket coupe version of the Mustang. The '67 Mustang would have to be changed to look newer and hotter, without changing much of the greenhouse area and floor plan, or eliminating any of the styling cues that were identified with the already quite popular car.

Though restyled from the rocker panels to the window sills, the '67 and '68 models retained most of the styling elements from the earlier cars. While the body got marginally bigger, achieved by adding more overhang on each end and curved sheet metal on the sides, the chassis specifications never changed.

The new grille looked similar to the first Mustangs. It was taller and wider and jutted out from the top at more of an angle, which made the headlights appear to be deeper set. The sideways "U" shaped depression that trailed off into simulated chrome "scoops" on the first series was exaggerated for effect and given a real scoopy look with a pair of deep finned ports behind each door.

The rear panel above the bumper was remade concave to resemble the aerodynamic Kamm-back designs found on the Ford GT40 and racing Cobra coupes. The most changed model was the 2 + 2 hard top that became a true fastback with a roof that sloped all of the way back to the edge of the concave rear panel.

Performance was increased to keep the Mustang the fastest pony car. While buyers could still opt for a six or small V8, performance versions of the 289 cube V8 could be ordered in 225 and 271 HP models. If straight line performance was high on your wish list a new 320 horse 390 cube big block Thunderbird Special V8 was available. Shelby versions included an up rated 271 horse small block in the GT350 and a 428 cube big block in the GT500. In addition, about 50 GT500s were built to order with the hotter 427 medium riser engine.

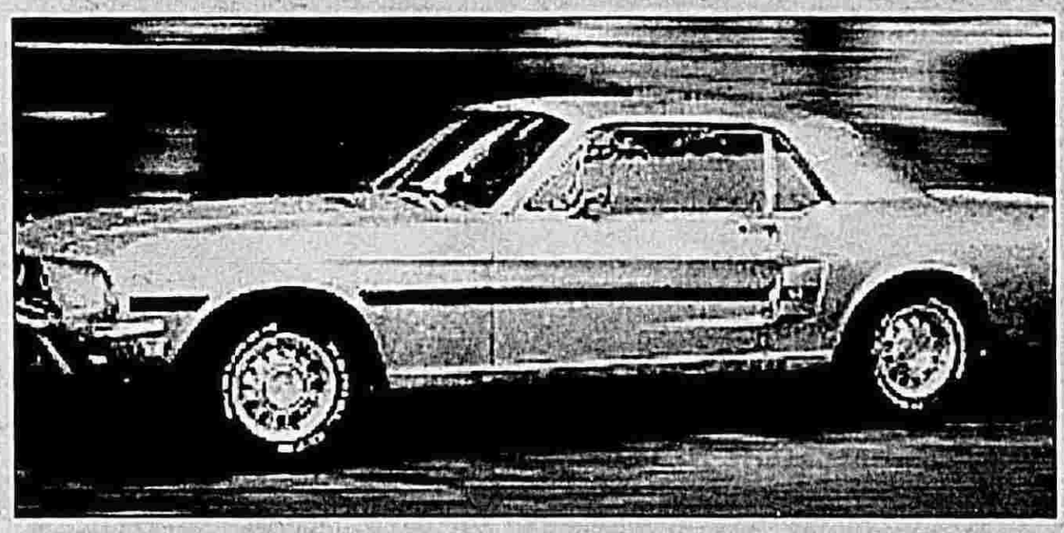

Changes were kept to a minimum for 1968 and most were due to newly implemented smog and safety regulations. The smog requirements differed from state to state, but all cars had to have a federally mandated restraint system (that usually reduced itself to a tangled pile of belts on the back floor) and "breakaway" interior components. Side marker lights traded night visibility for cluttered looks.

For '68 there were more special performance models. A horsepower race had developed when Chevy introduced its 396 cubic inch Rat motor in the Camaro and Pontiac brought out its Firebird 400. Not to be outdone, Ford installed a new 335 horse, 428 Cobra Jet V8 engine where the 390s had been in the '67 Mustangs.

Beside the GT and GTA (automatic) versions that had been around for a few years, there was a California Special (GT/CS), a Shelby-esque trim package on a standard 2 door sold only in California, plus the High Country Special, basically a re-worked California Special sold through Colorado Ford dealers and the "Cobra Jet" fastback offered from mid 1968.

Next a convertible was added to the Shelby GT line. It had a factory roll bar and could be had with either small block (GT350) or 428 cu. in. big block (GT500). A new model, brought out later in the year, was the GT500KR (King of the Road) that had an advanced ram-air hood feeding a 428 cube Cobra Jet engine. Ford still had the top pony.

What this "New" Mustang is all about is nostalgia for the west coast "thirty-something" crowd. They were the second-hand cars that these folks drove to high school. Let's pop a Led Zeppelin tape into the stereo and cruise over to the beach and look for Sue the cheerleader and the rest of the gang (boy, gang sure had a different connotation in those days). Sue might be there today, but it will probably be with her second husband and the three daughters by her first, the oldest of which looks surprisingly like Sue did when Led Zep was at the top of the charts...A quick glance in the rear view mirror to make sure the hair is just right ... Wow, where did all that space between the shades and the hair come from?... Oh, well, at least the Mustang looks the same! By Rick Feibusch © AutoWire.Net - San Francisco

The Mustang has been a classic muscle car for decades. Through several incarnations, the car has captured drivers hearts.

Christmas Tree Traditions & Folklore

This year over 33 million American families will celebrate the holidays with the fragrance and beauty of a real Christmas tree.

The tree, used as a symbol of life, is a tradition older than Christianity and not exclusive to any one religion. It's a part of our holiday customs that engages not only our senses of sight, touch, and smell, but also our sense of tradition, hope and good will.

Long before there was a Christmas, Egyptians brought green palm branches into their homes on the shortest day of the year in December as a symbol of life's triumph over death.

Romans adorned their homes with evergreens during Saturnalia, a winter festival in honor of Saturnus, their god of agriculture. Druid priests decorated oak trees with golden apples for their winter solstice festivities.

In the middle ages, the Paradise tree, an evergreen hung with red apples, was the symbol of the feast of Adam and Eve held on December 24th.

The first recorded reference to the Christmas tree dates back to the 16th century. In Strasbourg, Germany (now part of France), families both rich and poor decorated fir trees with colored paper, fruits and sweets. The retail Christmas tree lot also dates back that far - in those times, older women would sell trees harvested from nearby forests.

The tradition spread through Europe and was brought to the United States by German settlers and by Hessian mercenaries paid to fight in the Revolutionary War. In 1804 U.S. soldiers stationed at Fort Dearborn (now Chicago) hauled trees from surrounding woods to their barracks at Christmas.

The popularity of the Christmas tree then proliferated. Charles Minnegrode introduced the custom of decorating trees in Williamsburg, Virginia in 1842. In 1851, Mark Carr hauled two ox sleds loaded with trees from the Catskills to the streets of New York and opened the first retail lot in the United States.

Franklin Pierce, our 14th President, brought the Christmas tree tradition to the White House. In 1923, President Calvin Coolidge started the National Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony now held every year on the White House lawn.

Since 1966, members of the National Christmas Tree Association have presented a beautiful, fresh Christmas tree to the President and first family. This tree is displayed each year in the Blue Room of the White House.

Selecting and caring for your real Christmas tree

Choosing a real Christmas tree is a fun outing for the whole family and easy to do. Here are a few simple steps for selecting the perfect tree.

In most households, the holiday season didn't begin until the family went to the local lot or tree farm to pick out their tree. Then, the whole family would decorate the tree. Gifts would be wrapped and placed underneath it. And, on Christmas morning, the family would once again join around the tree waiting for the festivities to begin. The scent, aroma, and the real tree itself were an integral part of the family unity as well as the holiday season itself. This tradition continues to this day as more than 37 million families celebrate with a real Christmas tree.

The celebrating of Christmas with a real tree has been a tradition for over 400 years. At one time, all Christmas trees were cut from natural stands (or straight out of the forest). As you can imagine, these wild trees looked nothing like today's professionally grown and sheared trees. Today, 98% of trees are grown on plantations. These plantations may sell them to local lots, or act as choose and cut farms where people go to select and cut down their own fresh tree.

To make your tradition a more memorable and pleasant one, we'd like to offer a few helpful hints when selecting a tree:

• Do a freshness test. Gently grasp a branch between your thumb and forefinger and pull it toward you. Very few needles should come off in your hand if the tree is fresh. Shake or bounce the tree on its stump. You should not see an excessive amount of green needles fall to the ground. Some loss of interior brown needles is normal and will occur over the lifetime of the tree.

• Once you've chosen your tree, keep it in a sheltered, unheated area such as a porch or garage to protect it from the wind and sun until you are ready to decorate it.

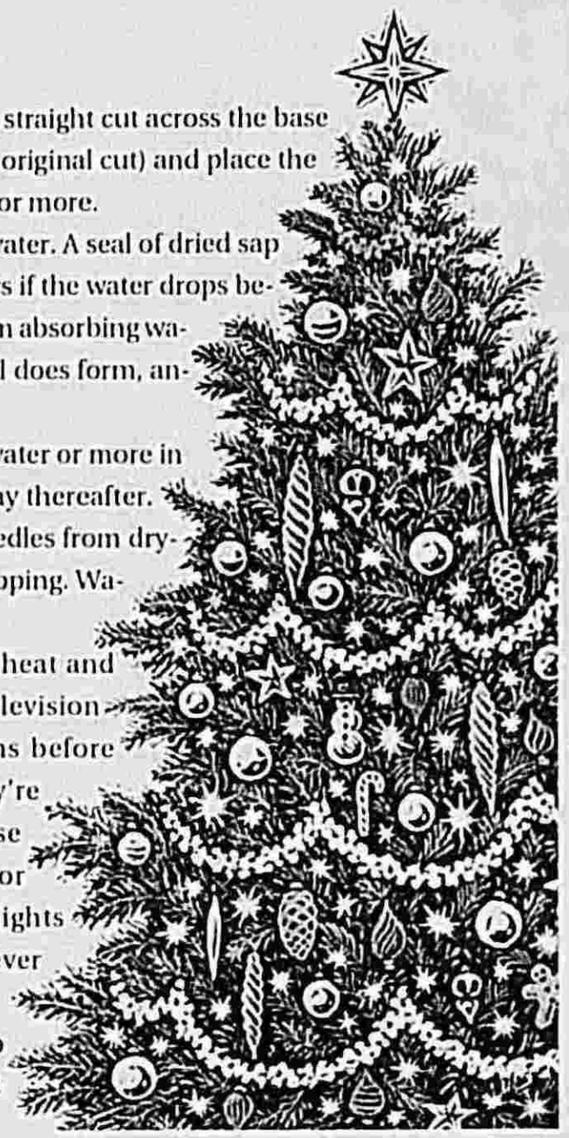

• Before you set up your tree, make a fresh, straight cut across the base of the trunk (about a quarter inch up from the original cut) and place the tree in a tree stand that holds a gallon of water or more.

• Warning: Keep the tree stand filled with water. A seal of dried sap will form over the cut stump in four to six hours if the water drops below the base of the tree, preventing the tree from absorbing water later when the tree stand is refilled. If a seal does form, another fresh cut will need to be made.

• A tree will absorb as much as a gallon of water or more in the first 24 hours and one or more quarts a day thereafter. Water is important because it prevents the needles from drying and dropping off and the boughs from drooping. Water also keeps the tree fragrant.

• In addition, keep your tree away from heat and draft sources like fireplaces, radiators and television sets. Test your light cords and connections before hanging them on the tree to make sure they're in good working order. You don't want to use cords with cracked insulation or broken or empty sockets. Also be sure to unplug the lights before you go to bed or leave the house. Never overload electrical circuits.

Sensible precautions such as these will help preserve the unique beauty and tradition that only a real Christmas tree can provide.

Gingerbread Men

Doesn't need molasses!!!!

Ingredients:

1 (4-ounce) package cooked (not instant) butterscotch pudding and pie filling
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 1/2 teaspoons ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Directions:

1. Cream pudding and pie filling mix, butter and sugar. Add egg and blend well.

2. In a separate bowl, combine flour, soda, ginger, and cinnamon; blend with pudding mixture.

3. Chill dough until firm. (Can be frozen at this stage until ready to use.)

4. Roll on floured board to about 1/8 inch thickness and cut with cookie cutter. Place on greased cookie sheets.

5. Bake at 350 degrees F (175 degrees C) for 10-12 minutes. Decorate as desired.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS FROM THE GRAYSLAKE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE!

The Grayslake Chamber of Commerce ushers in the holiday season in Grayslake with its Annual Downtown Tree Lighting Ceremony on the Friday after Thanksgiving. This family event is free to the community and includes carriage rides, visits with Santa, caroling and refreshments. At 5:30 PM on Friday, November 26, Mayor Pat Carey, assisted by Santa Claus who will be arriving by fire truck, will "light up" the downtown business area of Grayslake.

Plan to come early so you can visit one of the many retail and specialty shops to get a head start on your Holiday Shopping, have lunch or dinner at one of our fabulous restaurants, and then join us for the tree lighting ceremony at 5:30 at Center Street and Seymour Avenue.

Throughout the year, the Grayslake Chamber of Commerce sponsors many other community events. Among these are the Arts Festival in June, 5K Fun Run/Walk in July, Summer Days Festival the 3rd weekend in August, Home and Trade Fair in October, and the Farmers' Market held June through September.

Grayslake, home of the College of Lake County and the Lake County Fairgrounds, has something to offer everyone! Happy Holidays!

BASIC HOLIDAY COOKIE DOUGH

Prep: 30 minutes
Makes: About 4 dozen cookies

3 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup (2 sticks) butter, softened
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Plastic Wrap

In a medium bowl, stir flour, baking powder, cinnamon and salt until well blended; set aside. In large bowl, with an electric mixer, at medium speed, beat butter until smooth. Add sugar and beat until blended. Beat in eggs one at a time until smooth. Beat in vanilla. On low speed, gradually beat in flour mixture. Divide dough in half and use to make the following variations:

Rolled Holiday Cookies:

Wrap half of the prepared Basic Cookie Dough in plastic wrap; refrigerate 4 hours or until firm. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Roll out half of the dough at a time between two sheets of lightly floured wax paper until dough is approximately 1/8-inch thick. Cut out cookies with holiday cookie cutters and place on an aluminum foil-lined cookie sheet sprayed with non-stick cooking spray. Refrigerate dough scraps and reroll one more time. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Transfer cookies to a wire rack and cool completely. Decorate as desired. Makes about 2 dozen cookies.

Cashew Crunchies:

Gently stir 3/4 cup finely chopped salted cashews into half of the prepared Basic Cookie Dough. Wrap in plastic wrap; refrigerate 4 hours; or until firm. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Roll teaspoonfuls of dough into balls. Spread 1 cup finely chopped cashews on a sheet of plastic wrap. Roll balls of dough in the nuts and place on an aluminum foil-lined cookie sheet flattening the balls slightly. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Sprinkle cookies with powdered sugar. Let cool on cookie sheet 1 to 2 minutes. Transfer cookies to a wire rack to cool completely. Makes about 2 dozen cookies.

Holiday Cookie Tips:

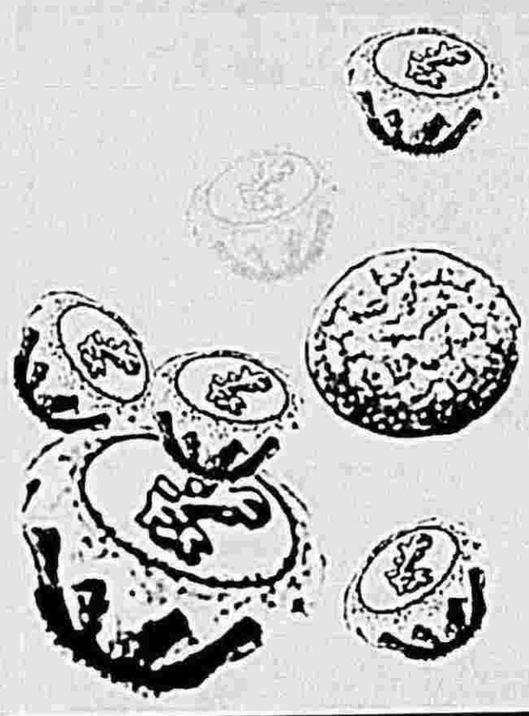

• This basic cookie recipe can be prepared in two ways. Use half the dough for each variation. This gives you two different cookies in the same time it takes to make one batch of cookies.

• Arrange your holiday cookies on a platter and cover plastic wrap to keep them fresh and looking festive. Or, line a gift tin with plastic wrap before filling with cookies.

• Cookies make great tree ornaments and stocking stuffers. Wrap cookies individually in plastic wrap twisted at the top. Tie with a ribbon.

Σ For gift giving, stack cookies in individual bake cups to prevent cookies from breaking before packing them up for gift giving.

Toys 'R' Us unveils list of the Hottest Toys of 1999

Toys 'R' Us and Toysrus.com (http://toysrus.com) has announced it's forecast picks for the hottest toys that kids will be asking for this holiday season.

"The toy selection for the holidays is broader and hotter than ever," said Michael Goldstein, CEO of Toys 'R' Us Inc. "Pokemon is the undisputed champion this holiday season, but the fact is there's lots to choose from. Toy manufacturers have gone all out in producing new, exciting, creative and interactive toys this year, and our 'Hotter than Hot' list features some of the most popular items we believe will be in demand."

Industry experts agree that Pokemon is this year's pick for the top spot. "You have to start with Pokemon when talking about the hot toys this year," said Jim Silver, Publisher of ToyBook, a leading toy industry trade publication. "That will be followed by Sesame Street's Rock & Roll Elmo and Ernie and Amazing Alley, a doll that is more like a computer."

"I think the Holiday '99 season will see record results for the video game business, so several games will be among the top sellers. But, Pokemon as category will be at the top of hot toys this season," added Sean McGowan, industry analyst with Gerard Klauer, Mattison.

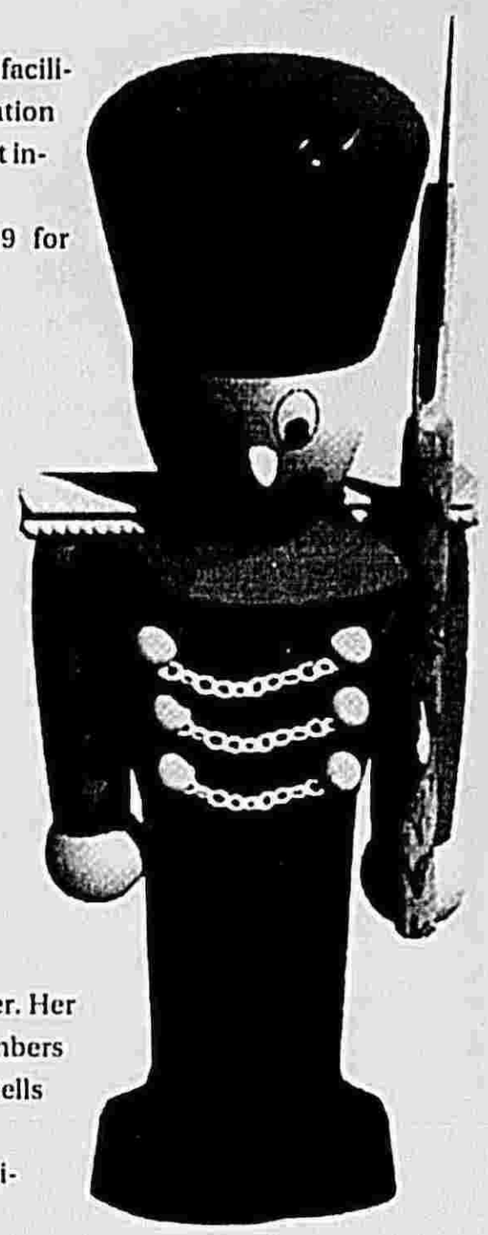

As in years past, many parents will head to the stores right after the Halloween decorations have been packed away. But this season, moms, dads and grandparents will also do a significant amount of their holiday shopping online from the comfort of their homes.

The online toy category is expected to experience considerable growth this season ranging from $230 million—a six-fold increase over last year—according to Gomez Associates to over $500 million according to other industry analysts. And Toysrus.com is one of the sites predicted to benefit from the increased traffic. A recent Harris Interactive poll (August 1999) found that among individuals planning to buy toys online this holiday, the majority, 64 percent, plan to visit Toysrus.com.

Toysrus.com has been getting ready for a record season for months. Earlier this year it purchased a 500,000-square-foot state-of-the-art fulfillment center that is unequalled in the online toy industry. The facility is located in Memphis and is stocked in preparation for the approaching holiday season with the largest inventory of the hottest toys on the Internet.

The forecasted top sellers for Holiday '99 for Toyrus.com are as follows:

Amazing Ally - Playmates
Millennium Princess Barbie - Mattel
Furby Babies - Tiger
Kinder-Garden Babies - Toy Biz
Phantom Menace Monopoly - Hasbro
Pokemon trading cards - Wizards of the Coast
Pokedex - Tiger
Pop Radio - Sound Bites
RC Super Rebound - Mattel
Rock & Roll Elmo and Ernie - Tyco
Toy Story 2 — Flying Buzz Lightyear - Mattel
WWF Titantron Playset - Jakks
Sega Dreamcast - Sega

Door Decorating Contest at Hillcrest Nursing Center

Hillcrest Nursing Center is proud to announce their 3rd Annual Holiday Door Decorating Contest. There are 117 interior doors that need to be decoratedfor the holiday season, and we hope all of them will be decorated. Church groups, business owners, municipalities, and kids of all ages participated last year in this successful event, and we look forward to seeing them again. Door decorating starts December 1st and ends December 15th, with a dessert and refreshment party following on the 16th at 6:30 p.m. The Door Decorating Contest is a unique way to bring the community together to celebrate the Christmas season. Joel Crabtree, marketing director for Hillcrest, says, "Giving of one's self and sharing from within are two things that make this season so joyous." Hillcrest Nursing Center invites communities in Lake County to participate in this event. Participants are sure to have a good time and make a difference in the lives of many seniors. High school choirs, church groups, and families are welcome to sing Christmas carols at Hillcrest during this season. We also would like to invite the community to participate in our Adopt-A-Grandparent program. For more information or to sign up, please contact Joel Crabtree at Hillcrest Nursing Center at (847) 546-5300.

The History of Mistletoe

Kissing under the mistletoe has long been a part of Christmas tradition. But just what is mistletoe and how did it's association with Christmas evolve?

About the Plant — Mistletoe is especially interesting botanically because it is a partial parasite (a "hemiparasite"). As a parasitic plant, it grows on the branches or trunk of a tree and actually sends out roots that penetrate into the tree and take up nutrients. But mistletoe is also capable for growing on its own; like other plants it can produce its own food by photosynthesis. Mistletoe, however, is more commonly found growing as a parasitic plant.

There are two types of mistletoe. The mistletoe that is commonly used as a Christmas decoration (Phoradendron flavescens) is native to North America and grows as a parasite on trees from New Jersey to Florida. The other type of mistletoe,Viscum album, is of European origin. The Greeks and earlier peoples thought that it had mystical powers and down through the centuries it became associated with many folklore customs.

The European mistletoe is a green shrub with small, yellow flowers and white, sticky berries which are considered poisonous. It's commonly seen on apples but only rarely on oak trees. The rarer oak mistletoe was greatly venerated by the ancient Celts and Germans and used as a ceremonial plant by early Europeans.

The traditions which began with the European mistletoe were transferred to the similar American plant with the process of immigration and settlement.

Origins of its name — The common name of the plant is derived from the ancient belief that mistletoe was propagated from bird droppings. This belief was related to the then-accepted principle that life could spring spontaneously from dung. It was observed in ancient times that mistletoe would often appear on a branch or twig where birds had left droppings. "Mistel" is the Anglo-Saxon word for "dung," and "tan" is the word for "twig." So, mistletoe means "dung-on-a-twig."

By the sixteenth century, botanists had discovered that the mistletoe plant was spread by seeds which had passed through the digestive tract of birds. One of the earliest written references to this appeared in England, in 1532, in an Herbal published by Turner. Botanists of the time also observed that the sticky berry seeds of the mistletoe tended to cling to the bills of birds. When the birds cleaned their bills by rubbing them against the branches or bark of trees, the the seeds were further scattered.

The magical tradtions — From the earliest times mistletoe has been one of the most magical, mysterious, and sacred plants of European folklore. It was considered a bestower of life and fertility; a protectant against poison; and an aphrodisiac.

The mistletoe of the sacred oak was especially sacred to the ancient Celtic Druids. On the sixth night of the moon white-robed Druid priests would cut the oak mistletoe with a golden sickle. Two white bulls would be sacrificed amid prayers that the recipients of the mistletoe would prosper.

Later, the ritual of cutting the mistletoe from the oak came to symbolize the emasculation of the old King by his successor. Mistletoe was long regarded as both a sexual symbol and the "soul" of the oak. It was gathered at both mid-summer and winter solstices, and the custom of using mistletoe to decorate houses at Christmas is a survival of the Druid and other pre-Christian traditions. (Mistletoe is still ceremonially plucked on mid-summer eve in some Celtic and Scandinavian countries.)

In the Middle Ages and later, branches of mistletoe were hung from ceilings to ward off evil spirits. In Europe they were placed over house and stable doors to prevent the entrance of witches.

It was also believed that the oak mistletoe could extinguish fire. This was associated with an earlier belief that

Chicagoland Toys for Tots Motorcycle parade

The world's largest motorcycle parade

When will the parade be held?

Sunday, December 5

Where does the parade start?

The parade starts at 8300 South Western Ave.(83rd & Western). The bike staging area is a Chicago Forest Preserve called Dan Ryan Woods. You will be given directions of where to go when you arrive.

What route does the parade take?

The Parade begins at Western Avenue and 83rd Street (8300 South), travels north on Western to Foster Avenue (5200 North) where it turns west for one mile to Troy St., arriving at the Marine Corps Reserve Center.

How long is the route?

The entire distance is almost 20 miles

How long does it take?

The first riders leave at 10:30 am, and usually arrive in about 1-to 1-and-a-half hours. However, due to weather conditions and the number of participants, times can vary. Riders are encouraged to ride at a leisurely pace, to enjoy the event and surrounding atmosphere.

Where does the parade end?

The Parade ends at the Marine Corps Reserve Center on Foster Avenue (5200 North)

How many people participate?

In 1998 over 22,000 bikers participated in the parade, and over 100,000 have ridden in the parade since it began in 1978.

When I arrive in The Dan Ryan Woods, can I ride around until I find my friends?

No, No, No, No, No! All riders who enter The Woods, will have to park their bikes until the parade begins. The Toys For Tots volunteers will direct the incoming riders, but will not permit any riding through the woods. We welcome all riding groups, clubs, gangs, families, tribes, etc., but if you want to ride the parade in a group, you must arrive at the woods, en masse (in a group). We suggest that groups assemble somewhere in the vicinity of 83rd Street and Western Avenue, at a nearby restaurant, school, parking lot or tavern, before coming to the woods.

Do just people from the Chicago area ride in the parade?

The Parade welcomes all motorcyclists, provided they bring at least one toy to donate to the Marine Corps Reserve Toys For Tots Program. We encourage all riders to join us, and we frequently see bikes from Alaska and Hawaii. Even non-riders can participate by bringing toys to the parade route, and giving the toys to the bikers as they ride by.

What kinds of toys would be best to bring?

• Over the years, as Toys For Tots Members have delivered thousands of toys to various hospitals, schools, orphanages, etc., they have discovered that while some toys are very welcome, others create problems. Stuffed animals can no longer be accepted. Because of hygienic problems, many juvenile institutions will not accept stuffed animals, and thousands have to be destroyed every year. PLEASE, NO STUFFED ANIMALS.

• Toy guns, knives, whips, brass knuckles, handcuffs, etc. are also looked down on. And remember, NO FOOD, NO PETS.

• When selecting a toy, please remember that not only young children, but many teenagers and young adults also need your help at Christmastime. Therefore we need more sports equipment (bats, baseballs, gloves, footballs, soccer balls, basketballs, bicycles) board games (Parcheesi, Monopoly, Sorry, Clue) books (Nancy Drew, The Hardy Boys) dolls (Ken, Barbie, G.I. Joe) toy cars, toy trucks, toy planes, toy boats, and toy motorcycles.

Where do the toys go? Who gets them?

The majority of the toys are given to the Marine Corps Reserve and they distribute them. The rest are delivered, by the riders who organize the parade, to dozens of hospitals, orphanages, schools and even private homes, wherever the need is the greatest.

the mistletoe itself could come to the tree during a flash of lightning. In parts of England and Wales farmers would give the Christmas bunch of mistletoe to the first cow that calved in the New Year. This was thought to bring good luck to the entire herd.

Kissing under the mistletoe is first found associated with the Greek festival of Saturnalia and later with primitive marriage rites. Mistletoe was believed to have the power of bestowing fertility, and the dung from which the mistletoe was thought to arise was also said to have "life-giving" power.

In Scandinavia, mistletoe was considered a plant of peace, under which enemies could declare a truce or warring spouses kiss and make-up.

In some parts of England the Christmas mistletoe is burned on the twelfth night lest all the boys and girls who have kissed under it never marry.

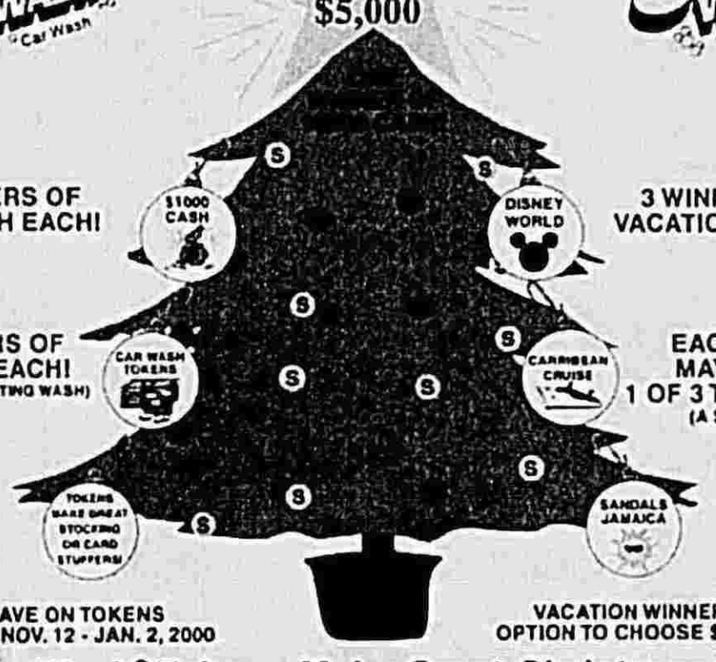

And for those who wish to observe the correct etiquette: a man should pluck a berry when he kisses a woman under the mistletoe, and when the last berry is gone, there should be no more kissing!—by Sara Williams -Courtesy of Santaland.com

Gift giving tips help take mystery out of holiday shopping

Each year, local businesses spend a great deal of time and money selecting holiday gifts for their customers. Now you can remove some of the mystery — and the problems — out of holiday giving by following a few simple tips from Wauconda Orchards.

"The holiday season offers companies a great opportunity to thank their customers," according to Rick Breeden, owner of Wauconda Orchards. "But there are many important questions that need answered when selecting gifts, such as budget, type of gifts and so forth. These questions don't need to create headaches for business owners. Quite the opposite-we believe that picking out the gifts should be fun! Following some easy guidelines is the best way to make sure you enjoy the experience."

The question Breeden is asked most frequently about holiday giving is how to select gifts that send just the right message to customers. "The best way to address this issue is to start with a gift budget," said Breeden. "Sometimes that includes choosing different gifts for different people. It also means choosing the kinds of gifts that are appropriate for the person who will receive the gift."

Many companies mail or ship gifts to customers, a practice that can lead to the biggest gift-giving headache: returned and/or undelivered gifts. "It's very important to 'clean' your mailing list," said Breeden. "Incorrect addresses usually result in returned packages that arrive too late to re-send in a timely fashion. And UPS and other delivery companies are unable to deliver gifts to most P.O. boxes. . . so make sure your mailing list includes street addresses!"

Choosing the right time to send gifts is also important, Breeden noted. "We always recommend shipping gifts as early as possible," he said. "Avoid Friday deliveries whenever you can. And remember: the closer you get to Christmas, the higher is your risk or errors, late shipments and lost gifts. In fact, the desire to avoid these problems has led many business customers to send gifts for Thanksgiving instead of Christmas."

Finally, it's important to know your supplier, Breeden cautioned. "Telephone, fax and on-line ordering offer convenient options so long as you have experience with the company handling your order," he said. "But make sure you have the name of the customer service representative responsible for processing your order, especially for larger ones. Having a live conversation is a good rule of thumb when sending company orders to a variety of different addresses. Remember: it's your company's reputation that's on the line!"

America's Second Harvest to benefit from one of the web's largest online fundraising campaigns

This holiday season, caring and compassion have a new home page: www.hungerfreeholiday.com. Benefiting America's Second Harvest — the nation's largest domestic hunger relief organization—Internet powerhouse FreeShop.com and retailing stalwart Macy's unveiled Hunger-Free Holiday(TM), a new Web-based program designed to help end hunger in America.

With a few simple clicks, visitors to the Hunger-Free Holiday Web site can make contributions directly to America's Second Harvest via secure credit card transactions from now until Dec. 31. For every dollar donated, America's Second Harvest distributes 34 pounds of food and grocery products to needy Americans.

"The innovative Hunger-Free Holiday program will enable the general public not only to learn about domestic hunger, but it gives them a direct and immediate way to help," said Deborah Leff, president and CEO, America's Second Harvest. "With the help of major players like FreeShop.com and Macy's, we're tapping the power of the Internet to really make a difference in the lives of millions of hungry people."

Backed by an aggressive, multi-faceted online and offline marketing campaign, the Hunger-Free Holiday program has the potential to set a new national standard among "click to give" initiatives emerging in cyberspace this year.

Hunger-Free Holiday will be prominently featured on Macy's new Thanksgiving Day Parade(TM) Web site (www.macyparade.com) which promises to draw hundreds of thousands of visitors during the parade broadcast on NBC. As a thank you to all Hunger-Free Holiday donors, Macy's will offer a special 10 percent online discount good for purchases at macys.com.

The program will also be heavily promoted on FreeShop.com, which draws nearly three and a half million visitors every month. FreeShop.com, a top-10 Internet shopping site according to Media Metrix, initiated and created Hunger-Free Holiday and attracted Macy's and America's Second Harvest as program partners.

America's Second Harvest (www.secondharvest.org) is the nation's largest domestic hunger-relief organization with a network of 189 regional food banks serving all 50 states and Puerto Rico. The organization distributes more than one billion pounds of donated food and grocery product annually, and supports approximately 50,000 local charitable agencies that operate more than 94,000 food programs, including food pantries, soup kitchens, women's shelters, Kids Cafes and other local organizations that provide food assistance to more than 26 million hungry Americans, including eight million children and four million seniors each year.

"FreeShop.com is uniquely suited to be a partner in this important initiative," said Tim Choate, president and CEO of FreeShop. "Hunger-Free Holiday is a natural extension of our expertise in both generating traffic to Web sites and handling large transactional volumes. We're committed to using our Internet experience to help feed hungry families throughout the nation this holiday season."

The Hunger-Free Holiday Web site, located at www.hungerfreeholiday.com, will be live through Dec. 31.

Which Hanukkah will you be having tonight?

How the Maccabees made history and how history made Hanukkah

Those who think Hanukkah is the Jewish Christmas have it almost right: Hanukkah is the holiday of being Jewish amidst the Christmas tide.

Consider Hanukkah's place in the Jewish year: a minor holiday not commanded by the Torah, barely mentioned by the Talmud.

Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur are holidays for the soul. Passover, Shavuot and Sukkot recall the forging of the Jewish people through their journey from Egyptian slavery to Israel and freedom.

Hanukkah, along with Purim, recalls the later story of being Jewish in a non-Jewish world, a world where Judea could not simply close its borders against an increasingly globalized civilization. If the theme of Purim is physical survival despite outside threats, Hanukkah is about the survival of the Jewish spirit—with a healthy dose of physical resistance thrown in for good measure.

How does a community maintain its identity in relation to the broader culture? How much should outside influences be resisted, and how much embraced? How much do we depend upon God to save us and how much upon ourselves? These were the questions that burned in the Jews in the time of the Maccabbees more than 2100 years ago. It was the renewed relevance of these questions which propelled Hanukkah, for centuries a minor festivity, to a central place in the Jewish calendar of the 20th century.

Hanukkah: The History

The basic story of Hanukkah is well known: In the year 167 b.c.e., Antiochus IV, ruler of the third of Alexander's Greek empire that included Syria and Israel, banned circumcision and Sabbath obervance, and introduced pagan worship into the Temple in Jerusalem. Mattathias, a priest in the small town of Modiin, refused an order to worship a sacrifice, slayed both a Jew who joined in the pagan worship and the king's agent, and fled to the hills to launch a guerrilla rebellion that was continued after his death by his son, Judah Maccabee.

After two years, the rebels succeeded in reconquering Jerusalem. On the third anniversary of the Temple's desecration it was rededicated in an eight day celebration.

According to the Talmud, it was at this time that a single undefiled flask of olive oil was found for lighting the Temple candelabrum (menorah). Miraculously, the oil, sufficient for only one day, burnt for eight.

The real story

The real history story is much more convoluted.

The Maccabeean revolt wasn't strictly a revolt against Antiochus: Antiochus' decrees against Jewish practice were imposed at the behest of a group of Jews who wanted to be part of the Greek civilization. These Jews resented that Jewish law was the law of the land, endorsed, until then, by the empire. This clash was less a war of liberation from the Greeks than an actual civil war.

While Judah Maccabee fought against the Jewish high priest Jason, who readily introduced pagan worship to the Temple, he was also at odds with the faithful who preferred to die than to fight on the Sabbath. Having won the victory for Jewish tradition against newfangled Greek civilization, he proceeded to institute a new holiday.

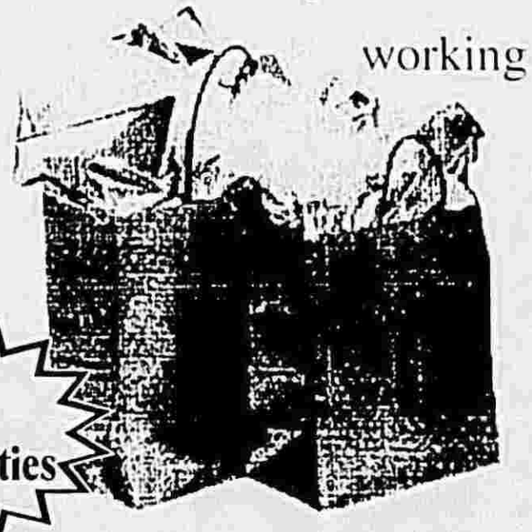

The Maccabee's mixture of spiritual and military resistance took ironic turns through the remaining generations of Jewish independence.

The generation that followed Judah and Simon bore Greek names.

As rulers, they expanded the borders of the Jewish state — and forcibly converted the peoples they conquered to Judaism.

They also came into conflict with the rabbis who thought political leaders should be descendants of the House of David.

The Maccabees proved as flawed as any other dynasty. Through misuse of power and infighting, and ultimately paved the way for Roman rule and a halt to Jewish independence that lasted 1900 years.

Evolution of Hanukkah

Hanukkah has undergone many transformations between the first Temple Rededication and the Rugrats Hanukkah special.

Originally both a religious and military celebration, the military victory was all-but ignored by the rabbis of the Mishna and Talmud, for whom the most important part was the miracle of the Temple's rededication.

In the Middle Ages, the idea of martyrdom, a real issue for Jews living in Christian persecution, came to the fore, with the stories of Hannah and her seven sons.

With the invention of playing cards and gambling, Hanukkah became a time of lighthearted gaming—as experienced through the dreidel.

A hundred years ago, Hanukkah was drafted to serve two projects for defining Jewish identity in a non-Jewish world.

In Russia, Zionist nationalists retold the story of Hanukkah to emphasize the victories of the Maccabees, as military heroes who made Jewish history by taking up arms and taking Jewish history in their own hands. This version can be heard most explicitly in a Zionist song which secularized a Biblical hymn: "Mi yimalel—Who can retell the heroic deeds of Israel?"

Having decided to fight to liberate Israel for the first time in centuries, the Zionists gave the Maccabees mythic significance as the original Jewish superheroes, if not faster than a speeding bullet, at least able to uproot 50-foot trees on horseback.

In America, Henrietta Szold and others fighting to revitalize American Judaism seized upon Hanukkah—with its congruence to the increasingly important American Christmas holiday—to symbolize the American ideal of religious freedom and the Jewish necessity of minority religious pluralism.

The bottom line

So what does Hanukkah mean to us?

Really, the question is, what does Hanukkah mean to you—and what do you want to teach your children?

Hanukkah can be

- a celebration of God's salvation
- a celebration of protecting Jewish uniqueness
- a celebration of Jews fighting for themselves and their religion
- a celebration of our difference
- a celebration of Jewish power
- a time for giving gifts
- a season of light in the darkest time of the year

Holiday Happenings throughout the state of Illinois

Events

The holidays are a special time of year when friends and family gather together to celebrate the spirit of the season. The smell of evergreen fills the air, the harmony of carolers warms the heart and children's faces light up in joyful anticipation of the celebrations to come. In ever corner of Illinois, memories of holidays past come to life and new traditions are made with parades, light festivals and designer tree exhibits. Whether you are snuggled together on a sleigh ride, window shopping along cozy streets or driving along the snow-blanketed hills, Illinois is the perfect place for a winter getaway for family and friends this holiday season.

NORTHERN ILLINOIS

Holiday characters come to life in Harvard at their annual Hometown Christmas celebration on Dec. 4. Frosty the Snowman opens the festivities with a parade, leading the procession to the city's Christmas tree for the annual tree lighting ceremony. Carolers and views of animated store windows add to the holiday festivities.

Christmas past meets Christmas present through festivals in Rockford this holiday season. Santa stops in town on Nov. 28 for the 11th Annual Festival of Lights in Rockford, lighting more than 75 luminary displays along the winding hills of Sinnissippi Park. Visitors can experience a Victorian Christmas from Dec. 4-5 and 11-12 at Tinker Swiss Cottage with traditional decorations, cookies and gifts.

Galena's Victorian historic District is the perfect place to celebrate Christmas the way it used to be. The Santa Claus is Coming to Town Parade from Nov. 27-28, opens the Country Christmas celebrations in Galena which continue throughout December. The Christmas Housewalk on Dec. 4 includes tours of five Victorian homes trimmed in holiday style. And from Nov. 26 to Dec. 19, the rugged, unglaciated hills of Galena set the stage for breathtaking light displays as residents complete in the Light Up the Valleys contest.

Fulton celebrates the charm of an old fashioned Christmas with two unique holiday festivals. Christmas past comes to life in Heritage Canyon from Dec. 4-5 as American crafters recreate their Dutch heritage in scenes from Christmases of the 1800's. Thousands of luminary candles light the way for the Old Fashioned Christmas Walk on Dec. 3-4 with caroling, live window and manger scenes, horse-drawn carriage rides and breakfast with Santa.

WESTERN ILLINOIS

The town of Quincy treats travelers to more than two miles of luminary magic with their brand-new holiday celebration of Avenue of Lights which begins Nov. 24 and runs throughout the winter season. The Symphony of Trees will delight children of all ages with displays of designer trees and holiday scenes from Dec. 1-5.

The Swedish settlement of Bishop Hill celebrates the holiday season with three unique events. The annual festival of Julmarknad from Nov. 26-28 and Dec. 4-5, celebrates a traditional Swedish Christmas with authentic foods, music and gifts. The entire village will be aglow with candlelight from Dec. 10-11 as girls dressed in traditional costume and strolling carolers celebrate Saint Lucia, the Sicilian saint who wore a wreath of candles in her hair to illuminate her way through the darkness. A candlelight service at the restored 1848 church will be

CENTRAL ILLINOIS

The spirit of the holiday season is alive in Springfield. More than 70 trees and wreaths are decorated in holiday splendor at the Festival of Trees from Nov. 20-28. Frank Lloyd Wright's magnificent Dana-Thomas House becomes even more breathtaking from Dec. 8-31 with holiday finery on display and live musical performances. On Dec. 19 the house will glow in the quiet splendor or hundreds of luminaries lining the homes exterior. Visitors can travel back in time to a Christmas of the 1860's to see historic homes adorned with period decorations at Christmas in Mr. Lincoln's Neighborhood from Dec. 4 to Jan. 3.

The halls of David Davis Mansion in Bloomington will be decorated for the holiday season from Nov. 26 to Jan. 1. Free guided tours will lead visitors throughout the stately Victorian home of this former U.S. Supreme Court Justice. Each room is decorated in a different fashion, tracing Christmas styles from the late 1800's to today.

The 10th Annual Holiday Home Tour in Taylorville takes visitors on tours of landmark homes through the "Christmas Capital of Illinois," from Dec. 3-4. Children will especially enjoy the Alice in Wonderland High Tea including a festive luncheon and music.

The streets of Shelbyville come to life at the Victorian Splendor Lights Festival from Nov. 19 to Jan. 2 This enchanting three-mile drive takes visitors through brightly-lit trees and illuminated displays. Horse drawn surrey rides down the town's cobblestone streets, which are lined with luminaries, add the perfect touch to a holiday getaway in Shelbyville.

CHICAGOLAND

Chicago's Magnificent Mile Lights Festival, features a weekend full of activities, which set the stage for the holiday season with decorated shop windows and sparkling lights from Nov. 20-21. Marshall Field's Jingle Elf Parade on Nov. 25, ushers in the holiday season as one of the nation's premier parades. Daley Plaza turns into a German marketplace with the Christkindlmarket from Nov. 26 to Dec. 23 offering gifts and food in a European setting. Lincoln Park Zoo's Light Festivals invite visitors to take an illuminated "walk on the wild side" from Nov. 26 to Jan. 2, Wednesdays through Sundays. Most animal house will be open to the public and special activities include a children's craft area, kiddy train ride, ice carving demonstrations and visits with Santa. Local choral groups will lead visitors in Caroling to the Animals on Dec. 5

A journey to historic Long Grove from Dec. 1-24 promises charming streets illuminated with sparkling white lights during the Countryside Christmas Festival. Carolers will stroll down cobblestone streets as guests enjoy carriage rides, complimentary refreshments and a visit with Santa.

Visitors to Oak Park on Dec. 3-5 are invited to tour artists' studios and galleries to find the perfect holiday gift during the Holiday Lights Art Studio Walk. The artists will be on-hand to demonstrate their crafts, answer questions and discuss techniques. Throughout December, visitors can take the Diverse Architecture and Famous People self-guided walking tour to see historical homes decorated in holiday finery and reflect upon the famous people who were once residents of Oak Park.

The Polar Express and Yuletide Celebration will pull into Aurora from Dec. 18-20 for a night of sparkling holiday lights and festive music. Children of all ages can climb aboard an old-0time steam locomotive, which will whisk them through a winter wonderland.

Classic Yule Log

Recipes

A festive holiday cake.
Merry Christmas!

Ingredients:

1/2 cup sifted cake flour
1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup white sugar
3 large eggs, separated
1/4 cup milk
confectioners sugar
1 1/2 cups whipped cream
2 cups heavy cream
8 ounces semisweet chocolate, melted
1/4 cup butter, softened
confectioners sugar
1/2 teaspoon green food coloring
1 (8-ounce) package marzipan cinnamon red-hot candies
candy snowmen

Directions:

1. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F (175 degrees C). Grease a 15x10-inch jell y roll pan. Line with waxed paper. Grease paper.

2. Sift together flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt.

3. Beat together sugar and egg yolks at high speed until light and fluffy. At low speed, alternately beat milk and flour mixture into egg mixture.

4. Using clean beaters, beat egg whites at high speed until stiff, but not dry, peaks form. Fold one third of beaten whites into batter. Fold in remaining whites. Spread batter in prepared pan; smooth top.

5. Bake cake at 350 degrees F (175 degrees C) until set, 12 minutes.

6. Dust a clean cloth with confectioners' sugar. Turn cake out onto prepared cloth. Remove waxed paper. Trim cake edges. Starting with a long side, roll up cake, jelly-roll style. Transfer, seam-side down, to a wire rack to cool for 30 minutes.

7. Unroll cake; remove cloth. Spread whipped cream over cake to within 1 inch of edges. Re-roll cake. Place, seam-side down, on serving plate.

8. To prepare frosting, in a small saucepan, bring heavy cream, melted chocolate and butter to a boil over medium heat, stirring vigorously until blended. Remove from heat. Let stand until set. Spread frosting over top and sides of cake.

9. To prepare garnish, dust work surface with confectioners' sugar. Knead food coloring into marzipan until blended. Using a rolling pin dusted with confectioners' sugar, roll marzipan to a 1/8-inch thickness. Using a small knife, cut out leaves. Arrange leaves, cinnamon candies, and snowmen on top of cake and around plate. Dust with confectioners' sugar. Enjoy!

The History of Kwanzaa

A non-religious holiday, Kwanzaa celebrates African-American heritage, pride, community, family and culture. The seven-day festival commences the day after Christmas and culminates on New Year's Day.

Inspired by the civil rights struggles of the 1960s and based on ancient African celebrations, Kwanzaa has become increasingly popular over the last decade. More than 20 million people celebrate in the United States, Canada, England, the Carribean and Africa.

Kwanzaa's ancient roots lie in African first-fruit harvest celebrations, from which it takes its name. The word Kwanzaa is derived from the Swahili phrase "matunda ya kwanza," which means "first fruits."

Those roots are the foundation on which the modern holiday was built. Maulana Karenga, an African-American scholar and activist, conceived Kwanzaa in 1966 following the Watts riot. Currently, Karenga is chairman of the Department of Black Studies at California State University at Long Beach.

Karenga says Kwanzaa is organized around five fundamental activities common to other African first-fruit celebrations:

- The ingathering of family, friends, and community;
- Reverence for the creator and creation (including thanksgiving and recommitment to respect the environment and heal the world);
- Commemoration of the past (honoring ancestors, learning lessons and emulating achievements of African history);
- Recommitment to the highest cultural ideals of the African community (for example, truth, justice, respect for people and nature, care for the vulnerable and respect for elders); and
- Celebration of the "Good of Life" (for example, life, struggle, achievement, family, community, and culture).

Slice of history

Lake County Museum to spruce up for future with new exhibits highlighting the past

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

On a Friday afternoon early in the school year, dozens of students from Lake Zurich District 95 are leaving the Lake County Museum at Lakewood Forest Preserve.

They know a little more about the history of Lake County, of the Treaty of Chicago in 1833, and that the county they call home has 160 years of recorded history.

"We serve more than 10,000 students a year and there are at least 300 schools in the area," Mary Ellen Mason, communication and development coordinator, said.

The Museum, part of Lake County Forest Preserve, recently held a Night on the Nile event, in honor of its new exhibits coming on line next year. In that spirit, a March trip to Egypt is planned. Cost is $2,295 for the trip, a 12-day tour conducted by Bassam El Shammaa, lecturer in Egyptology.

"I enjoy seeing the Museum grow and having it be certified nationally," Russ Parks from Lindenhurst, said during a shift at the Museum store.

"The store serves all ages —people love to come in and look at collectibles here," Mason said.

Parks puts in an eight-hour shift as one of several volunteers. He also helps out at special events, including the Saturday night gala of the Nile. He has been helping for several years, ever since he saw a story about the cleaning up of the Nike site.

Near the store is the always popular Civil War exhibit, one on kites, another on Owls. There is even an Owl work station, where those fascinated can learn even more.

The Museum has been an award-winner in recent years. The Illinois State Historical Society gave it a superior achievement honor for the exhibit "Model A to Z 28." Landmarks Preservation has also honored the museum.

Grants received by the museum include State of Illinois Public Museum Capital Grant of $250,000; $10,000 from Illinois Public Museum Operating Grant; $443,891 from Illinois State Library education grant; $100,000 from Illinois Bureau of Tourism and $500 from Illinois Arts Council.

Mason said the museum is used for birthday parties, rentals and weddings. Lake County Museum has hosted an annual senior picnic, the Republicans have had their picnic here, and programs range from firefighting awareness, to the Civil War re-enactment to Lake County farm history—all on the Lakewood Forest Preserve grounds.

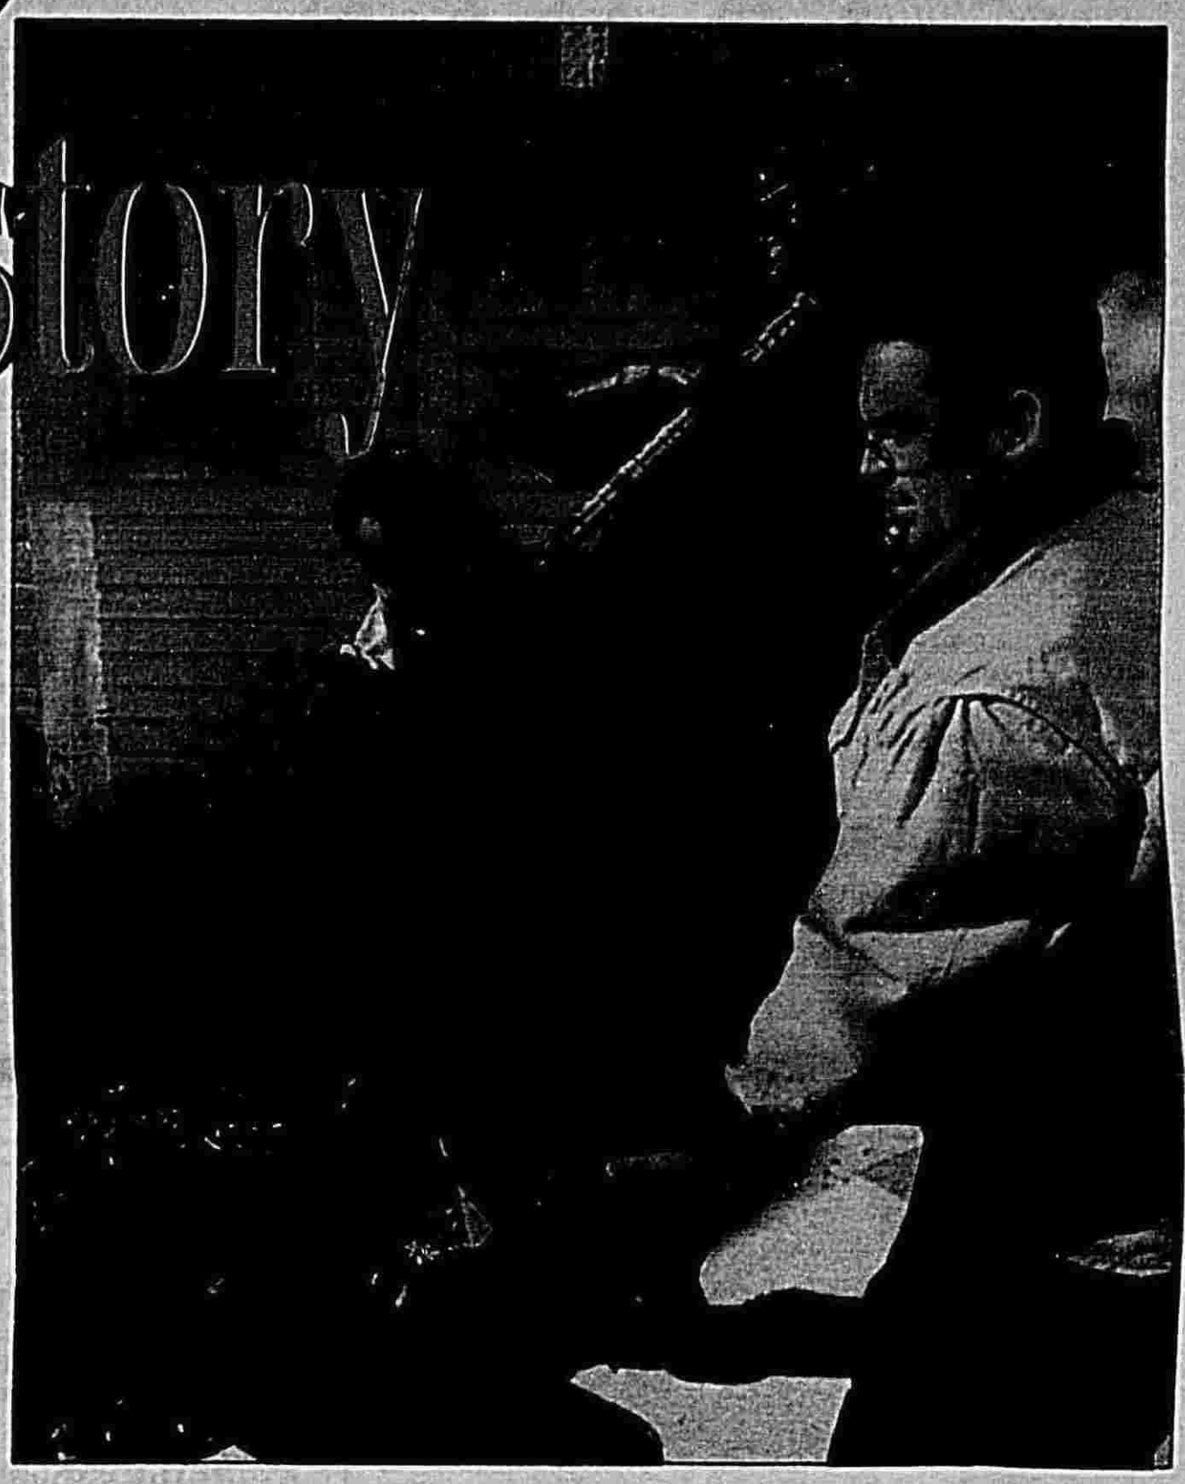

A $25,000 grant from the Chicago Community Trust has recently been secured. The grant will help fund the Chicago Connection portion of the Museum's Wall of History exhibit, which will open next spring.

The recent Nile-themed event, funding the new exhibits to be opened next year, drew some 3,000 visitors.

"We work with teachers in Lake County. We were at their day at Great America. The Lake Zurich students numbered about 100 and they learned about the pioneer days when Lake County was just a settlement. It is great to be busy each day," Andy Osborn, Museum staffer, said.

Students learned that many different tribes of Indians inhabited Illinois and Wisconsin. The most recent of which was the Potawatomi. As early as 17th and 18th century, the area was explored by French traders

How to keep your jokes from bombing

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

If local weekly source for non-felony humor, I feel it is my civic duty to address the recent rash of bad so-called jokes that have occurred in the high schools in this area.

But before I begin, let me state that, as the mother of two former teenagers, I am aware of how much you hate getting a lecture from anyone with the nickname of "Mom." I can't say that I blame you because, as we all know, "Mom lectures" were actually the model that the Senate used to develop what is commonly known as "the filibuster." Of course, perhaps some of you don't know what a "filibuster" is, because on the day you were supposed to learn about it, some "comedian" called the school and cleared the building with a bad joke.

Anyway, I want to assure you that despite the fact that I am a Mom, today's column is not a lecture. I mean, really–have you ever had a lecture from your mother that ended in 800 words or less? I know my kids haven't.

So instead of a lecture, let's just say that today's column is like an offline chat room, only better. The "better" part is that I get to do all the chatting while you sit there and read it.

Why? Because I said so!

Let's begin by attempting to define for you the difference between jokes that will make people laugh and jokes that may get you a new set of friends who say things like, "You talkin' to ME?" I realize this is not a distinction that children are born knowing. This must be learned; however, most high school curriculums do not currently contain a course entitled "Jokes, Puns and Limericks 101."

Although, considering recent events, maybe they should. Until that happens, maybe I can help you get started on the road to non-felony humor. First, let me give you an example of a joke (by Rodney Dangerfield) that is funny, but will not get you arrested:

"My father never liked me. For Christmas, he gave me a bat. The first time I tried to play ball with it, it flew away."

On the other hand, the following joke may get you a new room...behind bars...without a phone:

"Pssst. There's a bomb planted in the school. It is set to detonate in 30 minutes."

Of course, some of you may be saying, "Well, this was not exactly a joke. It's different. It's called a prank."

But even a prank is supposed to be funny. Here is an example of a prank that we used to pull back in my high school days:

PRANKSTER DIALS THE LOCAL DRUGSTORE.

DRUGSTORE EMPLOYEE: "Walgreens. Can I help you?"

PRANKSTER: "Yes! Do you have Prince Albert in a can?"

DRUGSTORE EMPLOYEE: "Yes, we do."

PRANKSTER: "Well, then, LET HIM OUT! HA, HA, HA, HA, HA!"

Okay. It's not that funny. But it is harmless. I don't believe that anyone at Walgreen's ever feared that somewhere back in the warehouse, poor little Prince Albert was stuck in a can.

On the other hand, when you call the school and say there is a bomb, someone is very likely to believe you. Especially these days, which is why when it comes to humor, it pays to be aware of the times you are living in, teen people.

Now, I will admit that even in my day, there was the occasional bomb threat at school. But back then school officials didn't take those calls quite as seriously. There was no such thing as the Internet, and they knew that the average student's chemical knowledge consisted of whether or not a chemical was ingestible, not combustible. Which means they did take calls like THIS seriously: "Pssst. Someone put LSD in the coffee in the teacher's lounge."

Another thing to remember is that good humor should be funny to more than just you or your immediate friends. For instance, just because your friend Pottsy thinks it is funny when you give wedgies to incoming freshman, does not mean that it is. Pottsy also laughed when he blew up his sister's hamster in the microwave. Pottsy has a future on Jerry Springer.

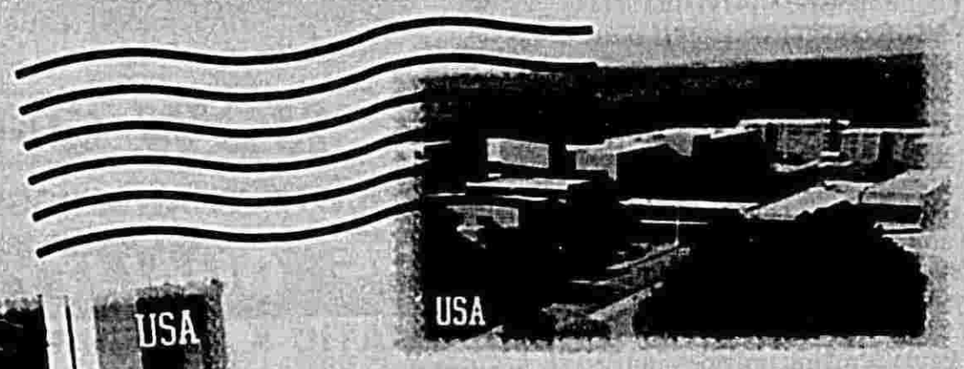

Finally, the point of all good humor should be to enlighten or entertain, not to intimidate or frighten people. Keep this in mind next time you think bomb threats are funny or even just a good way to avoid school. Remember, Hallmark does not make cards that say, "I are NOT a graduate."

And the prison record you prevent may be your own.

HOROSCOPE

Aries – March 21/April 20
Watch what you say when you meet an intriguing person this week, Aries. He or she has the potential to offer you a lucrative proposition. Don't say anything tactless. A loved one needs your help with a family problem. While you don't want to get involved, do what you can to help.

Taurus – April 21/May 21
Don't be taken in by the fast talk of an acquaintance. He or she has a harebrained scheme and wants to get you involved. Just say no. It will cost you a lot of money with little hope of a good return. That special someone needs your advice. Be honest with him or her. Virgo plays an important role.

Gemini – May 22/June 21
It's a quiet week for you, Gemini. You don't have much to do, and nobody is asking you for any favors. Enjoy yourself while you can. Spend time with those closest to you, and pamper yourself a little. If you don't do it now, you won't have another chance for quite a long time.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
Don't let an argument with a loved one get you down. Just try to talk things out with him or her. You both say things that you don't mean. Try to explain yourself. Once you clear the air and reopen the lines of communication, things will get back to normal. A good friend needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her.

Leo – July 23/August 23
Don't hold a grudge against a good friend who makes an honest mistake. He or she doesn't mean to cause you any problems. Keep your anger in check, and try to help this person resolve the situation. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify the relationship. Say yes, because you know that this is what you want.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
Don't worry about a good friend who is in a difficult situation early in the week, Virgo. He or she has made an informed decision and wants to go through with it. Things will work out for the best. That special someone asks you an important question. Think about what you really want before answering him or her.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
While you hate to be rude, that is the only way that you're going to rid yourself of an annoying acquaintance this week, Libra. Don't feel guilty about it. You have a lot to do, and you need to focus on the tasks at hand. This person won't be hurt by what you say.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22
Don't be controlling when it comes to that special someone. He or she isn't at your beck and call. Let this person make his or her own decisions. Being possessive only will hurt your relationship. A loved one asks for your help with a family problem. Do what you can.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21
You really put your foot in your mouth early in the week when meeting with a business associate. Don't try to talk around the blunder. Just acknowledge the mistake, and say what you actually mean to say. That's the only way to make the best of the situation. Taurus plays an important role late in the week.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
Try to be helpful when an acquaintance asks you for advice about a personal matter. He or she really needs your help. Do what you can for him or her. A loved one reveals some interesting information to you. While you're tempted to tell others, don't. You are told this in confidence.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
Everyone seems to be asking you for something this week. Try to help where you can, but don't get in over your head. You have a lot of your own things to do. You can't help everyone, and people will realize this. That special someone asks for your opinion on a financial matter. Be honest with him or her.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
Keep your sense of humor about you this week, Pisces, because you're going to need it. It's going to be a stressful week. Laughing about all that you have to do will help make it a little more enjoyable — and bearable.

SPECIAL EVENTS

A Chicago holiday tradition, "The Radio City Christmas Spectacular," starring the world-famous Rockettes, will appear at the Rosemont Theatre, Nov. 26 through Dec. 30.

Christmas is kickin'

Tickets are on sale for The Radio City Christmas Spectacular, starring the world-famous Rockettes, at the Rosemont Theatre, Nov. 26-Dec. 30. With near sell-out performances the last two years, now is the time to get the best seats for the entire family. Ten additional shows have been added for 1999, allowing more families to make it their holiday must-see. That means 66 performances featuring nearly a quarter-million eye-high kicks are scheduled for Christmas this year!

The annual Rosemont Theatre production recreates the lavish Radio City Music Hall show by featuring more than 100 cast and crew members, 300-plus stunning costumes, more than 200 hats, three camels, five sheep, two donkeys and a dog. But it's the perceivably perfect precision of the glamorous, high-kicking Radio City Rockettes that definitely sets the show apart from other holiday productions.

The Christmas Spectacular has been dazzling audiences at New York's Radio City Music Hall since 1933. Beginning in 1925 as the 'Missouri Rockets,' the Rockettes were the embodiment of creator Russell Market's vision of a dance line achieving absolute precision. The audience was to see the line always moving as 'one dancer' in the most intricate routines. Everything—their height, the costumes and choreography—was identical. The illusion of uniform height is maintained to this day by putting the tallest Rockettes in the center and gradually decreasing the height until the shortest women are at either end.

Tickets for the Rosemont Theatre engagement of The Radio City Christmas Spectacular are on sale at the box office, 5400 N. River Rd. in Rosemont, and all Ticketmaster locations, as well as on the Internet at www.ticketmaster.com. Prices range from $19.50 to $56.50. To order by phone, call 312-559-1212. Groups of 20 or more, call 671-9800.

Give a big hand for 'High Five in Highwood' at Pops

Following on the hooves of the widely successful "Cows on Parade" artistic happening in Chicago, Pops Highwood will showcase a special art show, "High Five in Highwood."

About 18 North Shore artists are busy creating artistic statements with antique French white ceramic glove molds, which will be unveiled at a free champagne reception from 6 to 8 p.m. on Sat., Nov. 20 at Pops, 214 Green Bay Road, Highwood.

The hands will be for sale by the artists at the end of the special showing on display through the end of the year at Pops. All will be original art.

Participating artists include: Janice Wahnon, Becky Flory and Betty Lark Ross, Wilmette; Susan Brenner and Ellen Benaim, Northbrook; Gail Galloway, Kathleen Dewer, Dennis Downes and Marilyn Schulenberg, Lake Forest; Pamela Olin Cable, Allison Fiutak-Roesnfeld, Adrienne Pletka, Rae Olin-Luskin, Cheryl Steiger, Lynn Komessar, Suzy Wolcalf, Carol Pearlman, Highland Park and Ellen Sax and Ina Byerly, Glencoe.

THEATRE REVIEW

'Phantom' unites two worlds, temporarily

Somewhere beneath the aging floorboards of the old Paris Opera House a phantom dwells. He keeps to the shadows, but the staff and performers have long sensed his presence and avoided his subterranean domain.

In "Phantom," a haunting musical love story by Arthur Kopit and Maury Yeston based on a novel by Gaston Leroux, that unspoken arrangement ends abruptly when two eager new owners take charge of the facility and decide to do things their own way.

What ensues is a series of both comic and tragic events and, ultimately, the undoing of a troubled soul. Dominic Missimi directs this production at the Marriott Theatre in Lincolnshire.

Douglas Ladendorf, blessed with a Broadway-quality baritone voice, is the Phantom, who wears a mask to conceal a face deformed at birth and quotes William Blake, "I live in darkness but my soul is light."

His heart goes out to a talented ingenue, Christine (played by his real-life spouse, Ingrid Ladendorf). But they live in two different worlds, and any bridges between them can be only temporary links. Their duets, "You Are Music" and My True Love," are warm and entrancing.

Paula Scrofano provides comic-relief counterpoint as Carlotta, the peevish, middle-aged diva with a penchant for the off-key note. Her performance is a scream.

Rounding out the strong cast is James Harms' sensitive interpretation as the Phantom's secret protector and Curt Dale Clark as Christine's patron and suitor.

"Phantom" run through Jan. 16. Ticket information is available at 634-0100.

Orders are coming in rapidly so it is advised to call immediately to assure a seat.

check it out!

OLIVER! directed by Larry Bersie from Antioch, music director Rob Findlay, and choreographer Gigi Willding from Ingleside is an exciting story full of action, song, and dance. Memorable songs are Food, Glorious Food, Consider Yourself at Home, You've Got to Pick a Pocket or Two, Who Will Buy?, It's a Fine Life, Oomp-pah-pah, and As Long as He Needs Me. Audiences will go out humming and singing.

The story travels from the dingy work house setting, to the gloomy funeral parlor, to the conniving Fagin's "digs" in London's crowded streets, to the Three Cripples, an underworld tavern, to the home of a rich old gentleman, and back to the streets. It's a family adventure story sure to please all ages.

Oliver, Thomas Graff from Fox Lake; the Artful Dodger, Jodi Smith from Lake Villa; Fagin, Tom Hausman from Antioch; Nancy, Donna Abear from Antioch, and Bill Sykes, Mark Badtke from Genoa City, WI. and a large supporting cast will be waiting for you.

Fagin and his boys meet the new guy as PM&L Theatre presents the family musical 'Oliver' at the theatre in Antioch Nov. 19-Dec. 5.

Lake Forest Symphony performs 'A Day of Wine and Roses'

The Lake Forest Symphony under the direction of Music Director David Itkin will present "Mancini Sings Mancini, A Day of Wine and Roses" on Sun., Nov. 21, featuring vocalist Monica Mancini. Ms. Mancini will perform the music of her late father, Henry Mancini as well as music by Johnny Mercer.

Monica Mancini began her career at the age of 14 as a member of the Henry Mancini Chorus. She has recorded with producers and arrangers such as Quincy Jones, Nelson Riddle and David Foster and with vocalists ranging from Placido Domingo and Michael Jackson to Dolly Parton and Vanessa Williams.

The concert will be held at 3 p.m. in the Libertyville High School Auditorium, 708 W. Park Ave. in Libertyville. Tickets for the program are $35 and $15 per person. For tickets, or additional information, please call or visit the Symphony office at Deerpath Plaza, 225 E. Deerpath, Suite 138 in Lake Forest, or call 295-2135.

Fermilab arts series presents Celtic fiddle sensation Natalie MacMaster

In fifteen short years Natalie MacMaster has gone from performing at local dance halls to bringing down the house in theatres around the world. This fiddler and step dancer from Nova Scotia has become Cape Breton's musical ambassador. The road to international renown began at age nine when she started learning traditional fiddle music. She's now performed asross the U.S. and Canada, and appeared with Joan Osborne and The Chieftains in a concert honoring Luciano Pavarotti. Don't miss her performance at Fermilab's Ramsey Auditorium on Saturday, Nov. 20 beginning at 8 p.m.

Four albums are a testament to her sheer talent as a fiddler. Currently two have gone gold ("No Boundaries" and "Fit as a Fiddle"). Her latest, "My Roots are Showing," goes back to the traditional Celtic melodies. She has been carving a niche in television, performing on CBS Television's "Pamela Wallin Live," "The Fifth Estate" and "Newsworld," as well as CTV's "W-5" and "Canada A.M." Television viewers also caught Natalie fiddling her way through ads for General Motors Pontiac. On radio, she's hosted the award winning CBC Radio production of "Natalie MacMaster's Atlantic Airwaves," and performed on "A Prairie Home Companion."

Tickets for Natalie MacMaster are $18. For further information or telephone reservations, call (630) 840-ARTS weekday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. At other times an answering machine will give you information and a means of placing ticket orders. Ramsey Auditorium is located in Wilson Hall, the central building of Fermilab. Chicago Shakespeare Studio opens Nov. 19

Imagine four prep school boys in white shirts and black ties reciting "Romeo and Juliet" like adolescents reading Playboy. This is the premise for "Shakespeare's R&J," a subversive and sexy adaptation by Joe Calarco due to open the new Chicago Shakespeare Studio on Nov. 19. The all-male production, which played in the New York last fall, is transferring downtown after a successful run at Apple Tree Theatre in Highland Park.

"'Shakespeare's R&J' is a risky, brilliant adaptation that took New York by storm last season," said Chicago Shakespeare Theater founder and Artistic Director Barbara Gaines. "Calarco's production is perfect for the kind of experimental and expansive art I see our studio space committed to, and we are thrilled that the production is moving to our Theater."

Staged in the new, flexible black box Chicago Shakespeare Studio located on the sixth floor of the Chicago Shakespeare Theater complex on Navy Pier, the production is the first of a number of innovative works that the Theater expects to host. "We want our Studio audience to be able to see a variety of new directors, artist and experimental shows that stimulate and challenge them. We kept the Studio very simple—flexible seating and state-of-the-art lighting equipment allow for unlimited stage and seating configurations. We wanted as few limitations as possible," said Chicago Shakespeare Theater Executive Director Criss Henderson.

Calarco's novel interpretation of Shakespeare's classic tragedy depicts four repressed prep school boys played by actors Matt Schwader, Michael Gotch, Ian Novak and Ian Christopher. The four boys gather secretly one evening to act out all the parts in "Romeo and Juliet." What they discover is their own vulnerability to the themes of forbidden love, prejudice, homophobia and the universal fear of first love. Calarco's imaginative directing highlights not only the homoerotic aspects of the work, but the universally dangerous and romantic elements of the play.

Chicago Shakespeare Theater on Navy Pier opens its new studio with Apple Tree Theatre's production of Shakespeare's R&J on Nov. 19

"I wanted to get to the essence of what I think Shakespeare is: passionate, violent, thrilling and theatrical. By cutting the cast down to four guys, we've been able to explore the way men interact and how they view women, sex and masculinity," says Calarco.

"This is a very exciting time for Chicago," said Gaines. "The opening of a theater dedicated to the world's greatest playwright is historically significant. Chicago Shakespeare Theatre is located right at the heart of Chicago, making us accessible to everyone, just as Shakespeare would have wanted. Our Studio space will be yet another, more edgy extension of our established mainstage programming, and will help us test and push our current audience in new directions, and to reach an even broader audience than we already do. Shakespeare truly has something to say to everyone, and never has that been more evident than this year."

HISTORY: Lake County museum is caretaker of history

and missionaries. In 1833, the Treaty of Chicago pushed back the Indians westward as the United States government claimed the land. By fall of 1834, the earliest settlers came to Lake County. Lake County was actually part of McHenry County until 1839.

The Museum, with a staff of 14, has several collections, including the famed 360,000-image Curt Teich postcard collection.

An image collection includes photographs of postcard images of county agriculture, churches, main streets, schools, residences, transportation and individuals. They include:

•The Fort Sheridan Collection has 2,000 images covering aspects of military life, from 1890s to 1980s.

•School collection has documents of 52 separate one-room school houses. Finances and meeting minutes are from the period 1841-1962.

•Platted maps show Lake County land ownership, 1861 to 1989.

•A $2 million exhibit section is being constructed and is the pride and joy of staff.

•One section—Bringing the World to Lake County—has 11 storefronts, showing various aspects of Lake County life.

"People said they wanted to see the stories behind objects. This will be very relevant," Mason said.

Visitors may view such information as the Sparking Spring Water Co. background, Abbott Laboratories and others.

Another section will be the Chicago Connection, which will showcase the interdependent relationship that Lake County and Chicago have shared since the earliest native American inhabitants came to the area. "We are thrilled and honored to receive this support from the Chicago Community Trust. The growth of Chicago has influenced Lake County's development in so many ways. We believe the Chicago story will interest Lake County residents and the growing number of Chicago residents who visit our Museum," Janet Gallimore, museum director, said.

The Lake County Museum's new Mall of History exhibit has many Chicago ties. It was designed by Abrams, Teller, Madsen of Chicago, and is being constructed by EDE Corp., of Chicago.

Controversy aside, 'Dogma' is a great movie

Rob Backus

Dogma
Rated R
Directed and written by Kevin Smith

Starring
Ben Affleck
Matt Damon
Linda Fiorentino
Chris Rock
Jason Mewes
Jason Lee
Alan Rickman
Salma Hayek
Alanis Morissette

Writer/director Kevin Smith (Clerks, Mallrats, Chasing Amy) makes his long awaited return in the highly controversial Dogma and he didn't miss a beat.

The movie revolves around two angels, Bartleby (Ben Affleck) and Loki (Matt Damon), who were cast out of heaven and banished to Wisconsin for all eternity after Loki, the angel of death, was convinced by Bartleby to give up his post which he did while he gave God "the finger."

Bartleby and Loki then received a newspaper article in the mail telling them of a church in Red Bank, New Jersey, that was invoking the little known Catholic belief known as plenary indulgence which would instantly absolve the sins of anyone who walked through its doors.

The movie then switches over to the heroine Bethany (Linda Fiorentino), an abortion clinic worker, who is doubting her faith.

Bethany is then paid a visit by Metatron (Alan Rickman) who is the voice of God. When asked why God doesn't speak for himself, Metatron says, "Because their head would explode and their heart would burst. We went through five Adams before we figured that one out."

Metatron tells Bethany that she must travel to Red Bank to stop Bartleby and Loki from entering the church, thus negating all of existence because to prove God wrong would destroy creation.

She is also told she will be joined by two "prophets." Guess who? Any Kevin Smith fan should know that the two prophets are Jay (Jason Mewes) and Silent Bob (Smith) who enter the scene after saving Bethany from three hockey playing demons on in-line skates who were sent by the demon Azreal (Jason Lee) to stop Bethany's quest.

The last thing I will give away is that Bethany, Jay and Silent Bob will eventually hook up with Rufus (Chris Rock) who falls out of the sky in part to help them and in part to correct the fact that he was left out of the Bible. He claims to be the 13th apostle who was left out of the Bible because he was black.

This is one of the best, funniest and most controversial movies I have seen in the past few years.

The original distributor for this movie was Miramax. However, Miramax was forced to drop the movie by their parent company Disney because of the controversy. The film was then picked up by the independent Lions Gate Films who will probably make more money on this movie than they have ever made before.

I was surprised at the roles that Jay and Silent Bob had, as they were in most of the movie, unlike past films where their roles were minor. Jay has one of the funniest, dirtiest harangues I have ever seen when he sees God, played by singer Alanis Morissette.

The controversy is aroused, among other things, because it claims that God is really a woman and that Jesus Christ is black.

Devout Catholics have been calling Dogma heresy. However, Smith himself is a devout Catholic who didn't intend for this movie to be taken seriously, which he states in the disclaimer in the beginning of the movie.

Despite the controversy, this is one of the most original movies I have ever seen. It takes advantage of its all-star cast rather than misusing it.

I give Dogma five out of five popcorn boxes.

Ben Affleck and Matt Damon star in "Dogma".

ECU presents 'Music from the Heart: Choruses from the World's Greatest Operas'

The Elgin Choral Union will present "Music from the Heart: Choruses from the World's Greatest Operas" at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20, in Stage 1 of the Visual and Performing Arts Center at Elgin Community College, Elgin.

More than 100 voices, accompanied by the Elgin Symphony Orchestra, will sing familiar choruses from "Madame Butterfly," "Traviata," "The Marriage of Figaro," and 11 other opera favorites.

Directing the ECU will be Kevin McMahon, conductor for the Illinois Valley Symphony.

"One could not hope to hear music more handsomely spun," wrote The Chicago Tribune in a review of a performance conducted by McMahon. As a conductor, McMahon, who has worked extensively both in the United States and in Europe, brings superior musicanship and innovative programming to the Elgin Choral Union.

"Kevin has challenged our singers, demanding them to achieve their best," said Corinne Pierog, ECU executive director. "The chorus has risen to the challenge, matching Kevin's demands, and encouraging them to push them even further. They are brilliant together."

The concert also will feature a free pre-concert lecture at 7 p.m. given by Alfred Glesser, "the voice of the Lyric Opera."

Tickets for "Music from the Heart" are $18 for adults, $16 for seniors, and $10 for students. Discounted rates are available for groups of 12 or more. Tickets can be purchased at the ECU ticket office located in the Visual and Performing Arts Center, 1700 Spartan Drive, Elgin. Hours are 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon - 4 p.m. Saturday. To purchase tickets or for more information, call 622-0300. VISA, MasterCard, Discover and American Express are accepted.

The Elgin Choral Union is supported by the Elgin Area Convention and Visitors Bureau, the Elgin Cultural Arts Commission, and the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency.

Nina Totenberg shares insights

Nina Totenberg, award-winning Supreme Court reporter for National Public Radio, will offer her personal perspectives on the members of the United States Supreme Court during a 1 p.m. Media Law Symposium Friday, Nov. 19, at The John Marshall Law School, 315 S. Plymouth Ct., Chicago. Co-sponsored by Baker & McKenzie and WBEZ-FM, this year's program, "Behind the Marble, Beneath the Robes," is offered as part of the law school's 100th anniversary celebration.

Totenberg led the news industry with her work in the Monica Lewinsky scandal and Clinton impeachment hearings. Her work in 1991 on the Clarence Thomas-Anita Hill allegations led to a subpoena by the United States Senate's Special Independent Counsel Peter Fleming. She has been a correspondent for the National Public Radio since 1975 and over the years has won numerous awards, including the prestigious Alfred I. DuPont-Columbia University Silver Baton.

Advance registration for this free program is encouraged and can be made by calling The John Marshall Department of Event Management at (312) 987-1420, by sending a fax to (312) 427-7128 or by e-mail to events@jmls.edu.

Fermilab arts series presents Celtic fiddle sensation Natalie MacMaster

In fifteen short years Natalie MacMaster has gone from performing at local dance halls to bringing down the house in theatres around the world. This fiddler and step dancer from Nova Scotia has become Cape Breton's musical ambassador. The road to international renown began at age nine when she started learning traditional fiddle music. She's now performed asross the U.S. and Canada, and appeared with Joan Osborne and The Chieftains in a concert honoring Luciano Pavarotti. Don't miss her performance at Fermilab's Ramsey Auditorium on Saturday, Nov. 20 beginning at 8 p.m.

Four albums are a testament to her sheer talent as a fiddler. Currently two have gone gold ("No Boundaries" and "Fit as a Fiddle"). Her latest, "My Roots are Showing," goes back to the traditional Celtic melodies. She has been carving a niche in television, performing on CBS Television's "Pamela Wallin Live," "The Fifth Estate" and "Newsworld," as well as CTV's "W-5" and "Canada A.M." Television viewers also caught Natalie fiddling her way through ads for General Motors Pontiac. On radio, she's hosted the award winning CBC Radio production of "Natalie MacMaster's Atlantic Airwaves," and performed on "A Prairie Home Companion."

Tickets for Natalie MacMaster are $18. For further information or telephone reservations, call (630) 840-ARTS weekday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. At other times an answering machine will give you information and a means of placing ticket orders. Ramsey Auditorium is located in Wilson Hall, the central building of Fermilab. Wilson Hall, a high-rise, is visible from the two lab entrances, from the west on Kirk Road at Pine Street and from the east on Batavia Road at Route 59. Our address is simply Kirk Road at Pine Street, Batavia, IL 60510. For more information visit our web site at www.fnal.gov/culture.

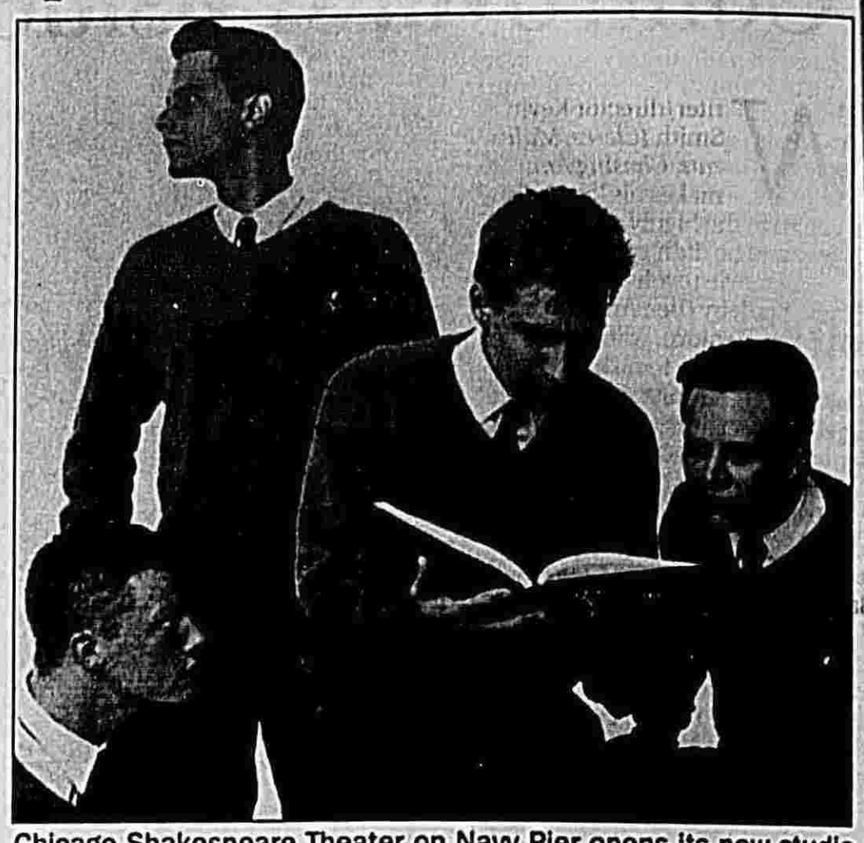

Chicago Shakespeare Studio opens Nov. 19

Imagine four prep school boys in white shirts and black ties reciting "Romeo and Juliet" like adolescents reading Playboy. This is the premise for "Shakespeare's R&J," a subversive and sexy adaptation by Joe Calarco due to open the new Chicago Shakespeare Studio on Nov. 19. The all-male production, which played in the New York last fall, is transferring downtown after a successful run at Apple Tree Theatre in Highland Park.

"'Shakespeare's R&J' is a risky, brilliant adaptation that took New York by storm last season," said Chicago Shakespeare Theater founder and Artistic Director Barbara Gaines. "Calarco's production is perfect for the kind of experimental and expansive art I see our studio space committed to, and we are thrilled that the production is moving to our Theater."

Staged in the new, flexible black box Chicago Shakespeare Studio located on the sixth floor of the Chicago Shakespeare Theater complex on Navy Pier, the production is the first of a number of innovative works that the Theater expects to host. "We want our Studio audience to be able to see a variety of new directors, artist and experimental shows that stimulate and challenge them. We kept the Studio very simple —flexible seating and state-of-the-art lighting equipment allow for unlimited stage and seating configurations. We wanted as few limitations as possible," said Chicago Shakespeare Theater Executive Director Criss Henderson.

Calarco's novel interpretation of Shakespeare's classic tragedy depicts four repressed prep school boys played by actors Matt Schwader, Michael Gotch, Ian Novak and Ian Christopher. The four boys gather secretly one evening to act out all the parts in "Romeo and Juliet." What they discover is their own vulnerability to the themes of forbidden love, prejudice, homophobia and the universal fear of first love. Calarco's imaginative directing highlights not only the homoerotic aspects of the work, but the universally dangerous and romantic elements of the play.

Chicago Shakespeare Theater on Navy Pier opens its new studio with Apple Tree Theatre's production of Shakespeare's R&J on Nov. 19

"I wanted to get to the essence of what I think Shakespeare is: passionate, violent, thrilling and theatrical. By cutting the cast down to four guys, we've been able to explore the way men interact and how they view women, sex and masculinity," says Calarco.

"This is a very exciting time for Chicago," said Gaines. "The opening of a theater dedicated to the world's greatest playwright is historically significant. Chicago Shakespeare Theatre is located right at the heart of Chicago, making us accessible to everyone, just as Shakespeare would have wanted. Our Studio space will be yet another, more edgy extension of our established mainstage programming, and will help us test and push our current audience in new directions, and to reach an even broader audience than we already do. Shakespeare truly has something to say to everyone, and never has that been more evident than this year."

HISTORY: Lake County museum is caretaker of history

and missionaries. In 1833, the Treaty of Chicago pushed back the Indians westward as the United States government claimed the land. By fall of 1834, the earliest settlers came to Lake County. Lake County was actually part of McHenry County until 1839.

The Museum, with a staff of 14, has several collections, including the famed 360,000-image Curt Teich postcard collection.

An image collection includes photographs of postcard images of county agriculture, churches, main streets, schools, residences, transportation and individuals. They include:

*The Fort Sheridan Collection has 2,000 images covering aspects of military life, from 1890s to 1980s.

*School collection has documents of 52 separate one-room school houses. Finances and meeting minutes are from the period 1841-1962.

*Platted maps show Lake County land ownership, 1861 to 1989.

*A $2 million exhibit section is being constructed and is the pride and joy of staff.

*One section—Bringing the World to Lake County—has 11 storefronts, showing various aspects of Lake County life.

"People said they wanted to see the stories behind objects. This will be very relevant," Mason said.

Visitors may view such information as the Sparking Spring Water Co. background, Abbott Laboratories and others.

Another section will be the Chicago Connection, which will showcase the interdependent relationship that Lake County and Chicago have shared since the earliest native American inhabitants came to the area. "We are thrilled and honored to receive this support from the Chicago Community Trust. The growth of Chicago has influenced Lake County's development in so many ways. We believe the Chicago story will interest Lake County residents and the growing number of Chicago residents who visit our Museum," Janet Gallimore, museum director, said.

The Lake County Museum's new Mall of History exhibit has many Chicago ties. It was designed by Abrams, Teller, Madsen of Chicago, and is being constructed by EDE Corp., of Chicago.

Controversy aside, 'Dogma' is a great movie

movie review

Rob Backus

Dogma
Rated R
Directed and written by Kevin Smith

Starring
Ben Affleck
Matt Damon
Linda Fiorentino
Chris Rock
Jason Mewes
Jason Lee
Alan Rickman
Salma Hayek
Alanis Morissette

Writer/director Kevin Smith (Clerks, Mallrats, Chasing Amy) makes his long awaited return in the highly controversial Dogma and he didn't miss a beat.

The movie revolves around two angels, Bartleby (Ben Affleck) and Loki (Matt Damon), who were cast out of heaven and banished to Wisconsin for all eternity after Loki, the angel of death, was convinced by Bartleby to give up his post which he did while he gave God "the finger."

Bartleby and Loki then received a newspaper article in the mail telling them of a church in Red Bank, New Jersey, that was invoking the little known Catholic belief known as plenary indulgence which would instantly absolve the sins of anyone who walked through its doors.

The movie then switches over to the heroine Bethany (Linda Fiorentino), an abortion clinic worker, who is doubting her faith.

Bethany is then paid a visit by Metatron (Alan Rickman) who is the voice of God. When asked why God doesn't speak for himself, Metatron says, "Because their head would explode and their heart would burst. We went through five Adams before we figured that one out."

Metatron tells Bethany that she must travel to Red Bank to stop Bartleby and Loki from entering the church, thus negating all of existence because to prove God wrong would destroy creation.

She is also told she will be joined by two "prophets." Guess who? Any Kevin Smith fan should know that the two prophets are Jay (Jason Mewes) and Silent Bob (Smith) who enter the scene after saving Bethany from three hockey playing demons on in-line skates who were sent by the demon Azreal (Jason Lee) to stop Bethany's quest.

The last thing I will give away is that Bethany, Jay and Silent Bob will eventually hook up with Rufus (Chris Rock) who falls out of the sky in part to help them and in part to correct the fact that he was left out of the Bible. He claims to be the 13th apostle who was left out of the Bible because he was black.

This is one of the best, funniest and most controversial movies I have seen in the past few years.

The original distributor for this movie was Miramax. However, Miramax was forced to drop the movie by their parent company Disney because of the controversy. The film was then picked up by the independent Lions Gate Films who will probably make more money on this movie than they have ever made before.

I was surprised at the roles that Jay and Silent Bob had, as they were in most of the movie, unlike past films where their roles were minor. Jay has one of the funniest, dirtiest harangues I have ever seen when he sees God, played by singer Alanis Morissette.

The controversy is aroused, among other things, because it claims that God is really a woman and that Jesus Christ is black.

Devout Catholics have been calling Dogma heresy. However, Smith himself is a devout Catholic who didn't intend for this movie to be taken seriously, which he states in the disclaimer in the beginning of the movie.

Despite the controversy, this is one of the most original movies I have ever seen. It takes advantage of its all-star cast rather than misusing it.

I give Dogma five out of five popcorn boxes.

Ben Affleck and Matt Damon star in "Dogma".

ECU presents 'Music from the Heart: Choruses from the World's Greatest Operas'

The Elgin Choral Union will present "Music from the Heart: Choruses from the World's Greatest Operas" at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20, in Stage 1 of the Visual and Performing Arts Center at Elgin Community College, Elgin.

More than 100 voices, accompanied by the Elgin Symphony Orchestra, will sing familiar choruses from "Madame Butterfly," "Traviata," "The Marriage of Figaro," and 11 other opera favorites.

Directing the ECU will be Kevin McMahon, conductor for the Illinois Valley Symphony.

"One could not hope to hear music more handsomely spun," wrote The Chicago Tribune in a review of a performance conducted by McMahon. As a conductor, McMahon, who has worked extensively both in the United States and in Europe, brings superior musicanship and innovative programming to the Elgin Choral Union.

"Kevin has challenged our singers, demanding them to achieve their best," said Corinne Pierog, ECU executive director. "The chorus has risen to the challenge, matching Kevin's demands, and encouraging them to push them even further. They are brilliant together."

The concert also will feature a free pre-concert lecture at 7 p.m. given by Alfred Glesser, "the voice of the Lyric Opera."

Tickets for "Music from the Heart" are $18 for adults, $16 for seniors, and $10 for students. Discounted rates are available for groups of 12 or more. Tickets can be purchased at the ECU ticket office located in the Visual and Performing Arts Center, 1700 Spartan Drive, Elgin. Hours are 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon - 4 p.m. Saturday. To purchase tickets or for more information, call 622-0300. VISA, MasterCard, Discover and American Express are accepted.

The Elgin Choral Union is supported by the Elgin Area Convention and Visitors Bureau, the Elgin Cultural Arts Commission, and the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency.

Nina Totenberg shares insights

Nina Totenberg, award-winning Supreme Court reporter for National Public Radio, will offer her personal perspectives on the members of the United States Supreme Court during a 1 p.m. Media Law Symposium Friday, Nov. 19, at The John Marshall Law School, 315 S. Plymouth Ct., Chicago. Co-sponsored by Baker & McKenzie and WBEZ-FM, this year's program, "Behind the Marble, Beneath the Robes," is offered as part of the law school's 100th anniversary celebration.

Totenberg led the news industry with her work in the Monica Lewinsky scandal and Clinton impeachment hearings. Her work in 1991 on the Clarence Thomas-Anita Hill allegations led to a subpoena by the United States Senate's Special Independent Counsel Peter Fleming. She has been a correspondent for the National Public Radio since 1975 and over the years has won numerous awards, including the prestigious Alfred I. DuPont-Columbia University Silver Baton.

Advance registration for this free program is encouraged and can be made by calling The John Marshall Department of Event Management at (312) 987-1420, by sending a fax to (312) 427-7128 or by e-mail to events@jmls.edu.

200 works of art by internationally, nationally and locally known artists plus a custom design frame shop.

Beauty to behold at Nippersink Gallery

If in truth, "beauty is in the eye of the beholder," right now, it can be found among the 200 pieces of art on display at Nippersink Gallery and Framing, located at 10523 Main St. in Richmond. New owners, Julie and Brad Harring, invite you to come and view works done in every paint medium all now on display in their gallery at the intersection of routes 12 and 173, set amid the marvelous number of shops that make up historic Richmond.

Works by internationally and nationally known artists, as well as a large number by local artists, are featured for viewing and sale at the Nippersink Gallery.

Among the many local pieces of art now being exhibited are pastels by Lynn Krause, water colors by Nancy Fortunato, water colors by Batty Drapolich, acrylics by Linda Olds, pastels by Elven Griffin and water colors by Judy Chinski.

The gallery also offers signed and numbered works done by internationally known artists. Custom framing of every kind is a specialty of the gallery, whether it is your child's first portrait done by a local photographer, or a 20 X 24-foot oil you found in that quaint antique shop.

The gallery's custom framing design center now has available molding designs from 16 companies, using 2,000 different molding styles, from poster frames to shadow boxes for your collections.

The custom framing of your art treasure takes from one to three weeks, depending on the piece being framed. Nippersink Gallery is closed on Monday, open from Tuesday through Saturday, from 9 to 5 p.m., and on Sunday, from noon to 5 p.m.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

Curtain up for new theater 'Anthony and Cleopatra'

The play's the thing, of course. But for Shakespeare Repertory Theater, rechristened Chicago Shakespeare Theater, its sparking new home at Navy Pier has the power to attract as much attention as its inaugural 1999-2000 production, "Anthony and Cleopatra."

The $22 million-plus state-of-the-art facility — a long time coming — is a beaut. Its 60 foot proscenium is complemented by a seven-story fly-tower. Seating in the 525-seat theater is intimate; the audience is all within 30 feet of the 30-foot deep permanent thrust stage.

Exposed brick, textured sandstone and some 350 ash wood pickets and columns integrate nicely, while lobbies provide a stunning view of the pier, lakefront and city skyline.

The company, whose roots go back to 1986, moved after 12 seasons from the smaller, starker Ruth Page Theater with its founder and mentor, artistic director Barbara Gaines.

Of the 22-member "Anthony and Cleopatra" cast, most are regulars who have worked with Gaines over the years. Gaines gets dependable performances from them all.

Kevin Gudahl and Lisa Dodson, as the noble Roman warrior Anthony and the sultry Egyptian queen Cleopatra, carry on a tempestuous affair (though the emotional bond they strive to create doesn't always ring true). Overall, the mix of tragedy, comedy and history in this sweeping play carries the day.

Watch for the performances from Larry Yando as Enobarbus; Bradley Armacost, as Lepidus; Scott Parkinson, Octavius Caesar; Greg Vinkler, as Pompey; and Robert Scogin, Agrippa.

"Anthony and Cleopatra" runs through Dec. 12. For ticket information: 312/595-5600.—By Tom Witom

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Chicago at Detroit	NY Jets at Indianapolis
Miami at Dallas	Philidelphia at Washington
Arizona ay NY Giants	San Diego at Minnesota
Cincinnati at Pittsburgh	Tampa Bay at Seattle
Jacksonville at Baltimore	Tennessee at Cleveland
Kansas City at Oakland	Atlanta at Carolina
New England at Buffalo	Texas at Texas A&M
New Orleans at St. Louis	Nebraska at Colorado

POWER POINTS OFFICIAL RULES

1. Object of the game is to amass as many of the 136 points as you can. Simply review the week's schedule of games, listed on entry form, and decide which game you are SUREST of picking a winner in. Write the name of your projected winner on the 16-point line. If that team wins its game that week, you win 16 points. Write the name of your second-surest winner on the 15-point line, and so on down to the 1-point line, which game you figure to be a toss-up. Next, fill in Tiebreaker 1, the total points scored by both teams in the week's designated game. If this step fails to produce a winner, the judges will apply Tiebreaker 2, total offensive yardage from scrimmage in this game. If a winner still doesn't emerge, a drawing will be held among those contestants still tied. Decisions of the judges are final. The weekly statewide winner of the contest will receive $1,000.
2. Any entry form that does not contain a legible name, address, etc., will be disqualified.
3. Entries that fail to forecast a winner from each and every game will be disqualified, as will entries that fail to distinguish between the Jets and Giants of New York and other similar teams.
4. No points are awarded on tie games or in case any game is not played for any reason during its scheduled week.
5. Entering POWER POINTS constitutes permission by contestant for his or her name and photograph to be used for news and reasonable promotional purposes at no charge.
6. Employees of this newspaper and their immediate families are ineligible to participate.
7. Any inquiry about or protest of weekly results must be made by noon on the Friday following the announcement of winners.
8. No purchase necessary. Facsimile game entry forms will be accepted. Enter contest by dropping entry form into POWER POINTS container at participating co-sponsors.
9. Weekly deadline for entry will be noon. Fridays except when noted otherwise on weekly entry form.
10. Neither this newspaper nor any co-sponsor will be responsible for illegible entry forms or those lost, stolen or damaged in any way.
11. Limit one entry per person per week. Each entry must represent the original work of one entrant; "group" entries, "systems" or other attempts to enter multiple entries will be disqualified. Filling out extra forms and putting your friends' and relatives' names on them violates this rule. Any such entries are destroyed prior to grading.
12. Contestants must have reached the age of eight (8) years by the Sunday of any week's play.

Ear infections need prompt care, Loyola pediatrician says

Untreated ear infections can prove serious to a child's health and may lead to permanent hearing loss, delayed speech development or even meningitis, warns Dr. Albert Park, pediatric otolaryngologist with the Ronald McDonald Children's Hospital of Loyola University Medical Center.

"With winter approaching, parents and other caregivers of children must be more vigilant for signs and symptoms of ear infections, which are very common during the cold-weather months," said Park. These infections are so common, in fact, that they are second only to the common cold as the cause of a child's visit to the doctor's office.

"The good news is that ear infections can be treated with proper medical attention to prevent further health problems," added Park.

Ear Infections: what causes them and why are children at greater risk?

Ear infections first occur when bacteria become trapped in the middle ear. Oftentimes, the trapped bacteria grow rapidly because the eustachian tube somehow has become blocked. The eustachian tube runs from the back of the throat to the space behind the eardrum and provides ventilation to prevent pressure from building up in the middle ear.

Ear infections are most common in children who are between six months and two years of age; more than 65 percent of all children experience at lease one ear infection by age three.

Children are more at risk for such infections in part because they have immature immune systems and in part because of the short length and horizontal position of the eustachian tube, which can interfere with proper draining of fluid.

As youngsters grow to age 5 or age 6, the eustachian tube comes more fully developed — becoming more vertical and allowing for better draining, which minimizes the risk of ear infections.

Recognizing the Symptoms of Infection

Symptoms of ear infections can vary dramatically, from very subtle signs such as mild fever, irritability, insomnia or ear tugging to more serious symptoms such as hearing loss, high fever and severe pain.

"When one or more of these symptoms are present, the child should be seen by a physician as soon as possible," said Park, who recommends a pediatrician, or family practice physician. "The only definitive way to determine if a child has an ear infection is by consulting a doctor." If a child has re-occurring ear infections, contact an otolaryngologist, also known as an ear, nose and throat specialist, for more specialized treatment.

Diagnosing and Treating Pediatric Ear Infections

According to Park, diagnosing an ear infection is painless. Physicians use an otoscope—a medical instrument that allows the physician to see inside the ear canal — to determine whether fluid has built up behind the eardrum, a sign of an infection.

Children who are diagnosed with ear infections typically are prescribed an antibiotic to treat the problem.

"A child should begin feeling better within five days of taking the first dose of antibiotic," said Park. "If this is not the case, or if the child's condition worsens, return to the doctor as soon as possible. Ear infections can spread beyond the eardrum and can lead to a more serious condition, such as meningitis."

Tips for Preventing Ear Infections

The best action against ear infections, of course, is prevention. based on the age of the child, Park recommended the following prevention techniques:

- Breast-feed a child as long as possible. Studies have shown that infants who are breast-fed exclusively until at least 4 months of age have approximately 50 percent fewer ear infections than infants who were never breast-fed;
- Avoid bottle-feeding an infant in bed. Children who are fed while lying on their backs have an increased risk of milk draining into their ears;
- Do not smoke near children. Also, limit a child's exposure to cigarette smoke;
- Practice good hygiene. Wash hands frequently to reduce the spread of colds, which can lead to ear infections; and
- Avoid the use of pacifiers. Pacifiers increase saliva and can lead to the spread of viruses from child to child.

1999 answers to tough flu season questions

Now that the sniffling and sneezing,and sore throats have hit our offices, classrooms, shopping centers, we need to prepare ourselves as it can get worse as the 1999 flu bug works its way across the country. Several states are already seeing an increase in the number of people already feeling the effects of this year's flu strains.

Get Immunized

New research now recommends those people 50 and over get an annual influenza vaccination. The American Academy of Family Physicians bases this new recommendation on studies that prove there is a significant increase in flu-related deaths by those ages 50 and over. Before the recommendation was that primarily people 65 and older receive the vaccine.

We know that influenza poses the greatest risk to people of any age with chronic medical conditions such as cardiovascular disease, diabetes and lung disease. This includes children. In fact, it's also recommended that kids in day care get the flu vaccine every year. It decreases the number of ear infections they get. What many each year fail to realize is that by immunizing healthy adults under 50, you reduce sick leave and reduce the number of visits to the doctor. So getting that flu vaccine each year is cost effective. Vaccination reduces absences from school, work and fun by reducing the risk of becoming ill in the first place.

Wash your hands

So how does one avoid cold and flu bugs? We pick up these bugs easily by touching doorknobs or handrails or even by shaking hands. Others with colds and flu can infect us. When you sneeze, do so into a tissue and throw it away. Keep surfaces like tables and telephones clean with germ killing disinfectants. Avoid touching your own nose, eyes and mouth as you can easily infect yourself. Mostly, keep those bugs away by washing your hands often.

See your doctor

If you are unlucky enough to become ill and your symptoms are lasting a long time, worsening or you begin to develop more serious symptoms like fever, chills, chest pain, vomiting or continued cough with or without mucous, call your doctor.

Grants to help develop Illinois Gerontological chapter

Grants from several organizations will help a group of gerontological nurses in Lake County to form the Northern Illinois Chapter of the National Gerontological Nursing Association in celebration of the International Year of the Older Adult.

The group is spearheaded by the College of Lake County nursing faculty members Tana Durnbaugh and Joanne Dude. They received grants from the CLC Foundation, Lake Forest Hospital Community Outreach and Education Department, and Victory Hospital Foundation to develop and support the educational goals of the chapter.

"Older adults are the largest group of health care consumers in Lake County, and we seek to effectively improve their care and well-being," said Durnbaugh. "Currently, we have more than 40 facilities that provide health care programs for older adults, and nurses are the primary caregivers in these agencies. We hope that the chapter will serve as a welcoming place for nurses to exchange ideas."

For more information about the chapter, call Durnbaugh at 543-2874.

Alzheimer's disease: The next generation

November is National Alzheimer's Disease Month, research advances

America's Baby Boomers are now facing the world's first aging boom. Eternally young, at least in self-perception, this generation has defined itself through rebellion against its parents and their social norms. "Never trust anyone over 30" was their youthful battle cry. Now, the oldest of them have turned 50, and all of a sudden 60 or 65 doesn't look so old any more.

Even worse,their parents are now giving them a crash-course in the realities of old age and its most frightening prospect — Alzheimer's disease.

Dr. Stephen Post, associate director of the Center for Biomedical Ethics at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, summed up the situation, saying, "By the year 2050, unless we do something, there will be two kinds of people in America: people with Alzheimer's and the people caring for them." Dr. Post, a Baby Boomer himself, said that his friends.... "fear Alzheimer's more than cancer because with cancer they can be lucid. It's not death they're afraid of, but death of the mind before the body."

Alzheimer's disease is exactly that — the dying of the brain while in an intact body. Along with the deterioration of the brain comes the disintegration of memory, thinking skills and personality. It truly is the loss of self — for many, a more frightening prospect than death itself.

So for those of us who will grow old in the 21st century, is there hope that we will be spared life's ultimate cruelty? Some stunning advances were made in 1999 that raised hope as never before. But there are still major challenges to be met before all the scientific progress filters down to the individual in the form of a cure. The following are some possible 21st century solutions that could lead to a cure and the obstacles they will have to overcome.

The development of a possible vaccine against Alzheimer's made a splash last summer when scientists from the Irish drug company Elan Pharmaceuticals succeeded in dissolving amyloid plaques in the brains of mice. While this development is exciting, most news stories overlooked two major caveats that the scientific community is all too aware of. First, what works in mice may not carry over to humans, and second, no one really knows whether the hard plaques of amyloid beta protein that accumulate in the Alzheimer's brain actually cause the disease or are just a by-product of it.

These are key questions, especially since the mice in question had only some — not all — of the human genes known to play a role in Alzheimer's. And few scientists believe that the amyloid plaques tell the whole story in Alzheimer's disease.

An unexpected boost to animal research came only a few weeks later from a research team led by Dr. Bruce Lamb of Case Western Reserve University and Dr. Sam Sisodia of the University of Chicago. In a study partially funded by Alzheimer's Disease Research, a program of the American Health Assistance Foundation, they had managed to transfer all of the known human genes for Alzheimer's disease into mice. The result: a far more useful animal model, at least theoretically, for use in Alzheimer's research. The obstacle: no one can say whether scientists have identified all the genes involved in Alzheimer's and mice living in labs are conspicuously lacking in most of the environmental, behavioral and lifestyle issues of humans.—By American Health Assistance Foundation.

How can we get little Tommy to behave?

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Little Tommy is 4-years-old and has done something wrong. He has used the wall as a canvas for his artistic crayon endeavors. He believes his work is wonderful and thinks that he should do this more often.

The response from Mom and/or Dad is natural and predictable. Anger, correction and disappointment, as it should be. The reaction is usually pretty immediate as well, as it also should be. Tommy is a kid who is pretty used to his routine. Most of it is him stepping in the wrong place at the wrong time. He's used to being yelled at or corrected. It is becoming an identity for him.

What happens, however, when Tommy takes his dish from the table and gives it to Mom after dinner? The response I hear from most parents about this is..."I didn't want to say anything, because I was afraid if I said it, he would stop doing it." The good, old, "walking on eggshells syndrome." I meet literally hundreds of families each year who feel the same way and while they are "not saying anything so the good behavior won't stop," the bad behavior continues ad-infinitum.

What am I trying to say here? If you want a child's behavior to change, you need to take a close look at your own behavior in the process. I am not trying to berate anyone for correcting a child's behavior as anyone who knows me, knows that I absolutely believe in discipline and structure. What I am saying, however is that sometimes what we do naturally does more to get in the way of a child performing good behavior, the exact opposite of what we hope for.

Yelling and punishing is natural. Complimenting is not. We need to think to complement. We need to go out of our way to compliment. We just need to react from our gut to chastise. Think about that for a minute. In order to let a child know we like what he or she did takes thought and goes against our natural grain. I will tell you here, though, that letting a child know all the time, what you expect and what you like to see is the cornerstone of building good behavior.

Of all the kids I have met (and I've met a lot,) I haven't met one who, when given the right road map, didn't fall right into place. Kids want to behave. If we continue to give attention only when they misbehave, we are helping them to develop an identity around that misbehavior. They learn that getting attention means being bad! It is important to break out of that as soon as possible since identities like that can become hazardous to one's health.

It's also perfectly o.k. to use rewards as long as you are using a structured program. I get asked this all the time. I love it when I hear someone refer to a reward as a bribe. Since when is working toward EARNING a goal a bribe? Since when is meeting expectations a bribe. Don't most adults work for a goal—salary, etc.? If there was no salary, would they work? Highly doubtful. We all live by this, yet we raise our kids without this future preparation and ask them to live by different standards than the rest of us do. In my mind you either create a child who has the ability and understanding of using self-discipline and working toward something he or she wants, or create a child who feels everything is coming to him or her for free just because he or she exists. To me, choice 2 is a recipe for failure in childhood and adulthood.

Now, if you consistently give your child things or privileges to get the child off your back, that is a bribe. If, however, the child works for something and accomplishes it, that is a goal. By the way, this is what I believe truly builds self-esteem. A child getting some sort of confirmation that he or she did a good job on his or her own. A confirmation that the child's thoughts and actions were responsible and good.

Folks, I know of what I speak. For years, I have been running a behavior program that incorporates this type of thing *and let me tell you, you have never seen a child happier or feeling more pride than when he or she has reached a goal on his or her own. Especially when that child is like Tommy, a child who is used to failing in a big way. I meet a lot of Tommys and have yet to meet the one who doesn't respond to being asked to strive. In the majority of cases, (in which parents have continued using the material,) the changes are permanent. The younger the child, the easier the change.

There is no magic here. Noticing the good stuff and making sure your child knows that you have noticed. These things work. Next time your Tommy or Tomasina (as the case may be) begins to pick up his or her dish, make sure to let him or her know how much that means to you. Make sure he or she knows what makes you happy. He or she will strive to show you again!

"Memories of the Heart" is theme of 1999 Hospice Annual Appeal

For over 1,500 families throughout northeastern Illinois, the past year has been a journey of life. Thanks to the caring and compassionate services of Hospice of Northeastern Illinois (HNI), these families have been able to help assure the excellence of care for individuals with life-limited illnesses and their families. The 1999 Annual Giving Campaign of the Hospice Foundation, which is taking place during the months of November and December, reflects the importance of hospice care as a vital and important part of life.

The theme of the 1999 Annual Appeal is "Memories of the Heart" which emphasizes the importance of caring for both the patient and are the family and the memories that so precious for both. The goal of the 1990 campaign is too provide coverage for all aspects of hospice care that are not covered by Medicare, Medicaid or private insurance. Sam Oliver, of Barrington, and Robert Blazier, of Crystal Lake, are co-chairs of the 1999 Appeal.

"As a businessman, I am most impressed with the many services that hospice is able to provide to the patients and families that they serve," said Blazier. "While most hospice services are covered through Medicare or private insurance, the Hospice of Northeastern Illinois offers such programs as bereavement care for families up to a year following a death; a supplemental care program for patients who have no one to serve as primary caregiver in the home, and ongoing grief support groups throughout the area. These are the services that we must fund-raise for."

Sam Oliver, a long-time hospice volunteer and board member stated, "Hospice is not about dying, but about living life so that even to the end, our memories of those we love and care for are special. Most families tell us how important hospice care was to them in caring for their loved one and that they wished had called hospice sooner."

The Hospice of Northeastern Illinois provides a partnership between a family, hospice professionals and volunteers to ease the passage of life to death for those with life-limiting illnesses. Hospice caretakers provide quality care that relieves pain and symptoms while social workers and chaplains help ease the burdens of family and caretakers with counseling and spiritual services. Over 200 volunteers help in visitation and respite care for family members and by providing a Vigil Program if there are no family members to be there in the final hours. Afterwards, the work of hospice continues as loved ones are helped with the grieving process through bereavement programs.

For more information on the Hospice of Northeastern Illinois its programs, please call 1-800-425-4444 or 847-381-5599. Donations may be sent to HNI's main office at 410 South Hager Ave., Barrington, IL 60010.

Mental health in the new millennia: a most pressing concern

Good cheer. Holidays nearly upon us. Those colors, smells, sounds and images we all find and wish to find in past, present and future. Some of us come up short. There is a type of disease that's more common than cancer, diabetes, heart disease or arthritis. It puts more people in the hospital than any other. If it doesn't put them in the hospital, it renders them nonfunctional. This rarely-talked-about disease affects one out of four families in the United States. This disease is the family physicians Annual Clinical Focus for the year 2000. That's how important mental illness is.

Mental illness may be the most pressing health concern we are facing today. Fortunately, mental illness is treatable. Unfortunately, the vast majority of those suffering don't get needed treatment. It is estimated that 51 million Americans have a mental health disorder, while only eight million seek treatment for it.

People don't get treated for mental illness for a variety of reasons. One of the reasons is because of the stigma society attaches. Too often, people who are mentally ill may be ridiculed and accused of being weak. They fear the rejection, real or imagined, by people who don't understand that mental illness is as legitimate and serious as physical illness. Just as we would not ridicule or blame someone with cancer or diabetes or heart disease; we do not subject those with mental illness to such attitudes and prejudice.

Mental health makes up a large part of overall wellness. Our attitudes, "self-talk," self-esteem, and reactions to stress affect our health. Studies have shown that people who are angry are more likely to develop heart disease, backaches, gastritis and many other types of illness.

If you or someone you know is suffering from a mental illness, take time to talk to your family physician about it. Family physicians are doctors who are trained to take care of the whole person, body and mind. they can help you with the treatment you need to end your suffering.—*Doctors Luis I. Home & Garden FALL '99

To stir up some home decor changes ...Just stir up a can of paint or stain

You've heard it a hundred times before: a fresh coat of paint is one of best ways to breathe new life into a "past its prime" space. That's because paint — and the rich or subtle color it imparts — provides a continuous canvas where eclectic furnishings and accessories, contrasting accent shades, and diverse tastes can be knit together beautifully. Better still, painting walls, ceilings and trim is relatively easy to do, even for the novice do-it-yourselfer. Managers of Sherwin-Williams stores — the nation's largest retailer of paints, stains and related home-decor products — say that getting great results is simple. Success, they explain, comes down to two simple words: products and preparation.

The Basics

Before you pick colors, shop for paint finishes, or wander through the brush and roller aisle. First pick the right product for the job by asking yourself four key questions.

- What room am I painting, and how is that room used? Is it a low-traffic living room? A high-traffic family room? A moisture-filled kitchen or bath area? A child's room that's prone to stains and scuffs?
- What is the size of the room I am painting? Are there half-walls and lots of windows that will affect the amount of paint I should buy?
- What unique features should I plan to paint? Are the ceilings high? Is there unique moulding or trim? Is there a lot of woodwork?
- What's the current condition of the surface I plan to paint? Are the walls papered? Has drywall been chipped or dented? Is there high-gloss or flat-finish paint already in place?

Next, think about the finished look you want. What degree of gloss — or shininess — is right for the job? In general, there are five levels to choose from: flat (or matte), satin, eggshel, semi-gloss and gloss.

Flat finishes offer a soft, muted look that often is desirable for interior walls. However, while these finishes are pretty to look at, they tend to be less wear-resistant than their glossier counterparts. On the other hand, glossy finishes — from soft-gloss satin through true enamel-like gloss — offer greater durability and can be cleaned more easily. However, the glossier the finish, the better its ability to reflect light — and that reflective quality can focus too much attention on nicks, dents and minor surface imperfections.

How do you pick the best finish for your project? Talk to the staff at your local paint store, say Sherwin-Williams managers. Because new products continuously are being created to better meet your project requirements, you'll get the most accurate and helpful information from experts who deal with paint and related products on a daily basis.

Preparation for Success

Sherwin-Williams store managers also point out that preparation is the single biggest factor in finish-coat (also known as topcoat) success. When you take the extra time to clean, sand and prime your walls, ceilings or fixtures, you create a surface that has extra "stick" to it. That means your finish or topcoats will apply faster and more easily, and will last longer. Your neighborhood paint store has a variety of cleaning, sanding, smoothing and priming products to choose from. Just ask the store staff for help in selecting the right preparation tools for your project.

However, good preparation isn't limited just to the surface you intend to paint. It also means outfitting yourself with the correct brushes, rollers, paint trays and other accessories, as well. When you pick up paints and stains for your project, be sure to ask the paint-store manager how to select the best application tools, too. By studying this information, you quickly can determine whether the brush or roller is best used with latex or oil-based products, and what its specific application advantages are.

Enjoy Your Results

Because redecorating your home with paints and stains is so fast, easy and cost-effective to do, you can get an appealing new look every few years or sooner. Just imagine how inviting a living room done in buttery yellow, a den stained in rich mahogany or a master suite finished in peaceful blue might be — and then stop by your local paint store to make those ideas a vivid reality. If you keep a simple record of your projects, listing in it the materials and application techniques you used, you'll know just what to do when it's time to repaint or touch up. You also can find lots of help on the Internet; in fact, Sherwin-Williams managers suggest stopping by their "cyber store" at www.sherwin-williams.com, where you'll find planning tools and good advice for home projects.

The company's brand-name products only can be found at Sherwin-Williams stores. For more information or to locate a store near you, call 1-800-4-SHERWIN (1-800-474-3794) for the nearest location.

A fresh coat of paint is one of the best ways to breathe new life into any space.

Lawmakers outline plan to save VA

Plan calls for consolidating VA medical services with Great Lakes Training Center

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

A bi-partisan coalition of lawmakers has presented a new plan to save the North Chicago VA Medical Center by consolidating medical services with the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

The likelihood of the plan happening remains uncertain at this point and officials at Great Lakes and North Chicago VA are taking a wait-and-see attitude.

"It's so early in the process it's hard to speculate on the merger of the two hospitals," said Lt. Commander Rob Newell, a spokesman for Great Lakes.

"Obviously, everybody at Great Lakes cares deeply about the welfare of our veterans because we are all future veterans," he added. "But whether Great Lakes would have a role in working with the VA to provide health care services to area veterans it's just too early to say if that would happen or how it would happen."

U.S. Senators Dick Durbin and Peter Fitzgerald, along with congressmen John Porter, Phil Crane and Don Manzullo, sent letters to U.S. Defense Secretary William Cohen and Veterans Affairs Secretary Togo West urging them to consider the plan.

The lawmakers letter points out that the Navy Hospital at Great Lakes will have to be renovated or replaced within the next three to five years. By contrast, the North Chicago VA Medical Center has been upgraded at a

Donnelley joins the fray in race for 10th District

Publishing heir jumps in to Porter vacancy on crowded Republican ticket

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Shawn Donnelley, great granddaughter of one of the most recognized publishers in the country, has joined the field of candidates running for the 10th Congressional seat.

Donnelley, 30, officially announced her intentions to run on the Republican ticket during a gathering of about 50 supporters at the barn of George and Vicki Ranney in Grayslake. Donnelley will be vying for the seat held by U.S. Rep. John Porter, who is retiring at the end of his current term.

"I believe there's a great opportunity there," said Donnelley of her bid for Congress. "A lot of the issues I want to work on I believe match those of the 10th Congressional District."

Donnelley is the great, great granddaughter of R.R. Donnelley, who founded what is now the largest commercial printing company in North America, R.R. Donnelly & Sons. She now works in government relations for the company's downtown office in Chicago and resides in Libertyville.

Donnelley emphasized her experience, working for a successful business and her involvement with many not-for-profit volunteer agencies. She also worked for a short time for former Massachusetts Governor William Weld in graduate school.

Donnelley said one of the major issues she intends to focus on in the campaign is education.

She said she believes strongly in "local control" of education, meaning the local and state government should have a greater say on how federal tax dollars for education are spent.

Donnelley also favors overhaul-

Sheriff's department urges seniors to beware of sweepstakes scam

Senior contacted by scam artists; Canadian police investigating

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re is urging the public to be on guard for a nationwide telephone sweepstakes scam that is targeting senior citizens.

The sheriff's department received a telephone call last week from a senior citizen in unincorporated Libertyville, notifying the sheriff's office about a suspicious phone call.

The senior told police he had been contacted by a female on the telephone, who informed him that he had won more than $56,000 in a sweepstakes. The caller told the senior he would have to provide $1,900 in advance in order to collect the winnings.

"He wisely thought it was suspicious and he contacted us," said Lake County Deputy Chief Robert Randall.

Randall said the woman told the senior that a representative from the company would come to his house and pick up the advance money. Lake County sheriff's deputies waited at the senior's house but no one arrived. Later, the senior received another phone call asking him to send the advance money to an address in Toronto, Canada. The senior was instructed by police not to send the money.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

School maybe ready for tour

Libertyville—Up coming "choice zone" student tours irritated an already tense situation at Monday's Libertyville High School Board meeting. Fear that the Vernon Hills campus would not look complete for the tours were laid to rest. However, anger at additional costs and postponed completion dates was not.

About 50 students in the "choice zone" area will choose to attend either the newly established Vernon Hills High School or Libertyville High School during the 2000-2001 school year.

Trustee Richard Friedenberg pointed out the possible impact of unfinished construction on a student's ability to choose.

The school will at least appear complete for the tours, according to Yasmine Dada, the school's business manager.

Despite this assurance, school board members expressed displeasure at the extension of turnover dates.

Four expelled for bomb threat

Wauconda— Wauconda High School students were disciplined by the District 118 School Board for the students' roles in a Nov. 3 bomb threat.

Four students face expulsions of various lengths after the Nov. 13 special board meeting. School was disrupted Nov. 3 after a bomb threat was phoned to the school. No device was found, but students and staff were sent home for the day.

Two students were expelled for the remainder of the school year. Two were expelled for the remainder of the year and the first semester of 2000-2001.

Excellent youths get awarded

Mundelein—Two Mundelein High School students who serve as First Class leaders received awards for youth excellence from Lieutenant Governor Corrine Wood last month.

The enthusiasm of awarded students Tom Ear and Kate Eber, both seniors, reflect the community involvement fostered by First Class programs.

"It's basically an advisory program, run for and by students, that hopefully gives kids a chance to respond and think reflectively about issues that affect them every day," said Dean of Students John Ahlgrim.

"We've had great success. At times, we touch on issues that are a little controversial. But, that gets them talking to one another. They learn to respect one another and how to communicate as adults," said Ahlgrim.

Hazardous waste may come

Gurnee—Since Round Lake residents put a stop to the construction of a household hazardous waste transfer station in their community, the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) has targeted Gurnee for the honor.

Gurnee officials plan to hold a public hearing before making the decision to give their blessings to the project.

The proposed site is located in an industrial area on Estes Street just north of Route 41.

Big Hollow annexation closer

Fox Lake—In a span of four days, three governing bodies came closer to concluding an agreement allowing Big Hollow School and a nearby sewer line are in the Village of Fox Lake.

Lakes Region Sanitary District and the Big Hollow School board approved the voluntary annexation. The Fox Lake trustees will vote on the agreement Dec. 6. Mayor James Pappas was more than pleased when he learned of the school board's vote during his meeting. Lakes Region Sanitary District had approved the agreement last week.

The approval is a big hurdle for a Hawthorn Suites hotel and single family home plan earmarked for the Holiday Park property near the school off Route 134.

The agreement allows a sewer line to connect the Fox Lake system.

Lawsuit dismissed

Gurnee—A federal court dismissed Ricky Higgins' lawsuit against Warren Township High School Distrct 121. Higgins claimed the district violated the American's with Disabilities Act when he was suspended from the basketball team for alcohol abuse.

Heather Carter, a Wadsworth resident, may still face charges in a Walworth County, Wis. for an accident that resulted in the deaths of two Gurnee residents.

About aging

Board limits adult entertainment

Mundelein—The village board has passed an ordinance that limits adult-oriented businesses to light and medium industrial zoning districts. The ordinance also prohibits these businesses to be 1,000 feet from churches, schools and residential areas.

Cub Foods breaks ground

Round Lake Beach—A ground-breaking for the new 70,000 sq. ft., multi-million dollar Cub Foods was held Nov. 16 in the Round Lake Commons shopping center in Round Lake Beach.

Apex Investment Associates, Inc., based in Chicago, is the developer.

Originally, the shopping center was home to an A&P grocery store, Walgreens, Mobil gas station and Zayre department store.

Blockbuster Video recently opened its own free-standing store, and an enlarged JoAnn Fabrics opened earlier this month.

Apex will be modernizing the nearly 30-year-old shopping center with new lighting, landscaping and reconfigured parking areas.

They have a spring deadline to complete the new Cub Foods and layout changes.

Social club to help needy

Round Lake—The Round Lake Area Social Club will be spreading holiday cheer to needy families with several upcoming events.

The club intends to bus 15 to 20 underprivileged families and 15 to 20 senior citizens to their facility for a free dinner and gift on Dec. 4.

Christmas baskets will be distributed Dec. 18.

The club is seeking monetary or non-perishable food donations, and the names of any families who need a little help this Christmas.

All calls will be kept confidential.

For information call 546-9813.

Festival of Trees celebrated

Wadsworth—The Victory Hospital Foundation's 8th Annual Festival of Trees is being held now through Nov. 21 at Midlane Country Club, 4555 Yorkhouse Road, Waukegan.

The festival features over 60 designer-decorated holiday trees and wreaths, Olde World Gift Shoppe, bake shop, entertainment, Santa's Workshop, children's activities, crafts and much more.

General festival admission is $4 for adults and $2 for senior citizens and children age 12 and under.

Meeting disrupted

Wadsworth—George Riseborough, Wadsworth Mayor Evelyn Hoselton's personal attorney, attempted to sit on the board during the Nov. 16 meeting.

The mayor filed a lawsuit against her board of trustees and Village Attorney John Mullen in June over her attempted appointment of Riseborough as the village's temporary attorney, stating there was a vacancy after Mayor Don Craft's term had ended.

Riseborough stated he was there to advise the mayor, and was not leaving the table.

Trustee Ken Furlan moved that the board instruct Winthrop Harbor Police to remove him and the motion passed unanimously.

Riseborough finally offered to sit at a table next to the board so the meeting could proceed.

School installing new library system

Lake Villa—A new automated system being installed in the libraries of Lake Villa School District #41 will make information easily accessible by students and their parents.

The new system is called Spectrum, a product of Winnebago Software. It catalogues all the books in the library and enables the students to access these catalogues from any computer hooked up to the Internet.

When a student comes to the proper web sight of the program, he or she will have to enter a password to get in. After entering the web sight, the student will then be given a place where he or she can enter a topic of their choice.

When the topic is given, a list of every book in the library on that topic will be displayed. It will also let patrons know whether or not that book is available or checked out.

The program will offer web sights recommended by the teachers in their building, on their topic,

Peaker plants test rule of law

Very quickly, questions involving the location and authorization of "peaker" plants to augment existing electrical energy supplies are boiling down to a test of representative government and the rule of law.

Proposals to locate generating stations fueled by natural gas in at least three spots in Lake County have grated raw the emotions of citizens and sparked negative public opinion the likes unheard of since the Lake County Board went searching for suitable landfill sites when it became apparent there was insufficient space for solid waste disposal.

We're unaware of any public support for peaker stations, which cost in the neighborhood of $100 million to construct. The plants are noisy, smelly, unsightly, need untold amounts of water to operate, and are capable of generating unbelievable profits for the owners.

Public opposition has focused in Libertyville where a signature drive is in progress to put the question of locating a peaker plant in the northwest corner of the village near Grayslake on the March 21 ballot. Libertyville officials are conducting hearings as proscribed by the permitting process. Since the March referendum will be advisory only, the ultimate decision rests with six village trustees.

Other peaker plants have been proposed for Island Lake on the Lake-McHenry county border and Zion, where officials already have indicated a favorable disposition because a loss of the nuclear generating plant will hurt economically.

Peaker plant opponents, particularly in Libertyville, hope to exert enough political pressure to drive out the proposed generators. John Spoden, director of development in Libertyville, carefully pointed out that the law must be followed. The mid-county project already has obtained Illinois Environmental Protection Agency approval.

Betsy Dietel, executive director of the Liberty Prairie Conservancy in Grayslake, sees the peaker plant proposed by investors headquartered in Buffalo Grove, as a serious threat to the residential character of the environmentally conscious community of Prairie Crossing nearby. Dietel says strenuous political steps are being taken to challenge the planned generator.

In representative government, officials aren't compelled to vote the way of popular sentiment. Trustees always have the option of voting their conscience. In the real world, advisory referenda seldom carry much weight. It will be interesting to see the range of political steps that can be taken to curb the unpopular generating plant.

Bipartisan work favored by voters

If you listen to liberals and Democrats, there's a lot to be said for bipartisanship in government. Conventional polling wisdom calls attention to the notion that a majority of America likes to see Republicans and Democrats working together for what's in the best interest of all.

From the GOP viewpoint, though, bipartisanship is a two-way street. When the "other guys" dig in their heels, as is so often the case in state and national politics, Republicans find it in their best interests to respond in kind. The rub comes when liberal leaning media adopts a 'Carvelized' mentality and fails to point out that, in fairness, there are two sides of the street and legitimate opposing points of view.

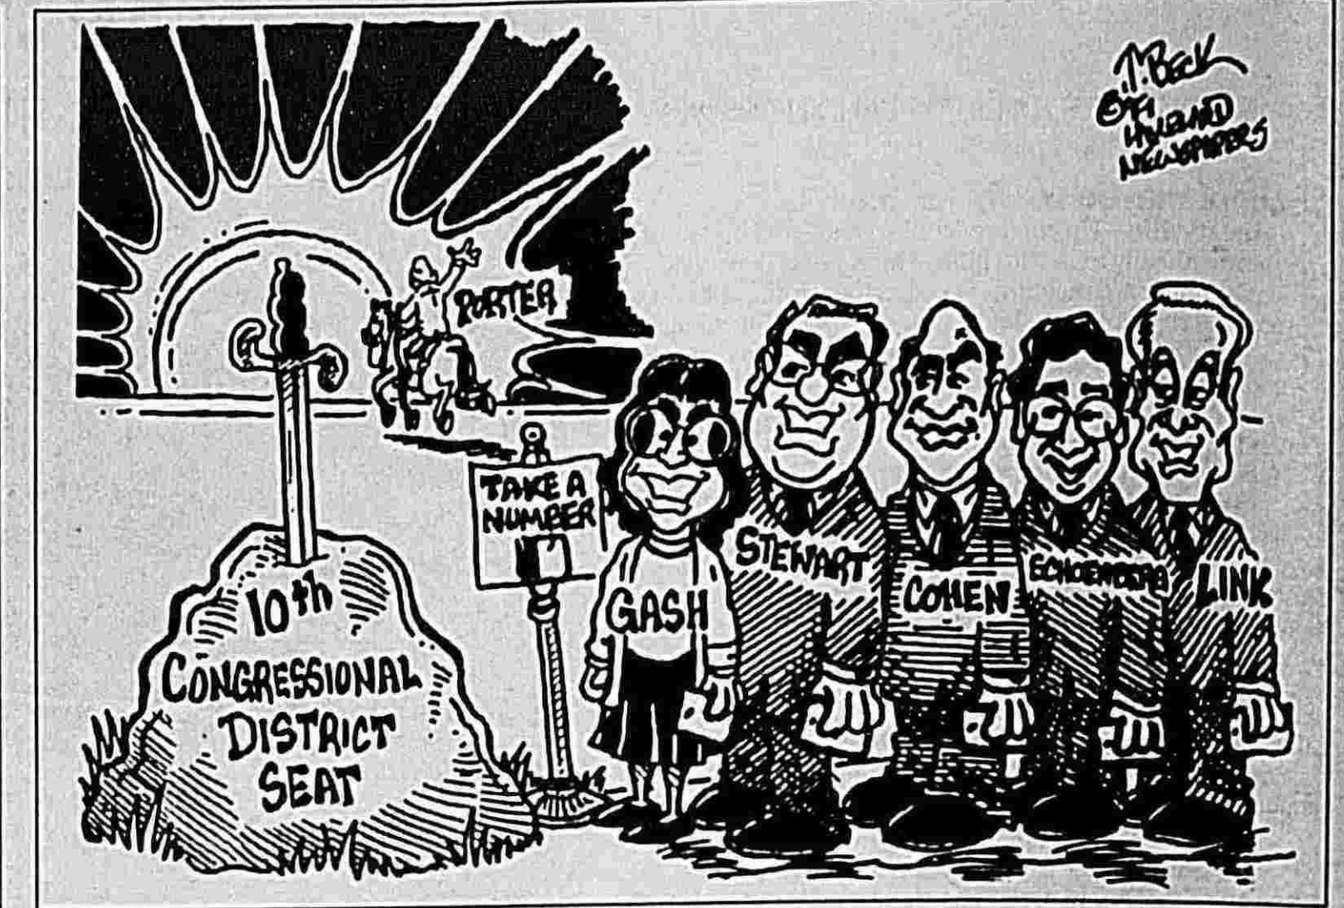

It's when members from both parties put rancor and gamesmanship aside that meaningful change comes about and betterment can be achieved. An example of teamwork in government is taking place in the effort of Illinois' two U.S. senators, Republican Peter Fitzgerald and Democrat Dick Durbin to advance a plan to save North Chicago VA Medical Center from downgrading its services at an inconvenience to approximately 13,000 veterans in an around Lake County. Both senators are supporting a plan to combine the VA Medical Center with the Great Lakes Naval Training Center Hospital which is in need of renovation.

We think taxpayers like the idea of supporting our veterans at the same time saving possibly $40 million that might be needed to make the Great Lakes medical facility ship-shape.

The state's two top gun politicians representing opposite political parties, Mayor Richard M. Daley and Gov. George Ryan, recently joined hands in a visit to Detroit to invite Ford officials to locate a new assembly plant in Illinois. Without a doubt, promises were made, promises that will be known to all some day. We think taxpayers appreciate the bipartisan tone to promoting economic development. So no disagreement is anticipated over whatever enducements were put on the table to bring more jobs to Illinois.

At the grassroots level, two of Lake County's state senators, Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) and William "Bill" Peterson (R-Long Grove) ap-

VIEWPOINT

'Senator Wood' has a nice ring

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

There is no brighter star in the Illinois Republican Party than Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood, the plucky wife-mom-lawyer-lawmaker-executive who is a heartbeat away from the governor's mansion.

Wood has all the ingredients to lead her party into the new millennium. The resident of Lake County has demonstrated both personal and political courage. She's personable, charming and attractive. Wood is a hard campaigner and a proven vote-getter. She's a team player.

What more could a political party want in a leader except maybe a personal fortune like Steve Forbes or the fund-raising ability of George W. Bush? Wood can go as far in Illinois politics as she wants. What's the next stop for the hard-working resident of Lake Forest?

The lieutenant governor already has been suggested as a successor to her boss, Gov. George Ryan. Wood also stands in line to become a U.S. senator.

Wood made a wise choice in passing on a run for Congress to fill the 10th Dist. seat being vacated by John Porter. She would have had to fight off a crowded pack of legitimate candidates, wannabees and a few goof balls in the March primary. The run-every-two- years cycle of a Congressional House chair has scared off fainter hearts.

In a campaign for the U.S. Senate in 2002, Wood is positioned to run unopposed in her own party to gain the opportunity to retire Democrat Sen. Dick Durbin, the mushy liberal who has been in Washington for a quarter century. Illinois voters enthusiastically sent their first female U.S. senator to Washington in 1992. Too bad it was the ethically-challenged Carold Moseley-Braun. Corinne Wood is well known to voters in all 103 Illinois counties. She is liked and respected by all factions of her party. A Wood candidacy for the U.S. Senate would attract independents and Democrats alike.

If politics at the state and national level is a never-ending campaign, Corinne Wood already is headed for the next step up the ladder of success.

Calling all Santas

Organizers of the Enchanted Christmas Castle in Antioch take seriously the idea that anyone can be Santa Claus. They've put out a call for volunteer St. Nicks. Interested persons are invited to call the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry office at 395-2233.

Forgetting history

Historic Millburn, one of Lake County's oldest villages, wasn't bypassed in the 19th and 20th centuries, but it might be in the 21st. The state has authorized purchase of land as part of its five-year plan to construct a rerouted Rte. 45 around the hamlet.

Solo 'Grinch'

Gurnee Trustee Ray Damijonaitis doesn't mind being cast as a sort of Grinch Who Stole Christmas for his stand on taxing a not-for-profit women's golf tournament next summer. "It's revenue, baby," exclaims Damijonaitis, the lone vote for assessing the 3 percent Gurnee amusement tax on the 2000 U.S. Women's Open at Merit Club. You can bet Ray will be making sure Gurnee is reimbursed every penny spent for police and fire costs associated with the tourney expected to attract 125,000 fans.

Looking for bikers

The Bicycle Club of Lake County is proof that we live in a locality where there's an organization to match just about every conceivable interest. Riders interested in touring, off road, mountain or competitive rides are invited to attend monthly meetings on the fourth Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Libertyville Civic Center, 135 Church St. That means the next meeting will be Tuesday, Nov. 23. Carol Marshall of Riverwoods is one of the organizers. The club even has a hot line 847-604-0520.

Congress makes good in fall budget battle

GUEST COMMENTARY

Philip M. Crane
R-8th District

There's been so much bantering back and forth between the White House and the Congress over the budget this year that it's often a bit hard to keep up with what's actually getting accomplished in Washington. I am proud to report that on the front-line in the battle to maintain an economically sound budget, keep the government running, and balance the budget books, the Congress has made significant progress. The House of Representatives passed 13 appropriations bills whose total spending sum was below the budget cap that was established by the Balanced Budget Act of 1997, even with the inclusion of emergency spending requests by the president. A good number of those bills were at or below last year's spending levels. That meant one very simple, but important fact: the Republican Congress indeed kept its promise and delivered an adequate budget without raiding the social security surplus. This was no small feat. In fact, in the face of an Administration that has indeed requested and received emergency spending (such as appropriations for the war in Kosovo) and even calculated that new taxes should be implemented, the battle of the budget has been a dicey one.

The good news is that we have continued to hold the line. By passing important legislation to provide a one-percent reduction across-the-board in federal spending, the Republican Congress gave President Clinton a fair and responsible plan that balanced the budget, stopped the raid on social security, and allowed us to pay down the federal

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Senator's wife faces tough decision

Suzi Link, wife of State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills), may face the toughest decision of all in the Republican maneuvering going on to locate a candidate to challenge her husband in the 2000 general election.

Link served as a top campaign strategist in the first term election of County Board Rep. Pam Newton (R-Vernon Hills). Newton now has surfaced as the prime GOP contender in the 30th Senatorial District including part of Waukegan Township, the eastern third of Libertyville Township, eastern half of Vernon Township, Shields (Lake Bluff and Lake Forest) Township, Western Deerfield and Moraine Township (Deerfield).

Newton's current County Board term runs to 2002, but she has made a habit of pursuing new political vistas since serving as a Vernon Hills trustee. Since getting into county government, Newton has allied herself with the regular GOP contingent, now the minority. That leaves Pam at odds sometimes with the independent GOP majority, but puts her in good stead with GOP statemakers.

Suzi Link is head of the county's millennium celebration commission, a bi-partisan effort. She could easily devote her energies to the millennium and thus avoid choosing between her husband and a close friend.

Early start

Fox Lake Trustee Cindy Irwin is off and running for mayor. Irwin may be the first announced mayoral candidate in Lake County for the 2001 municipal elections. If successful, Irwin would be the first woman to serve as mayor of Fox Lake. She operates a local business and has served as president of the Fox Lake Area Chamber of Commerce.

Stolman stiffens

County Board Rep. David Stolman (R-Buffalo Grove) only deepened his alienation among independent Republicans on the board with his sharp-edged reaction to Board Chairman Jim LaBelle's announcement that he will not be running for re-election next year.

Irwin: Going for first woman mayorship of Fox Lake

Stolman: Already campaigning for board chairmanship?

Stolman, a one-time Democrat who has long coveted the chairmanship, characterized LaBelle's administration in "do nothing" terms. With a year to serve, LaBelle has been lauded for instilling an era of harmony and cohesion in county government.

Gash gains

Savvy political strategists have tabbed State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park) as the major beneficiary of Chris Kennedy's decision not to run for Congress in the 10th District which includes east Lake County. Gash's only drawback, they say, is that she hasn't cow-towed to House Speaker Michael Madigan, who makes the Democratic call outside Chicago. But a well cultivated image for independence puts Gash in good standing with voters.

Antioch hemmed in

The Village of Antioch's position on industrial expansion might need some clarification. Mayor Marilyn Shineflug told a business group future industrial growth will be to the south and east. Village Administrator Tim Wells told the same group that, while there is no longer any room for new industry, Antioch has no plans for industrial development outside its borders.

Crane party

Congressman Phil Crane's most faithful backers were his guests at a dinner Friday night at Concorde Banquets, Lake Zurich. The conservative mainstay annually fetes members of the 8th Congressional Republican Club, a Crane support organization.

News you can't use

A total of 3,900 Village of Fox Lake newsletters were mailed from Ingleside Post Office, postal officials said. The mailing shocked some residents in unincorporated Grant Township. They questioned Mayor Jim Pappas, but village hall insiders say there were no ulterior motives involved.

Pappas is running against Lake County Board member Bonnie Thomson Carter in District 5 in the March primary.

Many of us like to adopt memorable quotes from the movies and use them in everyday conversation.

For example, "Go ahead, make my day," as delivered by Clint Eastwood's maverick detective "Dirty Harry."

And, "Show me the money," 1996's most copied catch phrase, chanted by Cuba Gooding Jr. in the Tom Cruise sports-agent movie, "Jerry Maguire."

Those lines didn't make the top-10 list despite being excellent examples of how a witty screenwriter can help enhance an actor's image.

Here are the lines selected by E! Online's group of movie critics:

"Bond, James Bond," first uttered by Sean Connery in "Dr. No" way back in 1962.

"Of all the gin joints in all the towns in all the world, she walks into mine," by Humphrey Bogart in "Casablanca."

"I'll be back," by Arnold Schwarzenegger in "The Terminator."

"You talkin' to me?" by Robert DeNiro in "Taxi Driver."

"Life is like a box of chocolates; you never know what you're gonna get," by Tom Hanks in "Forrest Gump."

"It's not the men in your life that counts, it's the life in your men," by Mae West in "I'm No Angel."

"Would you be shocked if I changed into something more comfortable?" by Jean Harlow in "Hell's Angels."

"I could dance with you till the cows come home. On second thought, I'd rather dance with the cows until you came home," by Groucho Marx in "Duck Soup."

"Gimme a whiskey with a ginger ale on the side; and don't be stingy, baby," by Greta Garbo in the 1930 film classic "Anna Christie."

"Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn," by Clark Gable, of course, in "Gone With the Wind."

Failing to make the so-called experts' top 10 were such immortal fragments of movie dialogue as:

"May the Force be with you," from "Star Wars."

"Carpe diem" (Seize the day), from the Robin Williams masterpiece, "Dead Poets Society."

"There's no crying in baseball," by Tom Hanks in the World War II women's baseball movie, "A League of Their Own."

Since everybody wants to get into the act (including me), here are two of my favorites:

"Never punch a drunk with your pitching hand," by Kevin Costner in the baseball movie, "Bull Durham."

"A dentist? God, I'd love to kill a dentist," by Edward Herrman's character in "Compromising Positions," when he learns a local dentist has been murdered.

I also have a list of the worst movie lines of all time, which I may share with you in another column. They include:

"Love means never having to say you're sorry," that syrupy cliche from "Love Story" that became so popular in the 1970s.

And, "Oh, come on, Kong. Forget about me. This thing is never going to work," by Jessica Lange in the 1976 version of "King Kong."

BUDGET: Tax and spend is not the right course for future

debt. Our one-percent cut in all federal spending eliminated fraud, waste, and abuse across the federal bureaucracy. The reduction in federal spending did not, however, affect critical services such as Social Security, Medicare, or Medicaid. The president's recent veto of this legislation speaks otherwise. The president rejected the halting the raid on the Social Security trust fund. Instead, he has requested emergency spending funds and has not stated how they will be paid for. The president has unduly chosen the tax and spend approach again—a path that we have rejected and refuse to pursue.

Our passage of important legislation on national defense, already signed into law, ensures the needs of our diminished national defense structure. The Clinton Administration's defense proposal left a giant hole in the readiness and modernization needs of our military. While we have not been able to solve all of the problems associated with the military quality of life and readiness, the Congress has addressed the pay-raise issue by granting to military personnel a 4.8 percent pay raise and an enhancement of the retirement system. We also added more than $6 billion to critical readiness matters and training and modernization programs. Our national security depends on a strong defense and we are proud to have passed a measure to design and deploy a missile defense system much like the one that President Ronald Reagan envisioned. The Military Construction Act will provide a better quality of life for troops and families by providing for child development centers, new troop housing, hospital and medical facilities, and family housing units. Cuts in military spending by the Clinton Administration have begged to be addressed. We took important steps to resolve that in this Congress.

In Education, this Congress has acted to pass the Flexibility Partnership Act, the Teacher Empowerment Act, and the Academic Achievement for All Act. We have given states the power to waive regulations restricting the use of federal education dollars—this gives states a powerful new tool to reform education and spend those dollars on the real needs of students. The Teacher Empowerment Act consolidates teacher training programs in order to train new and current teachers with quality instruction, reduce class size in turn and better the educational environment. Under the Academic Achievement Act, 10 states get the option of combining funds from several programs to try new, innovative education reforms to raise student achievement. The president has not yet signed the last two of these bills. Our hope is that he will commit the resources to education that we have.

This year, the Republican Congress passed sweeping tax reform legislation only to have the bill vetoed by the president. As we have stated so often before, the federal surplus revenue belongs to the American people. The enormous tax burden must be diminished and dollars returned. Our $792 billion board-based tax relief act was designed to eliminate the "death" or estate tax, virtually eliminate the marriage penalty, provide for an income-tax cut for all tax brackets, and grant tax incentives to spur economic growth and help families. The president's veto didn't hurt the politicians, but instead, hurt the American people.

The House-passed provision to halt the raiding of the Social Security trust fund, termed the "Lock-Box" provision, cut-of the $1.9 trillion Social Security surplus from federal raiders. Despite opposition to the "Lock-Box" by Senate Democrats, who have blocked a Senate vote on the bill, the Republican leadership has remained committed to protecting the Social Security surplus by implementing a budget that will not dip into the trust fund.

The passage of still other legislation in the Congress focuses on improving health services for veterans, ensuring protection from a Y2K meltdown, and shoring up transportation needs for the 21st Century. Congress has also moved to provide emergency funds to farmers and ranchers facing the worst farm crisis in recent memory.

So, as the leaves continue falling, and the Congress concludes the federal budget for this year, rest assured that much progress has been made—progress that moves the nation's business forward and the federal spending monster backwards.

BIPARTISAN: Sometimes it has trouble meeting in the center

peared on a public panel in Lincolnshire the other night to explain the workings of state government. We think the voters enjoy seeing members of opposite parties collaborating on something positive every once in awhile. As a matter of fact, lawmakers in the Lake County delegation to Springfield work well together and collaborate all the time on issues to benefit the citizenry.

President Clinton flailed the concept of bipartisanship when he took House Speaker Dennis Hastert by the arm to announce plans to aid economically depressed areas like Englewood on Chicago's South Side.

What is needed is clarification of the ground rules. Politics 101. Schooling for the masses. So often, the public is confused and misled by all the posturing that goes into the governing process. In this day and age, the sideshow is called the "entertainment" factor. When John Q. Public puts his foot down, the actors, er officials, can achieve results.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Is customer service dead... or just dying?

(Last of two parts)

Consumers feel that service is declining and the research backs that up. Last week I shared some true stories illustrating just how bad service really is.

Despite the nearly unanimous agreement among Americans that customer service is extinct, it actually isn't quite dead. It is declining, it is different, and it may be dying. However, it isn't dead yet.

Customer service is changing and it is being redefined continually. The self-serve businesses are changing the standards. The discounters are redefining it. And every day new E-commerce companies are setting new boundaries for acceptable service.

Interestingly, customers seem willing to accept different standards in different industries. For example, I would guess that at least one order in 25 is filled incorrectly in the fast food industry. Yet, fast-food franchises continue to flourish.

On the other hand, how long would folks fly on an airline that took you to the wrong city or crash landed one in 25 planes? How long would you keep a car that failed to start one in 25 times? Not long would be my guess.

What happened to good service?

Increasing competition has caused many businesses and industries to re-think their customer service strategies. Some firms have changed their focus from high quality, high service and mid-range pricing to lesser quality, limited service and lower prices. They often reduce training costs and lower employment standards. They rationalize these decisions as necessary to stay competitive.

Other firms have adopted - or perhaps just allowed - a laissez faire attitude toward their service efforts. While this "hands-off" approach may not alienate some customers, others are getting upset. They include good service as part of the value equation and these folks want no part of no service companies.

Unfortunately, most American companies have instituted a "lip-service" policy. They talk about customer service. They advertise their great service, and if you don't listen too carefully you may even be convinced that they really do care. They certainly use the right buzzwords and sound persuasive about their commitment to service.

However, their actions out shout their words. The proof of great service is in the results not the rhetoric.

Technology is also driving some interesting service changes. You can do your Christmas shopping without going to the mall, standing in line or feeling the crush. You can make your own airline reservations, buy a car or sell your stock without ever talking to a human being. You can avoid high-touch customer contact with voice mail, e-mail and overnight delivery.

Merchants see holiday cheer in sales

County business people say shoppers are willing to spend for favorite gifts

By TIM O'DONNELL
Staff Reporter

As Christmas approaches, retail stores around the county are preparing for the month-long selling season.

An economy that is still strong shows promise for retailers during the Christmas season.

Jay Kaster of X-treme Value in Zion views this prosperity on a local level.

"I don't think [sales] depend too much on the state of the economy, but on the state of the individual. And right now, people are making money."

Kaster hopes that this will translate into big sales for the holiday season.

To encourage more commerce, X-treme Value will be holding weekly specials on its name-brand clothing lines.

Kaster has been working with warehouses to keep merchandise on the shelf throughout the season.

Jennifer Wente, owner of Sweet Impressions in Grayslake, is also predicting a holiday rush this year.

"We've only been open for 11 weeks and we're already seeing an increase," said Wente.

"We're ordering in a lot of really good chocolate and hostess items," she added.

Sweet Impressions will have sales "right around Thanksgiving," to bring more customers into the store.

Though no reductions are planned at Patricia's Amish Furniture and Giftware in Antioch, the store will be increasing inventory in anticipation of a busy holiday season.

However, Bob Hawkins, President of Patricia's, does not see the economy having much of an impact on consumer's spending habits.

Kathy Marcus, owner of Time and Treasures just outside of Hawthorn Woods, agrees with Hawkins.

"It's the one time of year that people feel good about their spending, even if it takes them all year to pay it off."

Marcus already sees business starting to pick up at her store.

The season represents a special period for Time and Treasures, as they celebrate their one year anniversary a few weeks prior to Christmas.

Marcus plans to have a drawing and other special events to mark the anniversary.

Salton Retail Outlet, located in Gurnee Mills mall, will use increased advertising and in-store specials to bring the customers in.

Ron Haffron, Manager of Retail Sales for the corporation, sees cheery demeanors and a willingness to spend during the holiday season, no matter how the economy is doing.

"If [customers] really want the product, price is no object."

Even though the economy is still booming and retailers expect large returns, this year's market is different from the past.

The rapidly growing popularity of online shopping could have an effect on the storefronts in the community.

Salton has already made the digital leap to the cyber-shopping center.

At www.salton-maxim.com, customers can look at, read about and purchase everything that the store has to offer.

But other local merchants are not phased by this recent trend.

"I know for a fact that people like to see what they're getting. People like to shop," says Kathy Marcus.

Though Marcus is not worrying about the Internet's effect on the upcoming season, she does recognize that shoppers are gradually becoming more "connected."

Time and Treasures plans to open a web site that will allow customers to browse through and eventually purchase the store's variety of art, clocks and gifts.

Bob Hawkins sees the Internet as a resource rather than a store.

"People will go to the Internet to look, and then go to the stores to buy."

Hawkins and Wente's impressions seem to point to a scenario in which the Internet will actually stimulate local business instead of take away from it.

Shoppers could use the web as a guide to exact their shopping needs, and use the stores to make their purchases without losing the "feeling" of shopping.

Other businesses are not worried about the effect of online shopping because they believe that their store offers something that the web cannot.

Jay Kaster says that the clothing industry translates poorly to the Internet.

"It's hard for people to buy clothing online. They want to touch and feel a garment before they buy."

Jennifer Wente sees shopping locally in Lake County as something that is comforting to the consumers.

"People are still touchy and like shopping in the small town, homey feel of Grayslake," she stated.

Whether it is in Grayslake or in cyberspace, the Christmas season promises to bring increased business to local merchants.

Computer expo offers chance to have custom model made

By TIM O'DONNELL
Staff Reporter

The Computer Country Expo (CCE) will be returning to the Lake County Fair Grounds on Nov. 20, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Expo gives people the opportunity to learn more about what kind of computer is right for them, and purchase what they need at discounted prices.

From 9:30 a.m. until noon, CCE will hold a "Build Your Own Computer" seminar, given by Randell Durk.

Durk is an A+ Certified Technician who builds computer systems for international corporations.

His seminar is geared towards people who are looking to assemble a perfect, fully upgradeable computer for under $1000.

Seminar-goers learn what components they need, how to handle these components out of the box, and how to configure and install them in the computer.

"With some of the people, I'll even go as far as to walk around the Expo with them and show them which components they need," says Durk.

Nancy Priestly, promoter of the CCE, believes the show presents advantages over other offers available to the buying public.

Consumers come away from the Expo with a comprehensive knowledge of what they are getting. They can also benefit from on-site service and installation and discounted prices that beat both retail and online stores.

Consumers can also purchase software and products that are not yet available in retail stores.

The CCE offers customers a greater knowledge of what they are getting.

The information they provide goes beyond the basic "turn on and click" mentality that most people get pulled into.

Durk and the CCE want to give their patrons the understanding of what kind of computer they have and what they will need in the future.

When a patron purchases a computer or component, CCE technicians will install or service the product at no charge.

People can also bring in their own equipment to the Expo and have it serviced in front of them for a nominal charge.

The Computer Country Expo takes place once a month at the Lake County Fair Grounds. The entrance fee is $6 for adults, free for children.

Visit www.ccxpo.com for $1 off the entrance fee and directions to the fair grounds. For information, visit the web site or call 662-0811.

Lakeland names two to management posts

Two newspaper professionals have been named managers at Lakeland Newspapers, Publisher William Schroeder announced.

Crystal Reed will be in charge of classified advertising for the newspaper group, Market Journal, Great Lakes Bulletin, Suburban Family magazine and NetDIRECT, Lakeland's newspaper division.

Reed: Named Classified manager

Robert Warde was promoted to managing editor of Lakeland's 11 community weeklies serving Lake County. Warde formerly was news editor.

Warde: Promoted to managing editor

Schroeder said both Reed and Warde come to Lakeland with records of achievement. "I am confident they will play significant roles in the growth and development of Lakeland Newspapers and our associated enterprises," Schroeder stated.

Reed comes to Lakeland from the Northwest Herald newspaper, where she spent five years in the daily's classified advertising department, working most recently as a team leader. Reed helped guide the paper through two computer system changes. Reed is a specialist in telemarketing, customer service and inside sales.

Reed is a 24-year resident of McHenry County. She resides in Johnsburg with her husband and two sons.

Warde has worked in community journalism for more than 14 years. He began writing for a weekly newspaper on Milwaukee's south side after graduating high school. He attended the University of Wisconsin Milwaukee, studying journalism and mass communication.

He spent almost three years with CNI Newspapers, a chain of weekly newspapers serving Milwaukee's suburbs, as a group editor. He most recently served as managing editor of The Daily Reporter, a court and commercial newspaper serving Milwaukee's legal and construction community.

Libertyville business leader honored

Roch Tranel, president of The Tranel Financial Group, has been selected to receive the 1999 Sam Walton Business Leader Award, sponsored by the Wal-Mart Foundation and the Wal-Mart in Vernon Hills. Tranel was chosen as the award recipient by the Lmv Chamber, which received a $500 grant in the honor's name.

Wal-Mart established the Sam Walton Business Leader in 1995 to recognize local business people who best exemplify the principles of its founder Sam Walton: respect for the individual, service to customers and a commitment to strive for excellence.

"The Sam Walton Business Leader Award allows our Wal-Mart associates and SAM's Club partners to salute outstanding local business men and women and to show our pride in the local business community," said David Glass, president and CEO of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.

Tranel was one of more than 1,600 business people in Wal-Mart and SAM's Club communities around the country who were selected by their local Chambers of Commerce to receive the award. Participating Chambers received a total of more than $800,000 in grants from the Wal-Mart Foundation and their local Wal-Mart stores and SAM's Club's as part of the awards program.

The Sam Walton Business Leader Award is one of many initiatives Wal-Mart sponsors to support the economic vitality of the communities in which the company operates. Wal-Mart sponsors to support the economic vitality of the communities in which the company operates. Wal-Mart ranked No. 1 in the 1999 Cone/Roper Report, an annual national survey regarding philanthropy and corporate citizenship. In 1998, Wal-Mart and its associates raised and donated more than $127 million for charitable organization, including $42.9 million in community matching grants, $27 million to Children's Miracle Network, $14.5 million to United Way, $8 million in scholarships, $2.4 million to Make A Difference Day volunteer projects, $2.4 million in economic development grants, $1.5 million in environmental grants and $1.1 million in education grants in honor of 2,200 Wal-Mart and SAM's Club Teachers of the Year

Bottomless Closet to Close in Waukegan

Bottomless Closet® announces the closing of its Waukegan facility as of the end of November. all other facilities in Illinois remain open, including newly-opened branches in Homewood and Lombard.

"We have mixed feelings about the closing," said Ann Considine, Bottomless Closet's Waukegan office manager. "While sorry to close, we feel that we have fulfilled our mission in Lake County. since opening this facility in late 1995, we've directly helped over 600 Lake County women. Now that demand for our service has dropped off markedly, it s no longer economically viable to remain open. The organization reported that the number of clients for whom it provides business-appropriate clothing has dwindled recently due to welfare reform.

TAYLOR: Good service critical to today's businesses their number one priority. These companies are excelling today and will in the future.

The future will bring additional changes. In 1998, E-Commerce trackers reported that consumers spent nearly $8 billion on Internet purchases. That number is expected to exceed $100 billion by the year 2002. Other experts are predicting that the amount of online spending may hit $300 billion by 2003.

In my opinion, those companies who are offering the poorest service have the greatest risk. The more satisfied customers are, the less likely they will be to seek new sources for their purchases.

I encourage you to intensify your customer service focus. Personalize your service. Respect your customer's need for courtesy and quick, accurate service. Hire employees with an attitude to serve, and train them thoroughly in basic job functions, product knowledge and customer care. Your business will be a standout in your community and your bottom line will be glad you did.

Summit seeks to address violence

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Nearly everyone agrees violence is a serious problem in our society, and something must be done to address it. Finding solutions are not so easy, however.

A summit to address violence will be held from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday, Nov. 20 in the College of Lake County Building-C auditorium in Grayslake. Representatives from law enforcement, local government, education, public health, the media, social services and the religious community will be on hand to field questions and give their views.

"The summit is to focus on violence and non-violence and raising the level of awareness on it at the county level," said Betty Houbion, co-chairman of the summit and public information officer for the Lake County Association for Home & Community Education, which is sponsoring the event.

Houbion said she is hoping for a large turnout for the summit, noting that the auditorium has capacity for more than 400 people.

Houbion said recent problems with youth violence in the schools have been well documented and will be one of the topics of discussion. But the summit will also focus on other issues, such as domestic violence, carjackings, shootings and assaults, and even just generally uncivil behavior.

"We want to raise the level of dialogue (on the subject of violence) in our county," Houbion said. "We want participants to go away and continue the dialogue. We also want them to make a personal commitment to take some kind of action to minimize violence."

Lake Circuit Court Judge Barbara Gilleran-Johnson will moderate the summit along with Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson.

Officials from various fields will give brief statements and try to stimulate discussion with challenging questions. They include: Lake County Board member Audrey Nixon; Mundelein Police Chief Raymond Rose; Louise Loud, Lake County Juvenile Probation and Court Services director; Alfred Clark, director of Safety and Transportation, North Chicago High School District 187; Eleanor Bryant, nurse consultant, Lake County Department of Public Health; Jon Drummond, managing editor of the News-Sun; Chuck Hutchcraft, Friends Society; and Douglas Weber, president of the United Way of Lake County.

Although officials will be there to answer questions, Houbion said they want to get as much audience participation as possible.

"It's not a panel discussion. It truly is a dialogue," she said. "It's grassroots. We want people to come and exchange opinions."

CLC NOTES

Chicago Jazz Orchestra

The Chicago Metropolitan Jazz Orchestra and the College of Lake County Jazz Ensemble will present an evening of big band jazz music on Nov. 21. The concert will begin at 7 p.m. in the Mainstage Theatre of the Performing Arts Building on the Grayslake Campus.

The 18-member Chicago band is the newest professional big band in the Chicagoland area. The concert will feature the music of Kenton, Base, Herman and Rich. Tickets are $3 for CLC students and alumni and $4 for the general public. For tickets, call 543-2300. Visa, MasterCard, Discover and American Express are accepted.

Ill. Gerontological Chapter grants

Grants from several service organizations will help a group of gerontological nurses in Lake County to form the Northern Illinois Chapter of the National Gerontological Nursing Association in celebration of the International Year of the Older Adult

The group is spearheaded by the College of Lake County nursing faculty members Tana Durnbaugh and Joanne Dude. They received grants from the CLC Foundation, Lake Forest Hospital Community Outreach and Education Department, and Victory Hospital Foundation to develop and support the educational goals of the chapter.

"Older adults are the largest group of health care consumers in Lake County, and we seek to effectively improve their care and well-being," said Durnbaugh. "Currently, we have more than 40 facilities that provide health care programs for older adults, and nurses are the primary caregivers in these agencies. We hope that the chapter will serve as a welcoming place for nurses to exchange ideas."

For more information about the chapter, call Durnbaugh at 543-2874.

VA: Plan for merger with Great Lakes Hospital pitched to Feds cost of more than $100 million—and yet the recommended option by the VA is to close the facility, the letter states.

"It seems to us that it would be a much better use of taxpayers' dollars to use the facility that was recently upgraded, rather than close it and then build the navy a new hospital less than a mile away," the letter states.

Melissa Merz, spokeswoman for Durbin's office, said the senator talked to medical professionals when he visited the North Chicago VA to speak to veterans last month.

'We're confident the new plan will assure veterans in the Chicagoland area of our future capacity to care for them.'

George Segalis
Crane's spokeman

She said Durbin learned during the visit that the Navy was planning to spend millions of dollars to renovate the hospital at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center and he thought there might be an opportunity to consolidate those services at the North Chicago VA.

"We have an opportunity to use an existing, state-of-the-art facility to continue to serve both veterans and naval personnel and their families at North Chicago," Durbin said in a statement.

Merz said the senator believes the merger of the two hospitals is something that deserves serious consideration. "We think it just makes common sense," she said.

George Segalis, a spokesman for Crane's office, said consolidating services of the North Chicago VA with the Great Lakes hospital will allow it to continue to provide needed medical care for area veterans while providing a cost savings.

"We think this proposal, in particular, will save a significant amount of money, but at the time, benefit veterans in Lake, McHenry and parts of Cook County," said Segalis.

"The congressman feels it is unfortunate this wasn't considered as an option when the VA made its recommendation to close the North Chicago VA. We're confident the new plan will assure veterans in the Chicagoland area of our future capacity to care for them."

Newell said at this point in the process it's too early to comment on the merits of the proposal to consolidate medical services at North Chicago with the Great Lakes Navy hospital.

He said the Navy is just in the beginning stages of doing the legwork for renovation plans of the Navy hospital.

"Certainly part of the legwork is looking at other facilities and seeing if there's an option of sharing resources," Newell said. Since the North Chicago hospital is less than one half mile away, he said it's one of the facilities the Navy will be exploring to see what might be available.

Doug Shouse, spokesman for the North Chicago VA, said the North Chicago VA and Great Lakes Naval Training Center are two federal facilities working pretty close to each other and "it would seem logical if they could work together for the common good it's something we should do."

"It would make logical sense to explore that feasibility and that is what the Illinois delegation is requesting they (the VA) do," said Shouse. "There might be a way of saving costs by two facilities working together, but that's something that still has to be determined."

SCAM: Seniors being targeted on phone by get-rich-quick scheme

Further investigation and information revealed the address the money was to be sent to was a "mail drop," similar to a post office box. The mail drops are apparently being used by the scam artists to collect the money.

"We contacted the Toronto Police to see if they were aware of it," Randall said. "They are aware of it. The police chief (in Toronto) has created a special unit to investigate it because of the large number of complaints."

Randall said the Metro-Toronto Police are investigating "hundreds of cases" of people from throughout the United States and Canada who have lost money through the sweepstakes scam. The Metro-Toronto Police said the majority of the victims have been senior citizens.

To his knowledge, Randall said the Libertyville senior was the first Lake County resident to be targeted by the sweepstakes scam but there may be other county residents they don't know about.

"This is the first we've heard about it. What we're concerned about is are there any other victims out there that we're unaware of and we want to make people aware so they don't become victims of the scam."

Del Re urged everyone to be aware of the existence of these scams, especially when they are asked to provide money in advance. Anyone with questions about the legitimacy of a sweepstakes or contest may contact the Lake County Sheriff's Office Criminal Investigation Division at 360-5850.

RACE: Publishing heir jumps in Republican race for Porter spot

ing the federal tax system in some areas, such as reducing or eliminating the capital gains and the inheritance or "death" tax.

"I think people are looking for someone who is fiscally responsible and fiscally conservative," she said.

Donnelley joins an already crowded field of challengers for the congressional seat. Those who have been mentioned as potential candidates on the Republican ticket are Andrew Hockberg of Highland Park, the former CEO of Sportmart; Mark Kirk of Kenilworth, a former aide to congressman Porter; and John Stewart, a professional wrestler from Deerfield.

Donnelley: 10th District race should be like shark fight for 30-year-old.

Two candidates have already announced on the Democratic ticket: State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash of Deerfield and Glencoe attorney Chris Cohen.

NEWPORT TOWNSHIP ASSESSMENT ROLL FOR 1999

OFFICIAL ASSESSMENT LIST:
This publication is the official notice to property owners of the 1999 assessment changes in the Township of Newport. These 1999 assessments, as published, are those determined by the Assessor and/or the Chief County Assessment Office.
It is the duty of the Assessor to assess all taxable property on a uniform basis of valuation so that the assessed values of the various properties are a just and equal assessment of such properties according to law.
The assessment roll recording the values of property determines only the distribution of the total tax load among the individual property owners. The Township Assessor and/or the Chief County Assessment Office has no control over the amount of taxes levied, nor the public expenditures. The amount of these assessed values (subject to State equalization), minus applicable exemptions, multiplied by the established tax rate, determines the amount of your tax bill. The Assessor does not make the rate; he merely finds the value of your property.

EQUALIZATION
The following printed assessments, as well as all other assessments in the township, are at 33.33% of market value, having been equalized to that level by the Chief County Assessment Office, who has applied a factor of 1.0351 to all values except those assessed under the provisions of Chapter 35 (ILCS), Act 200, Secs. 10-110 through 10-140, 10-155, and 10-170 through 10-200. Application of the township equalization factor represents a 3.51% increase in assessments.
To determine the market value of your property, divide the total assessed value by 0.3333. If it appears that the resulting number is higher than the market value of the property, you may be over-assessed. If the resulting number is less than your opinion of market value, the assessment may be low.

ARRANGEMENT OF LIST
If you live in an incorporated area (city or village), your property is listed under the name of your city or village, which will be in alphabetical order. Each street within the city or village is also arranged in alphabetical order. Property owners living on the same street will be listed beginning with vacant or improved property that has no street number, followed by property with street numbers listed in numerical order.
If you live in an unincorporated area, the property is listed alphabetically by post office and street name. Then, property without street numbers will be listed first, followed by numbered properties in numerical order.
Questions regarding the grid system used in determining address numbers should be directed to the Lake County Map Services Department, whose telephone number is 360-6373. Please do not call this number with questions regarding your assessment.

INFORMATION ON ASSESSMENTS
Any property owner who has any question in regard to the assessment of their property should call the local Township Assessor's office. This publication does not reflect reductions for Homestead Limited Exemptions, Senior Homestead Exemptions, Senior Tax Freeze Homestead Exemptions, Homestead Improvement Exemptions or Disabled Veteran's Exemptions. The aforementioned exemptions are not removed from the assessment until the time of billing. You will see them removed on your tax bill.
Note that the value which appears is a total assessed value for the property. All values are subject to a State equalization factor certified to the County Clerk by the Illinois Department of Revenue. Any property owner who objects to the amount of their assessment should file a complaint, in writing, with the Board of Review on or before December 20, 1999. Complaints must be on the prescribed form and can be obtained by telephoning 360-6609, or by written request to the Chief County Assessment Office, 18 North County Street, Waukegan, IL 60085-4335. Forms are also available on the internet at www.co.lake.il.us/assessor.

1999 Lakeland Boys Basketball Preview

Information compiled by Rob Backus, John Phelps, and Steve Peterson. Photos by Sandy Bressner.

It's time to 'Hoop' it up once again! Will it be a repeat dream season for the Warren Blue Devils, the Class AA runner-up from a year ago? Well, a host of area teams will be looking to step into the spotlight as the quest for conference and state titles take center stage beginning in the next week or so. As usual, the area is not lacking when it comes to premier scoring threats. Case in point-Antioch's Don Lackey (14 ppg), Mundelein's Graham Beatty (10 ppg, 10 rpg), Grant's Wayne Bosworth (17 ppg), and Grayslake big man Eric Brauer (12 ppg) are just a few names that definitely come to mind.

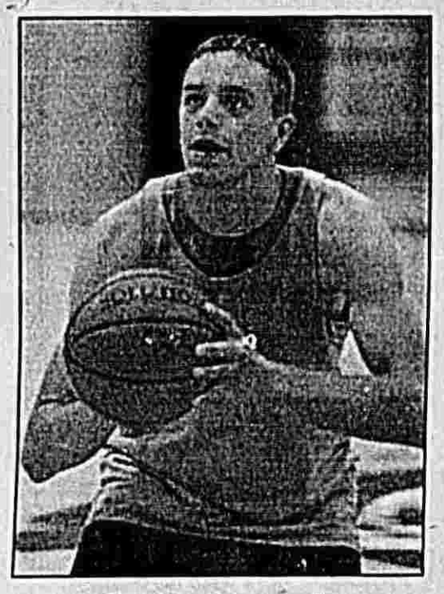

However you slice it, there should be a lot of parity on the hardwood as we embark on the final season of the century.

Our preview section includes a look at the boys and girls Preseason Players of The Year, team-by-team capsules, players to be on the lookout for, and a predicted finish of in the Lakeland-Area teams.

(Editor's Note: Turn to the sports section of the newspaper the next two weeks for more in-depth coverage of teams in your area.)

PRESEASON PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Senior forward Don Lackey (14 ppg)

Sports Editor

This past football season, quarterback Don Lackey became Antioch High's all-time leader with over 3,000 yards passing. Well, the 6-5 senior forward is looking to make equally effective waves on the hardwood this season, and chances are, he will.

Lackey was one of the area's leading scorers with his 14 points per game clip. Don't look for that to change this season. In fact, it will probably escalate.

"Don has a tremendous amount of talent," said head coach Jeff Dresser. "It's also a bonus when you have a guy that's 6-5 and you can move him around. He's very versatile."

There are several pure shooters in the area but the key to Lackey's success is perhaps is all-around game.

According to Dresser, Lackey has all of the tools.

"He jumps well, shoots well, and is very hard to distract. We just need to work on his post play a little more. But he definitely brings a lot to the table."

The Sequoits, who finished 14-14 overall and 5-9 in the North Suburban a year ago, lost to eventual Class AA State runnerup Warren in the regionals finals.

"I thought we had a very respectable season last year," added Dresser. "We have to play good defense right off the bat and be ready to play every night. Even if we have a bad night offensively, a good, sound defense will usually keep you in a lot of ballgames."

Sounds like Antioch will definitely be in a lot of ballgames, especially with the sharp-shooting Lackey on the floor.

BASKETBALL CAPSULES

North Suburban

Antioch

Last year: 14-14, 5-9 (NSC)
Coach: Jeff Dresser
Key players: F Don Lackey, 6-4, Sr; G Brandon Clutts, 6-1, Sr; G/F Eric White, 6-3, Jr; G/F Luke Denoma, 6-0, Sr; G Adam Durham, 6-2, Jr.
Outlook: Last year was an up-and-down season for Antioch. But that could change drastically this year as we could quite possibly find the North Suburban Conference trophy located off Rte. 173 and 45. The Sequoits, despite losing six seniors, have four returning starters back on a team that went 14-14. Antioch will be a little smaller, with 6-7 Matt Koss, 6-5 Brian Soldano graduated.

But speed is a good thing and will be of the essence with 6-5 senior forward Don Lackey (15 ppg, 7 rpg) leading the stampede. Lackey can shoot from the perimeter as well as drive into the paint at any given moment. Senior guard Brandon Clutts (6-1) and junior guard Eric White (6-3) will definitely add major scoring contributions and though no starting lineups are yet etched in stone, 6-5 sophomore Josh Bonner could fill some of the holes left by Koss and Soldano.

Libertyville

Last year: 8-17,-5-9 (NSC)
Coach: Jim Goodwin (1st year)
Key players: F Matt Schaefer, 6-4, Jr; G Steve Miksta, 6-3, Sr; G Kurt Stuart, 5-11, Sr; F Joe Lotysz, 6-3, Sr; F Jake Voigt, 6-2, Sr.
Outlook: The Wildcats will certainly improve upon a year in which they went 8-17 as Head Coach Jim Goodwin will look to replace coaching legend Max Sanders. The strenght of this team is the perimeter shooting and depth which will look to counter their lack of size and rebounding. They will also have to improve upon their interior defense if they look to compete in the NSC.

Mundelein

Last year: 22-8, 8-6 (T-3rd NSC)
Coach: Perry Wilhelm
Key players: C Graham Beatty, 6-8, Jr; G Brian Lueders, 6-1, Sr; F Nick Wismer, 6-2, Sr.
Outlook: The Mustangs have lost four starters from last year's 22-8 squad but will attempt to rise above their youth and inexperience by using their tremendous size to control the paint and crash the boards especially with 6-8 junior C Graham Beatty.

Warren

Last year: 28-5, 12-2 (T-1st NSC)
Coach: Chuck Ramsey (6th year)
Key players: G Nate Alden, 5-11, Sr; G Steve Davis, 5-9, Sr; F Mark Klemm, 6-4, Jr; F Russ Schaibly, 6-3 Jr.
Outlook: The Blue Devils have lost most of their state runner-up team last year but will counter that with good size, good balance, and great depth. The Blue Devils always play sound defense under Head Coach Chuck Ramsey and will be a force inside as the four returning players from last year's team will look to jell with the 22-2 sophomore team.

ESCC

Carmel

Last year: 11-15 (6-7 ESCC)
Coach: Herb Brin
Key players: F Andy Williams, 6-2, Sr; F/G Jason Johnson, 5-11, Sr; F/C John Poletto, 6-4, So; F Jeremy Schmidt, 6-0, Sr; G James Janikowski, 6-2, Sr.
Outlook: Things are looking up for the Corsairs as they will almost certainly improve upon last year's 11-15 record. They have their most athletic team since 1992 which will allow them to run the fast break effectively as well as play sound defense. They also have good depth and perimeter shooting to try and counter their lack of big men to crash the boards.

Fox Valley

Grayslake

Last year: 23-6, (16-2, 1st in FVC)
Coach: Greg Groth (15th year)
Key players: F Eric Brauer, 6-6, Sr; G David Delger, 6-0, Sr; G Blake Larson, 6-0, Sr; G Liam McCluskey, 6-1, Sr; F Adolfo Martinez, 6-3, Sr; G Corey Bowers, 6-0, Sr.
Outlook: The Rams had an incredible season last year in claiming their second regional and third Fox Valley crown over the last six years. Grayslake also sported a 15-game winning streak during the course of the season. Key players in Steve Zwolfer, Alex Frank, Mike Beverley, and Chris Kingma have departed but not to fear-there are seven returning letterman, including senior big man Eric Brauer (6-6), who will definitely be the go-to guy inside as he looks to improve on his 12 point, six rebound per game average from last year. Playmakers David Delger and Corey Bowers represent one of the more solid backcourts in the area. They will run the floor, as well as the show.

Other key returning players, such as Austin Lee (5-9), Liam McCluskey (6-1), and Blake Larson (6-0)-just to name a few-will add to the Rams' speed as well as depth. Look for these guys to repeat as FVC champs and who knows what may happen in March!

Independents:

Grant

Last year: 15-11
Coach: Tom Maple (25th year)
Key players: F Wayne Bosworth, 6-2, Sr; F Aaron Behm, 6-2, Sr; G Rick Baker, 6-0, Sr; G Terry Kloss, 6-0, Sr; F/G Eric Lemcke, 6-2, So; G Joe Schiller, 6-0, Sr; G Ryan Trenkle, 5-9, Sr.
Outlook: The Bulldogs will look to build on the success achieved from last year's 15-11 squad. And they have the talent to do it, with one of the area's most explosive scorer in senior forward Wayne Bosworth returning. Bosworth poured in 17 points, snared 4 rebounds, and dished out 4 assists last season, including a game-high 34 points in the Bulldogs loss to Deerfield in the regionals.

Brandon Borror, a 6-2 guard, and 6-1 guard Jermaine Roby, both graduated, provide some minor holes looking. Booror set a school-record by shooting 85% from the foul line.

But senior guards Rick Baker, Terry Kloss, and Joe Schiller can penetrate as well as shoot from the perimeter.

As a team, Grant set two school records, including free-throw shooting (73%) and turnovers (under 10 per game).

Round Lake

Last year: 2-26
Coach: Leroy Nordlund
Key players: G Albert Lozano, 5-10, sr.; Pt.-G Scott Mendralla, 6-0, sr.; F Robert Ezerski, 6-2, sr.
Outlook: Hopefully, there will be more peaks than valley's this year. The Panthers lost five players to graduation, including the likes of 6-3 center Derek Williams (7 ppg, 5 rpg). But a solid corp of seniors are ready to step up in an effort to improve on the Panthers 2-26 season a year ago. The go-to guy will likely be 5-10 sharp-shooting guard Albert Lozano (12 ppg), the reinging team MVP. Senior point-guard Scott Mendralla (6 pppg) will run the show, while forward Robert Ezerski, who provided coach Nordlund with some quality minutes last year, should figure prominently into the scoring production as well.

Wauconda

Coach: Scott Williams (2nd year)
Key players: G Matt Jensen, 6-1, Sr; G Bobby Sena, 5-9, Sr; G Kurt Kubicek, 5-10, Sr; G/F Chris Paddock, 6-4, Sr; G/F Jon White, 6-2, Sr.
Outlook: The Bulldogs will look to gain a little respect heading into the final season as an independent as next year, it's into the mighty North Suburban. It will be a challenge, with one of the area's post players in 6-6 Billy Yundt having graduated. But Wauconda, which finished 9-17 last season, has seven returning seniors. The team will be smaller, but guards Matt Jensen (6-1) and Chris Paddock (6-4), just to name a few, both can penetrate and push the ball up the court.

Senior forward/center Chris Paddock should fill holes in the middle left by the departed Yundt. Senior guard Kurt Kubicek (5-10) was one of the area's best three-point shooters and should light it up again this year from the perimeter.

1999 Lakeland Girls Basketball Preview

Several teams lost key players but there is a host of upcoming talent more than capable of filling the holes.

The inside game will most likely take center stage, with three of the area's best post players in Grayslake's Jenny Wessel (6-4), Libertyville's Aubrey Smith (6-2), and Round Lake's Jenny Malueg (5-10) leading their respective teams. Both Libertyville and Warren, which tied for second in the always tough North Suburban, lost Allison Farrington and Lakeland Player of The Year Tiffany Kelver, respectively. But each has a solid nucleus of returning starters and should be right at the top of the NSC again this season.

Antioch will look to contend in the NSC, especially with junior guard Katianne Pechauer returning from an ACL (knee) injury that sidelined her for half of last season.

It promises to be another exciting season on the hardwood as we get ready to embrace the turn of the century. Who knows-fireworks are definitely going to be abundant come January 1, which could in turn, carry over into the infamous month we call 'March Madness."

Our preview section includes a look at the girls Preseason Player of The Year, team-by-team capsules, players to be on the lookout for, and a predicted finish of the Lakeland-Area teams.

PRESEASON PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Lady Rams ready to rock and roll in FVC behind Wessel

Sports Editor

Being more versatile is one of Grayslake center Jenny Wessel's biggest individual goals this season. Look out, Fox Valley Conference!

If things pick up where they left off from last year's dream season, or even furthermore carry over from a successful summer playing AAU ball, this is a no-brainer. Wessel should dominate the middle once again.

"But I'd like to get more versatile by shooting not only inside, but outside as well," the soft-spoken Wessel said. "I definitely got a lot stronger and got some valuable experience over the summer playing AAU ball."

Wessel's AAU team came within one game of playing in the nationals 'Sweet 16.'

Last season, Wessel, an all-area, all-conference, and honorable mention All-State honoree, averaged 18 points and 9 rebounds per game. She was also a force inside on defnese, blocking over 100 shots on the year.

"She's a tremendous player who has all of the tools," said head coach Mike Muldrow. "But one of her best qualities is that she isn't in the least bit selfish. She's a team-oriented player, and that's what we stress."

Wessel will be looking to guide the Lady Rams to a conference title. Last year, Grayslake finished 21-8 overall and third (13-5) in league play.

"We set our team goals yesterday and we definitely want to win conference and possibly a regional title," added Wessel. "Our attitude this season is that we 'refuse to lose.'"

Sounds like a winning, but more so, an accurate formula for Wessel and the Lady Rams.

And by the way, Wessel switched back to short socks to begin the season.

"So far, it's working pretty well," she noted.

BASKETBALL CAPSULES

North Suburban

Antioch

Last year: 8-18, 4-10 (T5 NSC)
Coach: Dave Woods (7th year)
Key players: F Margaret Fischer, 5-10, Sr; G Katianne Pechauer, 5-7, Jr; C Shelley Wolfgram, 6-1, Jr; G Bethany Shore, 5-5, Jr; F Justine Sinkus, 5-9, Jr.
Outlook: The Lady Sequoits could have folded the tent during its 8-18 campaign a year ago. But head coach Dave Woods and his squad will have no reason for even thinking that this season. For starters, Antioch lost only three seniors to graduation. Second, Katianne Pechauer, the 5-7 junior playmaking point-guard, is back after missing half of last season with an ACL (knee).

"We're really excited about her returning," noted Woods. "She's got all-conference written all over her."

A solid returning corp of seniors, led by senior forwards Jourdan Phillips (5-9) and Margaret Fischer (5-10) should provide rebounding and a strong inside game. Junior Justine Sinkus, a 5-9 forward who led the sophomores with 6 rebounds per contest a year ago, can also light it up from three-point range.

"If we stay healthy and away from injuries, we definitely will look towards taking the program to the next level," added Woods.

Sounds like a safe bet!

Libertyville

Last year: 22-8, 11-3 (T-2nd NSC)
Coach: Bill Mix (1st year)
Key players: C Aubrey Smith, 6-2, Sr; G/F Diana Steplyk, 5-11, Jr; G Arin Yarc, 5-6, Jr; F Molly Meredith, 5-9, Sr; F/C Lizzie Aldridge, 5-11, Jr.
Outlook: The Wildcats will be returning three starters from last year's club and Arin Yarc who would have started last year but was sidelined by a knee injury.Athleticism is the key for Libertyville as they are quick and agile and they also play tough defense. While they don't have the experience of Stevenson they will use their skill to compete with the Patriots as well as Warren for the NSC title.

Mundelein

Last year: 15-11, 7-7 (NSC)
Coach: Brian Evans
Key players: G Shannon Jung, 5-4, Jr; G Catherine Chresanthakes, 5-8, Jr; G Katy Lacio, 5-6, Sr; F Kayla Kully, 5-8, Sr.
Outlook: The Mustangs took a hit after the volleyball members on their team quit to play club volleyball but will still look to improve uponm last year's 15-11 record. Quickness and ball-handling are the strength on this team due to their lack of size. Their quickness will also allow them to play sound team defense. The team worked over the summer on their perimeter shooting so look for that to be a factor as well as getting a balanced scoring attack.

Warren

Last year: -25-6 (11-3 T2nd NSC)
Coach: John Stanczykiewicz (1st year)
Key players: C Christy Moo, 6-2, Jr; F Sharnell Smith, 5-11, Sr; G Octavia Bonds, 5-4, Sr; F Amy Peters, 6-1, Fr.
Outlook: The Blue Devils will find scoring a challenge early in the season as they lost their three leading scorers from last year's 25-6 club. However, they are a very strong defensive team with a large front line in 6-1 C Chrisy Moo, 6-1 F Amy Peters, and 5-11 F Sharnell Smith. They will have a balanced scoring attack with this very young team.

ESCC

Carmel

Last year: 16-10, 5-5 (ESCC)
Coach: John Ryan
Key players: F/G Kelly Krombach, 5-8, Sr; C/F Lisa Yellin, 5-10, Sr; F/G Samantha Rinella, 5-8, Jr; G Anne Borling, 5-7, Sr.
Outlook: The Corsairs will look to overcome the loss of four starters from last year's 16-10 club with a very balanced attack led by three-year starting senior captain Kelly Krombach. Carmel lacks size but has speed and athleticism to go along with a strong defense to contend for the ESCC title.

Fox Valley

Grayslake

Last year: 21-8 overall, 13-5 FVC (3rd)
Coach: Mike Muldrow (2nd year)
Key players: G Carie Pasenelli, 5-7, Sr; G Carrie Hovik, 5-8, Sr; C/F Jenny Wessel, 6-4, Sr; F/C Megan Francis, 5-11, So; G/F Amy Francis, 5-9, Sr.
Outlook: All of the pieces of the puzzle appear to be in place for the Lady Rams drive towards a Fox Valley Conference title.

Grayslake, which finished 21-8 overall and 13-5 (3rd place) in the FVC last season, has four-year varsity starter Jenny Wessel back. Wessel, who averaged 18 points, 9 rebounds, and a shade under four blocks as a junior, is a four-year varsity starter that looks to lead Grayslake to the promised land.

And if Wessel is off her game, Grayslake boasts one of the best backcourts in the area in senior guards Carie Pasenelli (5-7) and Carrie Hovik (5-8). Both can penetrate and shoot the three-ball.

Defense will be a trademark, though. "We stress defense and really want to pressure the ball more," said head coach Mike Muldrow.

Depth will also be a key ingredient for the Lady Rams, who have five seniors returning as well as a host of solid newcomers.

Independents:

Grant

Last year: 10-19
Coach: Tom Oeffling (1st year)
Key players: G/F Teri La Roche, 5-8, Sr; G Amie Smit, 5-8, Sr; F/C Crystal Geething, 5-8, Sr; G/F Michelle Jager, 5-8, Sr; F Lauren Johnson, 5-9, Sr; C Stephanie Cripps, 6-0, Sr.
Outlook: The Lady Bulldogs will finally be healthy as they look to improve on last year's 10-19 record. Floor leader, senior Teri La Roche, is a 5-9 returning senior guard who is almost fully recovered from a torn ACL (knee) injury sustained last spring. Senior post-player Stephanie Cripps (6-0) is also ready to go after missing most of last season with a back injury.

La Roche can penetrate and light it up from the outside while Cripps should dominate with inside scoring and rebounding.

Other key returning players include 5-8 guard Amie Smit, who will run the offense, especially in transition, and Crystal Geething, a 5-8 rugged and solid player who will see time at both the guard and forward positions.

Assuming everyone stays healthy, second-year head coach Tom Oeffling has the nucleus and experience that should make Grant very competetive in its last year as an independent.

Round Lake

Last year: 20-6
Coach: Gary Edge (14th year)
Key players: F/C Jenny Malueg, 5-10, Sr; F Joanne Message, 5-9, Sr; G Stacey Peterson 5-6, Sr; G Gina Spear, 5-4, Sr
Outlook: Things look promising for Round Lake as it looks to duplicate on one of its best season's in recent history. The Lady Panthers finished 20-6, including tournament titles at the Woodstock Christmas and Spirit of The Northwest tourney's.

All-county recipient Jenny Malueg is one of the premier post-players, averaging 9 points per contest as a junior. Her scoring, leadership, and rebounding will be key if Round Lake want to go out with a bang before heading to the NSC in Y2K.

Head coach Gary Edge is also optimistic about additional key returning players, senior 5-9 forward Joanne Message (6 ppg) and 5-6 senior guard Stacey Peterson. Senior guard Gina Spear (5-4) will also be expected to turn it up a knotch.

"Last year will be difficult to duplicate, but we have several players stepping to the forefront," noted Edge.

Wauconda

Last year: 5-20
Coach: Tim Bartusch (1st year)
Key players: F/C Amy Lunsmann, 5-11, Sr; G Jodie Merganthaler, 5-7, Jr; F Cheryl Swanson, 5-8, Sr; G Jaime Johnson, 5-6, Sr;
Outlook: Quickness and a sound work ethic are the key ingredients if the Lady Bulldogs are going to experience success this season.

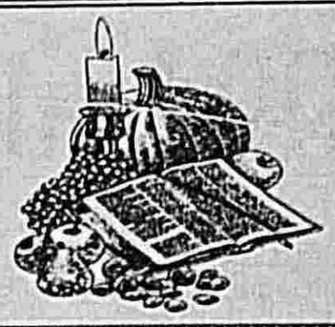

First-year coach Tim Bartusch has three solid returning starters back in fowards Amy Lunsmann and Cheryl Swanson, and guard Jamie Johnson.

Juniors looking to step up include 5-8 forward Melissa King, 5-4 guard Tara Baker, 5-4 guard Ingrid Krause, and 5-7 guard Jodie Merganthaler. All should add scoring punch as well as depth.

The Bulldogs were mediocre in field-goal shooting percentage last year, but Bartusch thinks that will be different this season.

"It's unbelievable the effort these girls have put in. They really worked hard over the summer with their shooting as well as in the early practices. It should be an interesting and fun year."

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I am writing to you about a problem I am having in the workplace. This is my first corporate job after having worked in retail for 2 years out of high school. I work for a large company, but am in rather close quarters with 2 other co-workers. When I first started working here 3 months ago, they treated me real well and we got along great. Recently, I noticed that every time I get a telephone call from my mom, friends, or boyfriend they immediately become standoffish and start giving me the cold shoulder. I think that they are totally jealous that I have a social life. I can't help it if I get calls, but when they start to ignore me or whisper things behind my back they make me feel very uncomfortable and I feel as though I should quit this place. I really like my job and the other people in the company, but don't know if I can continue on with being in these close quarters and having to deal with their attitudes. I was thinking of going and talking to my Department Manager or the Personnel Department. What do you think I should do? M.G. - Round Lake

A: By the sound of your letter, you must get a lot of telephone calls. You need to make a decision. Is your social life interfering with your work or is your work interfering with your social life? You said that you can't help it if you get calls from your mom, friends, or boyfriend, but the truth is yes, you can! I am sure that the reason you are getting the "cold shoulder" is due to the personal calls. To blame your co-workers attitudes on jealousy to the fact that you have a social life is most likely you flattering yourself. It is both inappropriate and grounds for termination to be accepting or receiving personal tasks you were hired to do. Personal telephone calls and your social life is not among the job description. To go directly to your boss or the Personnel Department and tell them this story may make you look foolish and cause further attention to your problem. If you want these calls to stop, you simply tell these callers that you cannot accept personal calls at work and that you risk getting in trouble if they continue. You personally need to take responsibility for this one. Tell them that you will talk to them after work hours unless it is an emergency. The change that you make will most likely be noticed by these co-workers and the situation may straighten itself out. If this doesn't work, may I suggest that perhaps you are not ready for the corporate world.

Pet OF THE WEEK

BUGS & SHADOW

The dog on the right is an Australian Shepherd & Collie mix. I found him on 6-16-99 and I thought someone reading your paper would recognize him. I call him Shadow as he follows me all around; he is the dearest and sweetest dog. The other dog, Bugs, a lab & golden retriever mix is mine who is equally as sweet.

Mark Cook sells only quality plants

When Joyce Kilmer said "Only God can make a tree," he should have added, "only someone knowledgeable can keep it growing."

At the Mark Cook Garden Center, located on two acres of sales space, in the middle of Lake Zurich's revitalization area, at 101 E. Main St, they know what they are doing and they will be most pleased to impart that knowledge to you.

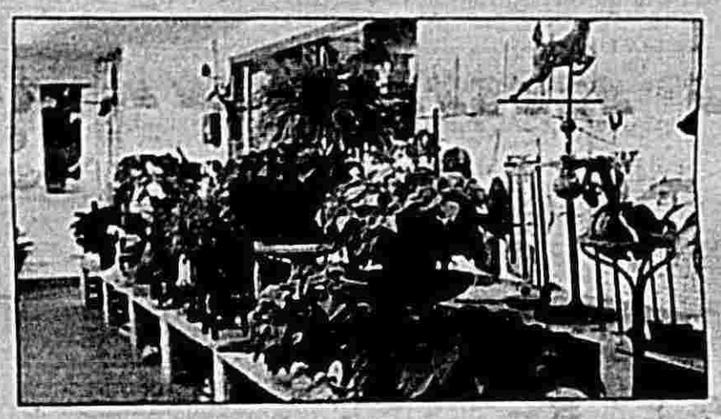

Owner Mark Cook, who has been in the nursery business in Lake Zurich for 14 years, and has been growing and selling beautiful plants for 24, and his well-trained staff, grow all their nursery stock in Woodstock, insuring quality plants for gracious outdoor living.

Cook features trees, shrubs, annuals, perennials, garden accents such as bird feeders, bird baths, statuary, fountains and other natural stone products. At Cook Gardens, landscaping contracting is available, or you can buy your nursery needs and plant them yourself with the staff at Cook Gardens giving you all the professional advice you need to grow a healthy garden filled with the hardy plants.

Right now all the nursery stock at Cook Gardens is on sale for 30 to 50 percent off the regular low price.

With the holiday season fast approaching, Cook Gardens is the place to shop for a fresh Christmas tree or custom made Christmas wreaths.

Cook Gardens is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday; from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday. Call (847)438-2120 for more information.

Two Christmas shows open at Apple Holler

Ring in the Christmas season with two delightful Christmas shows at Apple Holler. Country Christmas Show runs through Dec. 22 at the Red Barn Theatre. While Elves on the Shelves will entertain children every Saturday and Sunday in December.

Country Christmas Show reprises Apple Holler's most popular musical, with its medley of Christmas songs blended with skits, comedy and live piano accompaniment. New songs and sketches are added to the show this year for a fresh interpretation of this well-loved musical revue.

Apple Holler's Country Christmas Show is presented as dinner or luncheon theatre. The price of $29.95 includes Wisconsin wine and cheese, full-course meal, and the musical revue. To attend the play only is $15.

Performance dates are every Friday and Saturday night and some Sunday nights from Nov. 27 through Dec. 19, with wine and cheese at 7:30 p.m., dinner at 8:00, and show time at 9 p.m. Luncheon performances are scheduled for most weekdays. Other dates throughout the run may be added. All performances are by reservation only. Call (262) 886-8500 for further information, to inquire about show dates, or to make reservations.

Elves on the Shelves is an original children's musical show, written and conceived by Phyllis Mount. It opens Saturday, Nov. 27 with a 10 a.m. show, and is performed every Saturday at 10 a.m. and every Sunday at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 4 through 19. The whole family will enjoy the story of Santa's elves helping children be kind and good as they get ready for Christmas.

The admission price of $5 includes warm apple cider and cookie, a hay wagon ride through the apple orchard, and a surprise gift for each child. Call (262) 886-8500 to reserve a place to attend Elves on the Shelves. Tickets purchased before Nov. 24 are only $4.

WSOCC to perform Handel's Messiah

Houses are being brightened by lights, trees are being decorated and the sounds of the holiday season have begun to ring. The Waukegan Symphony Orchestra and Concert Chorus are celebrating the upcoming holidays with a performance of Handel's Messiah. This full length musical masterpiece will be performed on Sun., Dec. 12 at 4:00 p.m. in the Orlin D. Trapp Auditorium in the Waukegan High School.

This exceptional performance is conducted by Mr. Thomas Tobin, Music Director of the Waukegan Concert Chorus. Tobin brings a wealth of talent as conductor of the concert. Not only does he teach music in the Evanston school system, but he is a professional vocalist singing throughout Chicago. His Master of Music degree in Choral Conducting was earned from the University of Cincinnati College Conservatory of Music. Featured soloists for the performance include Kimberly E. Jones, Soprano, Ina Allen, Mezzo Soprano, Mark Meier, Tenor and David DuBois, Baritone.

Don your warm apparel and head over to the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra and Concert Chorus's performance of Handel's Messiah on Dec. 12 at 4:00 p.m. in the Orlin D. Trapp Auditorium in the Waukegan High School, 2325 Brookside Ave., Waukegan.

Tickets are $12 for adults and $10 for students, seniors and military. Group discounts are available. Tickets can be purchased by calling 360-4740, at the door or on the Web at www.ticketweb.com.

Super Wash means super clean

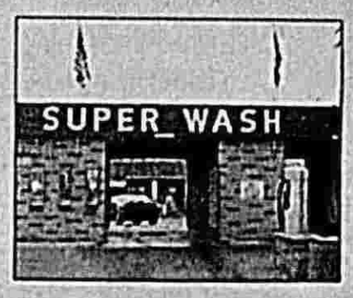

Besides driving the cleanest vehicles in town, patrons of the Super Wash car and van wash, located on the corner of Rollins Rd. and Washington St., across from the Dog 'N Suds, in Ingleside, now have the chance to win cash, tokens, and vacation get-aways.

It's easy, the next time you are looking for an environmental friendly car wash, 100 percent EPA approved, go to Super Wash and register for the truck drawing.

It seems cleanliness is contagious at Super Wash since it's the cleanest place in town, turning out the cleanest cars, vans and pick-up trucks in town.

"Your cars will never get water spots, as long as we keep using clean and pure water that comes pure and spotless from filters through an osmosis machine."

Dirt and grime on vehicles is disposed of through an environmentally appealing process. Fourteen gallons of soiled water from each car wash is piped into water treatment facilities designed to protect the environment instead of running into it or storm drains.

Super Wash offers two automatic drive-through and three do-it-yourself booths available for the type of cleaning the customers prefers. This is the touchless car wash system that also offers a spot free rinse.

Super Wash is open seven days a week, 24 hours a day with attendants on duty from 8 a.m. to 5 p .m. Call (847) 587-9507 for more information.

Kathy A. Marcus, owner of Time & Treasures Gift Shop & Gallery, Inc., celebrates the anniversary of her first full year of business, with an open house and gift drawing on December 7th. Even though her store is not in a major shopping area, the store has earned the support of the community by her beautiful selection of gifts, arts, and collectibles. Many of the customers are delighted with the store's charm and the personal attention they get from the owner. Time & Treasures represents many fine brands, such as; Armani, Fenton, Howard Miller, Edna Hibel, Windsor Bears, Willet Shoes, to name a few. The store is worth the trip, so make it one of your holiday's shopping destination.

On December 7th, light refreshments will be served throughout the day; so be sure to stop in the stores and register for a gift drawing of a large holiday bear at 6:00 P.M. (Winner will be notified).

Keep UL's operation decoration campaign in mind when decorating for the holidays

Decorations can be pleasing to look at, as well as beautiful accents in your home for the holiday season when used properly. However, if decorating your home results in accidental fire or personal injury to you or your loved ones it can certainly cast a dark shadow on your holiday merriment. Electrical decorations such as light strings, animated ornaments and figures should be used and displayed with the utmost care.

According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), more than 1,50(people made emergency room visits last holiday season due to electrical decoratio mishaps. Once again this holiday season, Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL), an inde pendent, not-for-profit product safety testing and certification organization, in coopera tion with the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), a private, nonprofit fire safet advocate group, is sponsoring its annual "Operation Decoration" campaign, aimed a helping promote holiday decorating safety.

The safety professionals at UL and the NFPA offer the following tips and precaution: when decorating your home this holiday season:

•If purchasing live, cut trees or greens, carefully inspect the needles. If they're brow or break easily, the greenery isn't fresh and poses a greater fire risk. When you take you tree home, put it in a sturdy, non-tip stand and keep it filled with water at all times.

•If your family prefers decorating with artificial trees or greens, purchase those tha are flame retardant. The product packaging will indicate if the branches of your artificia tree or greens have been treated with flame retardant material. However, light strings and other electrical decorations should not be used on artificial trees or greens that have metal lic needles, leaves or branch coverings.

•Place your tree or greens at least three feet away from fireplaces, radiators and other heat sources. Also make sure the tree isn't blocking a doorway or other exit route.

•Use light strings and animated or electrical decorations that bear the UL Mark. The UL Mark on a product means that UL engineers have tested representative samples of the product for foreseeable safety hazards such as fire and electric shock.

A Hawaiian tan is close by

With the winter vacation season fast approaching, a local tanning salon has recreated an atmosphere filled with sunshine and the beautiful beaches of Hawaii to help people, who have a warm weather vacation destination, get ready .

Owner Vicki Carlson and her very professional staff at the Hawaiian Island Tropical Tan and Nail Salon, located at 34825 Wilson Rd. , at the corner of Rte. 134 and Wilson Rd., in Ingleside, use the best available tanning equipment and accessories, even if you are staying at home and just need to add a little color to your life.

All employees have completed the training certification of the Smart Tan Network, and all the tanning beds are maintained well beyond the manufacturer's recommendations. Here safety is as important as relaxation.

This is where you'll find the area's only indoor beach, while each tanning bed is located in a private room that affords cool and tranquil surroundings, plus a compact disc player, so customers can tan to the music of their favorite CD. Besides carrying a full-line of tanning lotions with tropical brand names. hair wraps are also available.

Hawaiian Island's full service nail salon, offering complete manicure and pedicure services, features OPI products as well as the Elegant Glass fiberglass system.

The tanning salon also carries Metabolife for everyone's dieting needs. Gift certificates for the comming holidays are also available.

On Dec. 20, Hawaiian Island will host its third annual Christmas party with donuts and coffee in the morning and appetizers plus served in the afternoon. All customers are invited to register for the special drawing.

Hawaiian Island Tropical Tan and Nail Salon is open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. Call (847)546-8600 for an appointment or more information.

Seniors deserve the Lilac Apartments

Many senior citizens are forced to live on a lower income. Now with the Lilac Apartments, Architect Don Erickson and Designer Pat Erickson have helped to create affordable senior housing that has the elegance and style they deserve.

The Lilac Apartments, which are in walking distance of shopping, restaurants, professional services and Metra and Pace public transportation, are located in a park-like setting near downtown Fox Lake.

This Georgian style red brick structure has an impressive two-story white column entry. and is landscaped with a picturesque fountain along a brick pathway shaded by a grove of trees. Inside, teal and mauve accents highlight the Queen Ann furniture found in the spacious lounges.

The building's design qualifies as handicapped accessible, while maintaining the aesthetic appeal and function necessary for seniors. The many common areas include multi-purpose lounges, a craft room, a laundry room and a sundeck, all meeting safety concerns with an extensive sprinkler system and secured hallways. The gathering areas are sparked with swirls of eye-appealing teal, mauve and lilac.. Residents have a choice of five apartment layouts ranging from 665 sq., ft, to 959 sq.. ft. Monthly rentals include heat and water. No endowments or entrance fees are required.

Because Lilac Apartments qualify for the Federal Affordable Housing Tax Credit Program, the rents will remain "affordable" by Federal guidlines for 30 years to those who qualify. For more information, call (847)587-8830.

Advantage Plus Account, a real deal

Another year has put us by, and those crazy folks at The First National Bank of McHenry are still at it. Some hot shot over there decided to add some new checking accounts to their product line—but catch this—it was towards the consumer's advantage. At first we thought somebody was dipping into the eggnog a little early, but these changes are truly spectacular.

They call it the Advantage Plus Account. It's a checking account designed specifically for household use, and it's loaded with all sorts of extra goodies. This account is the real deal. Besides giving consumers all the personally imprinted special member checks they need at no cost. They also toss in money orders, cashier's checks, notary service, traveler's checks, and Medallion Signature Guarantees all at no cost as well.

Then they pile on the goodies. They have contracted with over 3,000 hotels, motels, resorts, and lodging properties all across the United States and Canada to offer you 50 percent off the regular price. Think about it. You're in New Orleans at the French Quarter Suites Hotel painting your face for the Sugar Bowl. You really don't even care who wins the football game, but you do know those fans from Florida next to you paid full price. Let's then suppose you are pickpocketed by a Florida State linebacker while walking around the French Quarter. Have no fear, another great benefit is the Hot Line Credit Card Bureau of America, Payment Card Protection. Just call the toll-free number to report the loss, and all of your card issuers will be notified for you. Even better, you are covered for any liability for which the issuer holds you responsible. Since you are more than 50 miles from home, you can also take advantage of the emergency cash advance feature. Just pop into one of over 18,000 convenient Western Union locations and obtain up to $300 in cash to keep you going. Furthermore, we will help get you home by sending you an airline ticket. You will be invoiced within 30 days of your request only for the amount of the cash advance and/or cost of the airline ticket. No additional service charges apply.

There's so many more goodies included. Members can also take advantage of the Auto Trip Routing service. That's easy, too. Just tell them you are planning this big pilgrimage from Chicago to Selkirk, Manitoba to see Chuck, the concrete channel catfish, and they will send you a handsomely bound packet of color maps with the most direct or scenic route between here and there. They will also highlight points of interest along the way, so you don't miss the world's largest musky in Hayward, Wis.; the world's tallest aerial lift bridge in Duluth, Minn.; or the world's biggest Paul Bunyan in Bemidji, Minn. And there's so much more—Travelers Advantage, AutoVantage, ID Network Safety Service and Date Reminder Service are all available to members of the Advantage Plus Account. It would just take too long to explain all of the benefits.

As if you weren't saving enough money already they will even help you get more. Interest is calculated daily and paid monthly with your Advantage Plus Account. Now that's a money for money proposition.

Well, there it is, the Advantage Plus Checking Account. All this for only $7 per month membership fee ($4 if you are over 55). It's a deal. Talk to one of their customer service representatives soon.

Complete glass service at Nu-Diamond

The Nu-Diamond Glass Co., located at 39 S. Rte. 12 in Fox Lake, has been pleasing customers with its complete glass service for over 30 years. Owner Jim Moulton and his expert staff offer custom service designed to fill each and every individual client's needs.

Nu-Diamond replaces auto, residential and commercial glass.

Installation charges are included in the sale price. Nu-Diamond does room expanding mirrored walls and also installs shower doors, as well as storm windows and doors.

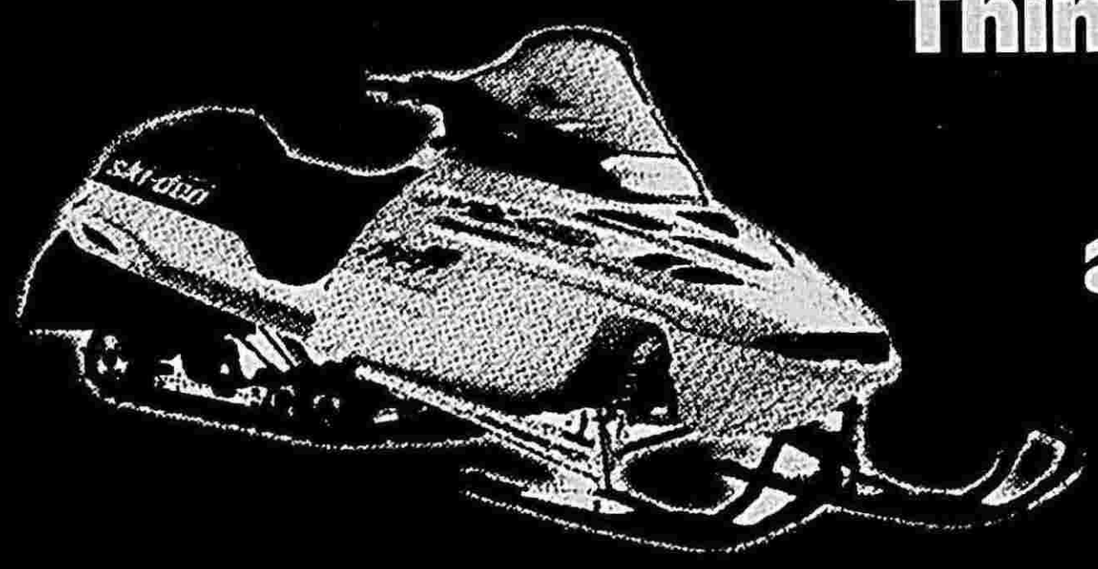

The custom art work that Nu-Diamond's artists do on glass pieces, using acid and sandblasting to create a variety of designs right on glass and mirrors of all descriptions, including glass for automobiles, is a unique service offered by Nu-Diamond, one done to customers' exact specifications.

With the majority of Moulton's staff in his employ for well over 12 years, clients can be certain they are dealing with knowledgeable and reliable people.

"We have worked so closely for so long that we almost feel like a family—a work family," says Moulton.

The Nu-Diamond Glass Co. is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday; Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.. The showroom is open on Sunday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. For an appointment or for more information on Nu-Diamond Glass, call (847)587-2226.

Campaign reminds consumers of the importance of toy safety during the holiday

One of the best things about the holiday season is the smiles on the faces of tiny tots when they see the year's new toys. Toys are introduced to children when they are infants and are a large part of their lives into adolescence. There's nothing better than getting a new game, stuffed animal, doll or truck for the holidays, but choosing toys must be done with care.

In addition to stressing the importance of holiday decorating and fire safety through its Operation Decoration campaign, Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL), in cooperation with the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), reminds children and adults alike that toys can pose safety risks if they are misused.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), an average of 144,000 children were treated in hospital emergency rooms for toy-related injuries each year between 1993 and 1997. To play it safe this holiday season and all year long, the safety experts at UL and the NFPA offer the following tips and precautions for toy safety:

• When shopping for toys, especially electrical toys, look for markings that indicate the product has been tested for safety by an independent, third-party product safety and certification origination, such as UL. If you spot a UL Mark on a toy, it means that samples of that toy have been tested, (dropped, pulled, tugged at and generally torn apart) by UL engineering staff and found to comply with appropriate safety requirements.

• Pay close attention to the recommended age designation marked on the toy or its packaging. Always make sure the child's age matches or exceeds the manufacturer's recommended age specification.

• Before children play with a new toy, read the manufacturer's warning markings and if applicable, the use and care booklet. Make sure you and your children understand the proper way to play with the toy.

• Immediately discard plastic packaging and gift-wrapping-these materials can pose a suffocation hazard.

• Initially and periodically inspect toys for cracks, breaks, ripped seams, ect. Parts from damaged toys can break off and become a choke hazard. Sharp edges can cause dangerous cuts or other abrasions.

• If a toy requires assembly, make sure a responsible adult assembles the product by completely following the manufacturer's instructions.

• Keep deflated and broken balloons away from small children. Infants and toddlers can easily get them caught in their throats and suffocate.

• Electric toys can become a shock hazard if they're misused. Remember, water and electricity never mix. Never allow your children to use electric toys near water.

• Be alert. Watch television newscasts and scan newspapers and consumer magazines for information on toy or other household product recalls. Whenever possible, complete and return product warranty and registration forms to the manufacturer. If a product is recalled, the manufacturer can use these forms to contact you directly.

• In the event of an emergency, make sure you have a telephone numbers for the appropriate law enforcement agency, fire department and poison control center posted near every phone in your home.

Remember that the holiday season is a time for sharing. By sharing Operation Decoration's safety messages with your family, you and your family can enjoy a safer and happier holiday season.

Prairie Center offers two December holiday programs

Families can retreat from the busy holiday shopping season with two entertaining shows in December at the Schaumburg Prairie Center for the Arts.

Tchaikovsky's timeless score is brought to the stage when the Schaumburg Nutcracker is performed on December 3, 4, 5, 11, 12 and 13. The full-scale production, performed by the Schaumburg Dance Ensemble, a company of professional dancers and area students, is enhanced by lavish sets and striking costumes. Families will delight in the tale of young Clara who, in a dream, is led by her Nutcracker Prince to a world of Sugar Plum Fairies, Snow Queens, Russian Dancers and other magical characters. Tickets for the nutcracker cost $18 ($14 students and seniors). The Schaumburg Nutcracker is sponsored by Motorola.

*At 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 18, the Schaumburg Youth Symphony Orchestra presents the "Presto! Holiday Concert" for children and adults. Directed by Joseph Malmquist, the talented 50-member ensemble of advanced area high school musicians will perform popular holiday selections, including Sleigh Ride, Carol of the Bells, Greensleves, 12 Days of Christ*mas, along with music by Bizet, Tchaikovsky, Corelli, Vivaldi, Prokofiev and others. The evening will also feature the Spring Valley Women's Chorus, guest musicians, lively narration and special surprises. Tickets for "Presto!" cost $20 ($12 students and seniors).

Tickets for these programs can be ordered by calling the box office at 895-3600 weekdays from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. The Prairie Center is located at 201 Schaumburg Ct. in Schaumburg, IL.

Programming at the Prairie Center of the Arts is presented by the Village of Shcaumburg and is partially sponsored by a grant from the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency.

Holiday spending on the rise in 1999

Sixty-four percent of Americans will spend as much or more than they spent last year on holiday gifts, according to a survey by Debt Counselors of America®. The telephone survey of 1,000 people found that holiday shoppers will spend an average of $841 on gifts this year.

"If you charge the $841 on a credit card and pay only the minimum payment, it will take as long as 13 years to payoff this year's holiday gifts," said Steve Rhode, president and co-founder of Debt Counselors®. The calculation uses a conservative 14 percent interest rate with a 2 percent minimum payment.

"Instead of trying to find ways to pay down their debts, this is the time of year that people are adding to their debt load," Rhode said. "The holidays bring out our eagerness to buy gifts for family and friends, but that holiday spirit tends to knock many people out of their good spending habits."

The survey found that 34 percent of shoppers spend more when they are using a credit card. "Credit cards offer great convenience, but they also provide a false sense of available cash. Don't charge more than you can afford to payoff in a couple of months," Rhode advises.

Debt Counselors of America offers the following tips for a happy holiday season:

•Avoid "buy now and pay later" offers, which encourage you to spend money you don't have;

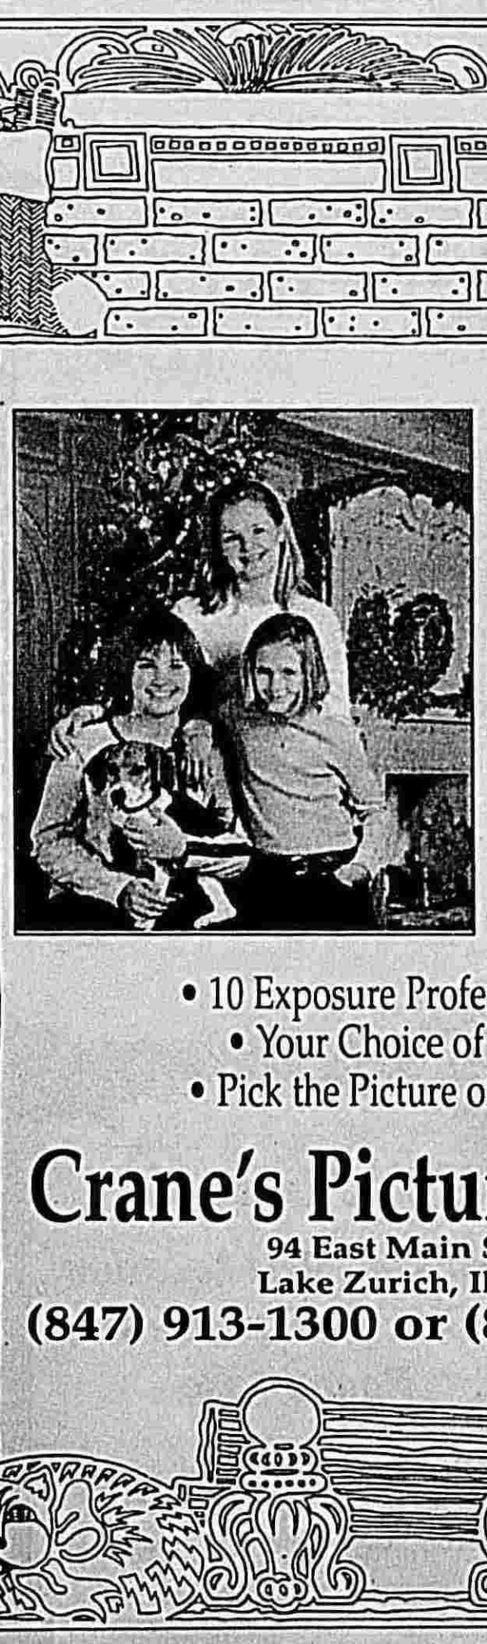

•Use a low-rate, major credit card instead of high-rate department store cards;

•Carry only two cards when shopping. Use one with a zero balance for purchases you will pay off in full. Use the other, low-interest-rate card, for purchased you will pay off over time;

•Record all of your credit card purchased in your checkbook register. Subtract the amount of the purchase from your available balance. That way, when the bill arrives, the money will be set aside in your checking account so you can pay the bill in full; and •Avoid "skip payment" offers that will ultimately cause you to pay more interest and face larger bills.

"When you're thinking about holiday gifts, remember that the personal involvement-not the cost-is what people remember," Rhode added. Debt Counselors is holding its annual Savviest Scrooge Contest during November to gather thrifty gift ideas. More details available at GetOutOfDebt.org. People should submit their unique thrifty gift ideas, along with their address and daytime phone number, to: scrooge@dca.org or by mail to: Savviest Scrooge, Debt Counselors of America, P.O. Box 8587, Gaithersburg, MD 20898-8587. The winners get cash and prizes, and will be announced in early December.

Shower loved ones with encouraging words and gifts

'Whether someone is feeling blue or just needs a pat on the back, encouraging words will uplift.'

The holidays are here again. A time of happiness and cheer - but not for everyone. For some people, the holidays bring on a major case of the blues. Whether it's from the stress of the season - not enough money for gifts, lack of time from too much rushing around - or from feeling lonely and missing faraway family and friends, not everyone gets swept up in the holiday spirit.

Do you have a friend or a family member who is a little down in the dumps this season? It's time to cheer him or her up with some thoughtful and unique holiday gifts, accompanied by clever cards filled with a play on words. The following ideas, courtesy of Robyn Freedman Spizman, author of "When Words Matter Most," will bring a smile to his or her face. As Spizman says, "Encouragement comes in many forms. Whether someone is feeling blue or just needs a pat on the back, encouraging words will uplift."

• Smart cookies - Send someone a box or arrangement of cookies with a note that says, "You're the smartest cookie I know."

• Penny for your thoughts - Go to the bank and give a bunch of shiny new pennies. Give them out to "shining examples" of people you appreciate. Tell them they shine in your book.

• Tea's the season to be jolly - Put together a basket of gourmet flavored teas. This gift is certain to warm up that special person on your gift list.

• Sealed with a kiss - Send someone a box filled with Hershey's Kisses and a card that reads, "All the kisses in the world aren't enough for you!"

• All wound up? - Send a windup toy to someone who is stressed out. Add a note that says, "In case you get too wound up, wind this up instead."

• Send a flashlight - Tell someone the world's a brighter place because he or she is in it.

• Think the world of someone - Give someone a map of the world tied up in a ribbon with a note that says, "I think the world of you."

• Been a great year! - Put a bag or box of jelly beans in your favorite friends' mailboxes with a note that says, "Happy New Year! It's 'bean' a great year thanks to you."

• Deliver a dictionary - Give someone who is extraordinary a dictionary and underline with a highlighter all the words in it that describe that individual. From "astounding" to "fabulous" to "marvelous," don' miss a word. Add a note that says, "I've underlined words from A to Z, to show how much you mean to me."

MICHIGAN GROWN

Concolor Fir
MICHIGAN GROWN
Natural Growing Areas
Prefers moist, well-drained soils near lakes and streams. It likes cold winters and warm summers.
Needles/Branches/Foliage
2" to 3" flat needles rounded at the tip. They are snugly attached and form a very soft feather-like spray of foliage. Soft blue green color, fragrant.

Eastern White Pine
Natural Growing Areas
Prefers moist, sandy soil. Can take cold, but not dry, cold winter. Few virgin stands remain because of heavy logging.
Needles/Branches/Foliage
Bluish-green needles are 2" - 5" long, soft, slen and flexible. Only White Pine has needles in bur of five. West White Pine is similar, but has short stouter needles.

Great American Chorus presents "Home for the Holidays"

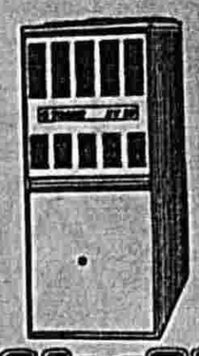

Why not start off the season right with your holiday music favorites? Get in the mood with heart warming sounds of the Great American Chorus! Join family and friends for a festive evening of song and good cheer. Your spirit will soar as you experience familiar holiday melodies arranged and performed in thrilling and fantastic style. You'll feel like you are "Home for the Holidays".

A holiday music extravaganza of men's harmony is the best way to describe the first annual holiday show hosted by the Great American Chorus from Gurnee. The performance begins at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 4, at the Ross Auditorium, Great Lakes Naval Training Center - just off Sheridan Road at Route 137, three miles east of I-94. Featured performers will include The Ritz, internationally acclaimed 1991 Gold Medal champion quartet of the Barbershop Harmony Society.

The Great American Chorus is the fastest growing men's singing group in Chicagoland. Already 75-men strong, the group was chartered in March of 1998 as the Lake County Chapter of the Society of the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. Less than two years old, the chorus has already established an international reputation as one of the finest in the Society. In September the chorus was invited by the International Fine Arts Institute to represent the United States at the second International Russian Barbershop Harmony Festival, sponsored by the Russian Ministry of Culture, in St. Petersburg, Russia in August of 2000.

HP & Me haven for collectors

It seems everyone collects something. Today many companies cater to collectors and gift specialists like The HP & Me Gift Shop are where shoppers can find many of the collectibles they are looking for with themselves or Christmas gifts in mind.

Owner Kay Creger has been in the gift shop business for 10 years, since 1990, and has operated The HP & Me Gift Shop, located at 629 Rollins Rd. in Round Lake Beach, for the last seven years.

Located just 2 1/2 blocks W. of Cedar Lake Rd., Creger says her shop "is one of the best kept secrets in town. But once customers find it they usually become regulars, with the clients and the staff becoming a shopping family."

With HP standing for Higher Power, one would expect the large selection of self help books offered by the gift shop. Collectible porcelain dolls, Cottage Collectibles, Krystonia Crystal figurines, dragons, gargoyles, Winnie the Pooh and those darling little Dreamsicles, as well as a full line of Ty products, are at HP just waiting for you.

Good news for holiday shoppers! HP & Me is running a special holiday sale from Nov. 22 to Dec. 22 when sales of $25 or more will have $5 taken off; $50 or more will have $10 taken off, and sales totaling $80 or more will rate a $15 discount. This sale will not include items already on sale or any Ty products.

What do these symbols mean?

There are many symbols of Christmas, from mistletoe to jingle bells. While most people can identify these objects, how many actually know what they represent?

The Yule log — Many years ago, on the day before Christmas, men in many parts of Europe would go into the woods searching for a log to burn. When they found the right one, they would drag it back home. This log is the Yule log.

According to Donald E. Dossey, Ph.D., author of "Holiday Folklore, Phobias and Fun" (Outcomes Unlimited Press Inc.), it was believed that all who lent a hand in bringing the log would "be safe from the powers of witchcraft, and that once lit, the burning ule log would drive out evil spirits." The log held all types of magic. If you touched the log, you woud have good luck and bad luck would fall upon you if you let the log go out.

Today people still beliee in burning a Yule log for good luck. Some believe that they will have even more good luck if they keep it burning for the 12 days of Christmas.

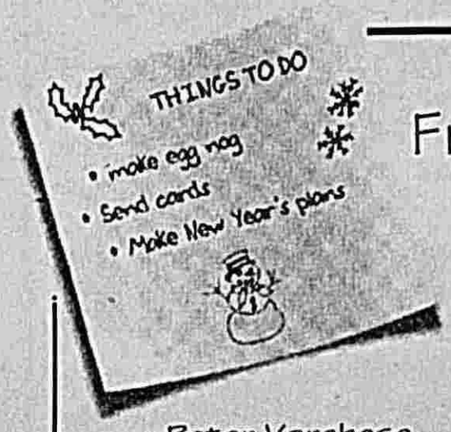

This year, try to save a piece of the Yule log to help start next year's fire. That is a sign of good luck, too.

WealShire Memory Clinic Moving Alzheimer's Care Forward

Alzheimer's Disease (AD) affects an estimated 5 million American adults. This progressive, degenerative disease attacks the brain and results in impaired memory, thinking and behavior. Alzheimer's Disease is only one of many forms of Dementia, a memory loss condition. The causes of Alzheimer's Disease or Related Dementias (ADRD) vary, however, memory loss conditions require professional medical attention from a trusted source. The Wealshire's reputation as Illinois' premiere provider of care for those with Alzheimer's Disease or Related Dementias combined with The Wealshire's innovative philosophy of activity based programming can now offer memory assessment services to those not residing at The Wealshire. The Wealshire Memory Clinic, located on The Wealshire. The Wealshire Memory Clinic, located on The Wealshire campus, accepts patients for neurological testing of memory loss conditions.

Brookfield Zoo offers unique gift idea for the holidays

This year, take holiday giving to a new height and "adopt" Dusti giraffe for friends and family members this holiday season through Brookfield Zoo's Parents Program. Dusti, a 3-year-old reticulated giraffe, arrived at the zoo last October on a breeding loan from Bush Gardens, Florida. He is an excellent addition to the zoo's female heard because his genetic line is not well represented in the captive population of his species.

Because everyones taste is different, the Parents Program offers four different packages. Each adoption package includes shared care benefits: an official adoption certificate, a color photo of Dusti, a fact sheet on giraffes, a window decal, updates on Dusti during the year, and an invitation to the annual Brookfield Zoo's Parents Program.

The $65 Premier package also features a stylish, embroidered adult sweatshirt designed exclusively for Brookfield Zoo's Parents Program. The $55 Premium package includes a special child's sweatshirt featuring Dusti. The $45 Plus package includes a cute and cuddly 12-inch plush giraffe. A $25 package featuring only the shared care benefits can also be purchased.

Your contribution to the zoo's Parents Program will help care for Dusti for one year. These special holiday adoption packages are available through Jan., 15, 2000, or while supplies last. A gift card carrying your name can accompany each gift.

For more information about adopting Dusti giraffe or any of the Brookfield Zoo's animals this holiday season, call the zoo's Parents Program at (708) 485-0263, ext. 341.

Open every day of the year, Brookfield Zoo is located at First Avenue and 31st Street in Brookfield, just 14 miles west of downtown Chicago. The zoo is accessible via the Stevenson (I-55) and Eisenhower (I290) expressways, Tri-State Tollway (I-294), Burlington Northern commuter line, and PACE bus service. For more information about Brookfield Zoo, visit its web site at www.brookfielszoo.org

Barrington Lyric rings in the season with Carillon Bell Choir

On Sunday, Dec. 5, Barrington Chapter of Lyric Opera of Chicago members and guests will gather at the Hilldale Golf Club in Hoffman Estates (1655 Ardwick Drive, Hoffman Estates—near intersection of Higgins & Huntington Roads) to ring in the Season with the Carillon Bell Choir and Praise Singers from the Village Presbyterian Church of Northbrook. From 2:00 to 4:00 p.m., guests will share holiday camaraderie, enjoy light hors d' oeuvres before the program, be entertained with music of the Carillon Bell Choir, the Praise Singers and trombonist Robert Plagemann (formerly from Barrington) from Chicago. The program will include a variety of festive songs with some vocal renditions complete with audience participation. Dessert and coffee will follow. Janice Semerad from Inverness will serve as the afternoon's hospitality chairwoman.

Members are $15. Guests are $20. Cash bar. Kindly respond by Nov. 27 to Judy Allen, 1350 Carlisle Drive, Barrington 60010. 382-6750. For information, please phone program chairwoman Bonnie Westphal at 885-2794.

For inquiries on the Barrington Chapter (225 members and still growing), please phone Howard Robins 437-2185. To share rides, Maureen Brown 382-7015.

Please visit Barrington Lyric's Web site (http://nsn.nslsilus.org/bakhome/Lyric). You may also visit Lyric Opera of Chicago's Web site: (www.lyricopera.org.)

Riverport Chorus presents "Holiday Inn"

The Championship Riverport Chorus of Sweet Adelines, International, will present its 35th annual show, "Holiday Inn - A Community Celebration" on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 5, at 2 p.m. at Reuther Central High School. Come early as Kenosha welcomes the holiday season, make plans to stop at our "Inn," warm up and enjoy the sounds of the holidays with our award-winning chorus. Later, ride the trolley and watch the city tree lighting.

The 100-voice women's acapella barbershop chorus has invited community singers to join us at our "Inn" to sing several holiday selections with the chorus. We've also invited some surprise guests that we are sure you will enjoy. Several quartets are scheduled to perform.

Women in the Riverport Chorus are from southeastern Wisconsin and northeastern Illinois. They specialize in singing four-part harmony, barbershop style.

Tickets will be available at the door for $12. Advance tickets for $10 are recommended, however, and are available from Riverport members or by calling (414) 859-2343, (414) 742-2303 or 546-8860. Make your reservations for December 5th at the "Holiday Inn." Check-in time is 2 p.m. We'll put our smiles on for you.

Holiday candlelight concert planned at Pops Highwood

Add some sparkle to the holiday season with the Holiday Candlelight Concert on Sunday, Dec. 19 at Pops Highwood, 214 Green Bay Road, Highwood, featuring Judy Roberts and Jackie Allen. Performance times are scheduled for 5 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The renowned duo will be performing songs from their recent CD, "Santa Baby" at this jazzy seasonal concert accompanied by Greg Fishman on saxophone and Dan Shapiro on bass.

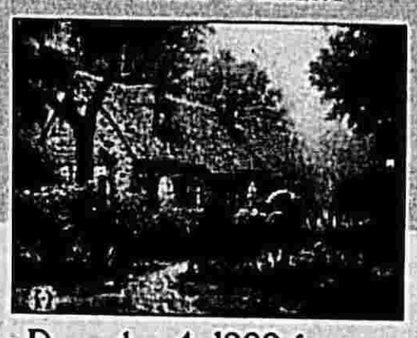

"We are excited to be presenting Highland Park's own Judy Roberts at our candlelight concert for the second year in a row," said Tom Verhey, owner of pop's Highwood. "Judy's melodic vocals and striking piano style are sure to warm up everyone's spirit and spread holiday cheer throughout the club."

The cost is $9 per person and reservations are requested. Champagne, full bar, and light food menu available during concert. Free parking. For more information and reservations, call 226-1313.
